HORACE W. WALSH

Evicted Man May Have Ended His Life

Orrin S. Walsh, a paralytic, who was evicted from his house in A street Saturday for the non-payment of rent, is now at the St. James hotel, and is greatly worried over the absence of his brother, Horace W. Walsh, who disappeared Saturday morning. In yesterday's edition of The Sun there was an account of the eviction, because of delinquency in paying their rent. Horace Walsh is a civil war pensioner and the two, who are both over 60 years of age, managed to live on the pension. The brothers were very much devoted to each other and Orrin said this morning that a cross word never passed between the two, that one was willing to cast his lot with the other no matter how hard the road was to travel. Being together the greater part of their life and as they thought a great deal of each other, the disappearance of Horace is keenly felt by his brother.

Last week because there was a delay in sending along the pension money the two were ordered out by a constable. Horace went out at 8 o'clock in the morning to look for a place to reside and also to get a man to move the furniture, and since then he has not been seen or heard from.

A representative of The Sun called at the St. James hotel this morning and during the conversation with Orrin S. Walsh, the latter had the following to say:

"My brother and I have lived happily for years and years and his troubles were my troubles and mine were his. No matter what we had we always divided and neither of us would see the other in want. Horace is one of the best natured men I ever knew. He never had a cross word to say and no one knows better than myself that his road was a hard one. I am suffering from a paralytic shock and am almost helpless, but Horace attended to my every want and we managed to get along on his pension. We bothered no one and lived quietly together.

"I do not care to talk about the eviction, for it separated two brothers who loved each other and I have a strange presentment that I have seen the last of my brother. If he was alive or able to come to me he would, for the neighbors know where I am."

Continuing his story he said: "On Saturday morning at eight o'clock we knew that we had to leave the house before night and my brother went to look for a room where we could go and also to see a Mr. Claus on Lincoln street to remove our household goods to a storage place. He bid me good-bye and said he would return soon. I d not know where he went but think that he went to Mr. Claus, for that gentleman came to the house and removed the goods to a place of safety.

"I waited around the house all day. He did not come to dinner, neither did he come to supper, and then I became worried. Not knowing what to do and as I had no place to lay my head that night I waited until 9.30 o'clock when I had one of the neighbors hire a carriage and I directed the man to drive to the drug store where my son works in Branch street. When I reached the drug store I found that my son was away on his vacation and as I had to go some place to bed I told the man to drive me to the St. James hotel. I have been here since then and not a word or a message have I received from Horace. I know that something has happened him."

In the course of his conversation Mr. Walsh said that owing to his condition and the pecuniary circumstances that he and his brother had been in he thought his brother's mind had been turned and that his brother had spoken about going either to the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea or at Togus. He felt sure that Horace would have told him when he intended to start. Mr. Walsh said that he thought that some person killed him.

"Did your brother have any enemies, or is there anyone who would do him bodily harm?" asked the reporter.

"No, I do not know of a person who thought ill of him, for he would not do anything out of the way, but there is something that tells me that he is dead or hurt in some manner."

An inquiry brought out the fact that Horace Walsh was at times unbalanced in his mind. His brother informed the reporter that Horace was also quite despondent at times, and it is thought that owing to the trouble the men were in, and there being no signs of better times for them, together with the heat, that Horace may have ended his life, probably by jumping into a canal or one of the rivers.

GOING TOO FAST

Autoist Fined For Exceeding Billerica's Speed Limit

Henry B. Morse of Newtonville, in police court today, pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with exceeding the automobile speed limit in Billerica on Sunday last, and was fined $10. Morse said he did not know that he was exceeding the speed limit. He said it was rather difficult for the automobilist to tell how fast he is speeding and he pleaded guilty, he said, on the word of Officer Conway. No such qualification, however, was allowed by by the court and Mr. Morse pleaded guilty on his own responsibility, without any reference to the officer's claim.

Officer Conway found two victims Sunday afternoon. The second one was William J. Rooney of Boston and he will appear in police court Thursday morning, at least he has been summoned to appear. He was in charge of a motor car owned by H. S. Allen of Manchester, N. H. Rooney would have escaped the vigilance of Officer Conway and his assistants but for the fact that his machine broke down. He allowed it was pretty "bum" luck. Rooney made the eighth of a mile in seventeen seconds and Officer Conway said that before Rooney struck the speed test, the measured distance, his machine was making about fifty miles an hour, and people in Billerica allow "that's going some."

FOR ILLEGAL KEEPING.

Pierre Rougeois and Wilfred L. L'Esperance pleaded guilty to complaints charging them with illegally keeping and exposing for sale intoxicating liquors. They were fined $100 each for illegal keeping and the sale complaints were placed on file with affidavits.

The case of Sumner W. Williams and William Looby, charged with illegally keeping liquor, came up on a continuance and was continued again, this time to July 19.

Anthony Uzdan, charged with illegally keeping liquor, was ordered in $300 for his appearance before the court on Friday morning.

THE DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Judge Hadley has remarked several times on the increase of drunken offenders, especially women, during the last few weeks. His honor would favor a drive against the places that cater to the women who go 'round to the little side door.

Bernard Jacobson, a one-armed man, was charged with drunkenness and denied the allegation. Bernard's wife said that her husband was very cross, while under the influence of liquor, but she was willing to excuse him this time. The court, however, after hearing what the arresting officer had to say, decided that a trip to the workhouse would do Bernard all the good in the world, and Bernard, pleading and penitent, was booked to join Dr. Donlon's force at the city farm. Bernard wanted to ride in Mr. Slattery's wagon but the court couldn't see it.

Winfred Rock will inhale the fresh air at the workhouse, barring accident, for the next three months.

Bridget Wilson will keep her company, and will have another month to spend after Winfred is given her release.

Catherine McDermott will be there to say "good night" and "good morning" for one month only.

John E. Corcoran will sojourn at the state farm until the second week in October. Robert Hendry was sentenced to the workhouse and was then placed on probation. Margaret Kelley and Thomas A. Armour were fined $6 each. Seven first offenders were fined $2 each and four were released.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Samuel and Sarah Miller of Billerica were charged with assault and battery and had their case continued one month.

PUT OUT FLAMES

Fr. McDermod's Coolness Averts Bad Accident

Owing to the presence of mind of Rev. Hugh M. McDermod, little Miss Molly Kane of Elm street narrowly escaped being severely burned at St. Peter's church, Sunday evening.

The accident occurred during a reception of children into the children of Mary sodality and the little girls wearing white veils and carrying lighted candles marched about the church and then proceeded to the altar. When near the altar a draught from the vestry door threw the flame on the candle carried by Miss Kane into her veil which hung about her shoulders and in an instant it was in flames, and it looked to those in the front of the church as though the entire line of girls would be enveloped in the flames.

Fr. McDermod who was at the further side of the church happened to glance over just in time to see the veil catch fire. He appreciated the situation in an instant and rushing up to the altar railing grasped the little girl in his arms and beat out the flames. It took only a minute to beat out the flame and the girl escaped without injury while Fr. McDermod sustained slight burns on his hands.

HIS HAND INJURED.

Joseph Donahue, residing at 15 Merrill street, and employed in the bottling department of the Harvard brewey, while at work this morning, met with an accident, one of the bottles which he was holding exploded, inflicting a severe gash in his right hand. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to St. John's hospital, where his injury was dressed.

FOR DRUNKENNESS

Soldier Arrested Here May be Court Martialed

Corporal Brylerger came to Lowell from Fort Banks this morning and returned with Patrick McNamara, the soldier who was convicted of drunkenness in the local police court a few days ago. Judge Hadley's sentence was waived and the soldier was taken into custody by the United States officer. "What will they do with him?" asked a police officer of Corporal Brylerger. "He will probably get three years," replied the corporal.

PELHAM FARMER

SEIZED WITH SUDDEN FIT OF INSANITY.

John Quigley, a farmer residing in Pelham, raised ructions on Hampshire street in Lawrence Saturday morning.

Quigley was riding on Hampshire street, near Lowell street, about 10 o'clock, when he suddenly jumped from his team. He pulled off his coat and vest and threw them into one of William Forbes & Sons' wagons. Quigley then ran to Maloney's store at the corner of Hampshire and Valley streets and picked up two pumpkins which he hurled at the crowd of spectators who were following him. The pumpkins went wide of their mark and were shattered to pieces by coming in contact with the pavement.

Quigley continued his wild run until he reached Holiban Brothers' store. Here he picked up two tonic bottles and was in the act of throwing them through a plate glass window when he was seized by Joseph Doyle and J. Pracetz, who held him until Policeman Reardon arrived and took Quigley to the station. Quigley was examined at the Lawrence police station and it was decided that he was temporarily insane. The Concord, N. H., authorities were communicated with and an officer was sent from that place Saturday night and Quigley was given into his charge. It was necessary to strap him in order to prevent his doing harm. The effects of the heat and a copious supply of drink no doubt caused his trouble, which is believed to be but temporary.

INSTANTLY KILLED

BALL PLAYER WAS STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

PITTSBURG, July 12.—Charles Jefferies, left fielder of the Johnstown baseball team, was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon and died almost instantly. The team had just finished practice and Jeffries was in the act of throwing the ball to second baseman Sapha, when there was a flash of lightning and he fell on the field.

Jefferies is the man the New York National league team was after. His parents reside at Lancaster, Pa.

83 YEARS OLD

Charles H. Hanson Sr. Observes Anniversary

Mr. Charles H. Hanson, one of the oldest citizens of this city, yesterday celebrated the eight-third anniversary of his birth at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Daniel R. Frye, 219 Gibson street. The celebration was confined to the immediate relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson, their children and grandchildren.

Mr. Hanson was born in Barnston, Canada, 83 years ago and came to Lowell in May, 1840. Soon after his arrival in this city he went to work on the old Middlesex canal on a canal boat that plied between Middlesex Village and Boston. Afterwards he went into the employ of Horace Howard as a teamster, but later embarked in trade for himself on Rock street in the tanning and stable business in which he continued with marked success until 1887, when he retired and left it in the hands of his sons, the Hon. C. H. Hanson and Mr. J. S. Hanson, whose horse repository is known as one of the best of its kind to be found in this part of the country.

Mr. Hanson was always a staunch republican and at the time Fletcher M. Ayer was running for mayor, Mr. Hanson was his right-hand man.

The old gentleman is something of a gardener, having one of the finest gardens in the Highlands, the care of which falls entirely on him.

All of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson's family live in the immediate neighborhood where the aged couple reside, so their home is a sort of rendezvous for them.

MANY MESSAGES

CONGRATULATIONS POUR IN ON SENATOR DAVIS.

ELKINS, W. Va., July 12.—More than 300 congratulatory telegrams have been received by ex-Senator Davis upon his nomination for vice-president. Among these messages was one from Judge Parker. The expression of weariness which the convention left on Davis' features has disappeared. Throughout yesterday there was a steady stream of townsmen going to and from "Graceland," the beautiful Davis home on an eminence west of the town of Elkins. All were received by Mr. Davis himself, or by his private secretary. The vice-presidential candidate refuses to talk on the money question until Judge Parker has made a statement. He has made no change in his plans but has arranged to meet Senator Hill in two weeks for that purpose. He will go to Bedford Springs for two weeks in August.

STABBED HIMSELF

FEARFUL CULMINATION TO DOUBLE MURDER.

OMAHA, July 12.—William M. Zellar supplied a fearful culmination to the brutal double murder of his wife and his father-in-law Saturday by appearing unexpectedly in the midst of the mourners at the funeral yesterday afternoon and slashing himself twice across the body, disemboweling himself.

A posse of more than 100 policemen, deputy sheriffs and farmers were searching the adjacent woods and fields for miles around for the murderer at the moment he emerged from a thicket on the cemetery grounds.

Zellar was still armed with the knife with which he did the murders. The effects of two days' flight without food and rest were apparent in his colorless face. People at the graves were dazed at the sight of him and before they had time either to cry out or run he drew the knife twice across his abdomen and fell to the ground.

City Physician Ralph, who was near by, wrenched the knife from Zellar's hand and took precautions to prevent him, harming himself further, but he will die.

Zellar is a market gardener, who had borne a good reputation till Saturday morning, when he stabbed his wife to death and then killed his father-in-law, J. R. Burkamp, 69 years old.

POLLING PLACES

COMMITTEE STARTS TO SOLVE A KNOTTY PROBLEM.

The committee on polling places met at City Hall, last evening and heard City Clerk Dadman read the law in regard to joint primaries. The committee was much at sea as to just what to do in relation to the primaries and City Clerk Dadman informed them that action must be taken before long as the time for filing nomination papers opens in August. The primaries for state election will be held Sept. 27.

The meeting was to decide whether primaries should be held by wards or by precincts. Alderman Wilson favored splitting up the different sections of the city, having the primaries held by wards where there was not a great population, and by precincts where a big vote would be polled.

Relative to the time of day between which hours the primaries would be open nothing was done. They must be open in cities for nine consecutive hours. In Boston they have opened at 6 in the morning and closed at 3 in the afternoon.

It was finally voted to adjourn, subject to a call from the chair.

PLOT EXPOSED

WOMAN TOLD HOW PRISONERS PLANNED TO ESCAPE.

LACONIA, N. H., July 12.—A well-arranged plot of escape by the prisoners in the Belknap county jail was discovered and thwarted yesterday through information given by a woman.

Mrs. Parsons, wife of Howard E. Parsons, who is held for the grand jury on a charge of abducting Addie Tate of this city, informed police officer Rowen that one Mrs. Zalouis, wife of a Russian who is in the jail, had confided that she had taken into the jail when visiting her husband some saws for cutting metal and a file.

Officer Rowen at once told Jailer Weymouth yesterday, and he and Sheriff Philbrook made a thorough search of the jail. A confession was obtained from one of the prisoners to the effect that the tools were in the cell of a prisoner named Legrand. When confronted Legrand admitted the plot, and from his cell were taken five saws and a new file. Later he also produced a saw frame which was hidden in the main room of the jail outside the cells on a niche near the ceiling.

As near as can be learned the tools have been in the possession of the prisoners about ten days. The prisoners now in the jail, including the Russian, who is held for the higher court on a charge of adultery, are Legrand, who is serving a sentence of one year for the conversion of a mileage book and whose time is nearly up; Parsons, James Danforth of Wolfboro, who is held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of assaulting a 14-year-old girl in Gilford; Edward Corey, held for larceny; Nole Larork, held on a charge of assaulting a female child; Peter Ogden, a half-breed Indian, held on a charge of attempted highway robbery, and Clarence Hurley, held for breaking and entering and larceny.

The authorities believe that Danforth was the ringleader. Sheriff Philbrook has given orders that the strictest watch be put upon all visitors admitted to the jail, and all the prisoners have been put into parti-colored prison suits.

KILLED BY FALL

STAGING ON ROOF OF POST-OFFICE GAVE WAY.

WARE, July 12.—About 10.30 yesterday morning while Louis Fountain, aged 41, and Thomas Parker, aged 70, were shingling the roof of the postoffice at Gilbertville in the town of Hardwick, the staging they were on gave way, throwing them to the ground.

Fountain was instantly killed and Parker fatally injured. The latter was alive last night but no hope is held of his recovery.

Fountain leaves a wife and 11 children, and Parker, who is a widower, has nine children.

BROKE HIS HAND

MARTIN CANOLE HAS TOUGH LUCK.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—Martin Canole had the misfortune last night to break his hand in the second round of his bout with Willie Fitzgerald at the National A. C. The first round was exciting enough to please any one, but after the accident, which the spectators were not aware of until the bout was over, Canole acted entirely on the defensive.

The result was that the last rounds were tame. While Fitzgerald made no effort to take advantage of his opponent's condition he had the better of the bout.

PRIEST STABBED

Rev. John P. Barry May Not Live

HE WAS ATTACKED BY FORMER JANITOR

The Latter Was in the Insane Asylum

BOSTON, July 12.—Suffering intense agony from two severe knife wounds, the Rev. Fr. John P. Barry, formerly of Boston, and now pastor of St. Anne's Catholic Church, Youngstown, O., is lying between life and death in a hospital in that city.

Fr. Barry was struck down at 10.30 o'clock last Saturday morning by a former janitor at his church just as he had come from an errand of mercy to one of his parishioners, and after he had greeted his assailant, with a shake of the hand.

John Berry is under arrest, charged with the crime. He coolly expressed his sorrow at not having completed "the job." He was in an asylum for about a year. Last Christmas he was discharged as cured.

On Saturday morning he made many inquiries in the neighborhood of the parochial residence regarding the whereabouts of Fr. Barry, who had been out of town for a week, and evidently followed him to the house of Thomas Fleming on West Federal street, where the priest had gone, and in front of which the stabbing occurred.

Upon emerging from this house Fr. Barry saw his old sexton in the yard, and advanced toward him with outstretched hand. They conversed for a minute or two, and the next that was known was when Mr. Fleming saw the two men in each other's grasp, and heard the priest utter an exclamation of pain and a cry for help. Hurrying to his aid, Mr. Fleming found a cheap pocket knife firmly wedged in the priest's left eye, which had passed through the eyeball and both lids, destroying the sight. Another wound was made in the abdomen, low down, which opened it and caused severe internal wounds.

Fr. Barry was removed to the City hospital, where he underwent an operation. Late Saturday afternoon he was resting as well as could be expected.

The affair occurred on the 19th anniversary of Fr. Barry's ordination.

After his arrest the assassin refused to talk, except to say: "I am sorry I did not finish the job."

Fr. Barry was born in Boston, October 7, 1861, being one of a family of four children, all of whom are now living. He was the son of Thomas and Ann Barry, who came to Boston from Ireland.

Fr. Barry was educated in the public schools here and graduated from the English High school with honors. He began his classical studies at Boston college, remaining there two years, after which he went to Nicolet college, Quebec, from which he graduated in June, 1881.

He began his theological studies at the Grand Seminary in Montreal, Can., under the direction of the Sulpician Fathers. He has been pastor of St. Ann's church for 17 years.

The condition of Fr. Barry is still believed by the physicians in attendance to be dangerous. They were more hopeful last night, however, than at any time since the assault, and they think there is a good chance, if blood poisoning can be averted. They are not yet determined whether the knife thrust in the eye pierced the brain.

JUDGE PARKER

Congratulated by Cleveland on His Nomination

ESOPUS, N. Y., July 11.—The history of the new famous Parker telegram and the reply to it of the democratic convention at St. Louis constitutes one of the most interesting and important aspects of the question. Light was thrown upon the subject today by a close friend of Judge Parker who declined to allow the use of his name.

"When Judge Parker went to bed at 9.45 Friday night," said this man, "he did not know anything at all about the financial side of the platform which had been agreed upon, more than was outlined in the very brief bulletins telephoned from Kingston. When informed by the Associated Press correspondent at 6.50 a.m., of the bare fact of his nomination, he knew no more and the first real knowledge he had of the action of the convention on the financial plank in the platform was when he read the New York morning newspapers. Immediately after breakfast, that is to say, a little after nine o'clock he started for a horseback ride. Just before mounting his horse, a telegram was handed him giving a concise outline of the platform. From the moment of his reading of that telegram, it was noticed that he was very much preoccupied and as he rode off his head was bowed as if in deep thought.

"About 10.30 o'clock he rode up to the railroad station, asked for telegrams and received quite a bunch of them. I happen to know that none of them gave the information he wanted. He chatted with the reporters for a while and it was afterwards recalled that some of his questions to them betrayed the fact of his lack of first knowledge of the convention's action. He waited about the station almost irresolute in bearing for fully ten minutes and then suddenly galloped back toward Rosemont. Another hour afterwards his famous telegram was filed and it was underway.

"That night while the convention tossed and billowed with the sensation he had produced he did not go early to bed as he had done the night before, although the celebration in his honor ceased and the people dispersed as early as 10.15 p.m. He sat up until after 3 a.m., closely watching the bulletins and made no move toward retiring until after the action of the convention upon his telegram was made plain to him.

"It is not true," said the gentleman quoted above, "that Judge Parker sent a message to Senator Hill demanding the insertion of a gold plank. His telegram to William F. Sheehan was his first communication directly or indirectly with the convention."

Judge Parker received today the following message from former president Cleveland:

"Buzzards Bay, July 11.

"You must permit me to express my gratitude and admiration for the splendid manifestion of honor and courage you have given to your countrymen and to the democracy in your St. Louis despatch."

The telegram from Wm. R. Hearst on Sunday evidently went astray but a duplicate was received today as follows:

"Chicago, July 10.

"I congratulate you upon your nomination and upon the expression of democratic principles in the democratic platform on which you stand. I hope that battling for the people and such principles you will lead the democrats to victory."

Judge Parker immediately wrote Mr. Hearst the following letter:

"Dear Sir:—Just a word to thank you for your very kind message of congratulation and to assure you of my very grateful appreciation."

Other telegrams received today include the following:

From ex-Mayor Jos. Quincy of Boston:

"Heartiest congratulations. Your telegram gave great satisfaction here."

From U. S. supreme court, Rufus W. Peckham and his son, H. A. Peckham, dated Colorado Springs, Col.:

"Congratulations, now for a win.

From former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson from Bloomington, Ills.:

"My hearty congratulations."

So far as his plans have as yet been arranged Judge Parker will not make a tour of the country. His personal campaign will be conducted in a way similar to that of President McKinley to a large degree from the porch at Rosemont. He will probably make but one or two pilgrimages to the largest cities.

CHAIRMAN HARRITY

SAYS PARKER IS A STRONG CANDIDATE.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—In speaking today of the action of the democratic national convention, Wm. F. Harrity, former chairman of the national committee, said:

"Judge Parker's timely telegram to the convention has strengthened his candidacy immensely. His action with reference to the absence from the platform of a gold standard declaration showed great courage and decision of character and his strong personality will overshadow what many regard as a defect in the democratic platform. Democracy is to be congratulated upon having a candidate of such heroic metal and I predict that his strength will increase as the campaign progresses.

WESTERN UNION

SAYS PARKER MESSAGE WAS NOT DELAYED.

NEW YORK, July 11.—General Supt. Brooks of the Western Union Telegraph company said today that the message sent by Judge Parker to Mr. Sheehan at St. Louis relative to the platform adopted by the democratic national committee, was not delayed by the Western Union Telegraph company in delivery. The message, Mr. Brooks says, was transmitted from Esopus immediately and delivered promptly at the address given and a copy handed to Mr. Sheehan personally as soon as he could be found which was at 2.30 p. m. The Associated Press can state, however, that the story of a verification of the despatch is correct and that the request for the same came from St. Louis but from whom is not known.

BODY OF MAN

FOUND SEWED UP IN A MATTRESS.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Sewed up in a mattress the body of a man who had been murdered by a series of stab wounds over the right breast was found early yesterday in the bushes along the bank of Wissahickon creek near Rittenhouse street bridge.

The body was that of a foreigner, probably an Italian. The hands were calloused and marked with dark stains such as might soil those of a machinist. A scapular, a pay check and a paper reading "See Mr. Way at the office on Wednesday morning" were in his pocket.

It is by the paper and the check that the police are trying to find the man's employer. The check was merely a circular disk with 617 stamped on it. Various features of the crime point to Mafia work, but until identification can be made the police admit they are groping in the dark.

Tracks on the ground indicate that the body had been brought over from Germantown in a light wagon drawn by one horse. It came down Rittenhouse street to the drive, turned up and went on for about fifty yards. Then the mattress containing the body was hurled over the rail into the bushes.

Park Guard Goell began to patrol this morning and noticed the mattress. He got a rake and turned it over. He felt something hard, and, tearing open the side, a hand and arm were exposed. He called more police by 'phone and waited until they came.

The body was limp and the man had not been dead very long. There were ten stabs in the breast and four in the groin. Half the detective force worked on the case last night trying to secure an identification.

It is more profitable to advertise honorably and fail in the attempt to get business, than to advertise dishonorably and succeed for a little while.

THREE DROWNED

FATHER, MOTHER AND DAUGHTER WERE LOST.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A telegram was received by Dr. Herman T. Peck of 166 Hulsey street, Brooklyn, yesterday from Key West, telling of the drowning of his father, Capt. George W. Peck, his mother and sister.

Capt. Peck commanded the steamship Mae, owned by A. B. Hull & Co., of this city. He lived with his wife and 15-year-old daughter, Sarah, at 560 Hancock street, Brooklyn. Mrs. Peck closed up the Hancock street house last week, and with her daughter joined her husband on the Mae when she started for Norfolk, Va., on a voyage to the Tortugas.

The telegram received by Capt. Peck's son said that his father had taken Mrs. Peck and Sarah out in a small boat for a sail and the boat capsized. He was drowned in trying to save his wife and daughter.

Capt. Peck was born in St. John, N. B., and had commanded coastwise vessels many years. He was 58 years old. Besides his son, Dr. Herman T. Peck, two married daughters survive him.

NAVAL BATTLE EXPECTED SOON

ST. PETERSBURG, July 11, 3.25 p. m.—General Kuropatkin, according to private advices from the front will not make a serious attempt to hold Tatchekiao above Kaichou, midway between that place and Haicheng and where the railroad connects with the branch from New Chwang. Developments of the Japanese strength on the Sluyen roads seem to be forcing a Russian concentration between Haicheng and Liao Yang but preparations seem to be making to defend the former as long as possible. General Count Keller's force which was a little southeast of Liao Yang has apparently moved farther southward to stay the advance of the Japanese direct from the Feng Wang Cheng-Haicheng roads.

The pressure on the Russian left rear as it withdraws continues. There is now seemingly practically nothing in the way of a Japanese occupation of New Chwang and the completion of the Japanese line across the head of the Liao-Tung peninsula. The fortification of the passes of the Fen Shui range and the semi-circle eastward of Liao Yang is reported. With pressure on two sides, if the Japanese have any serious intentions of pushing home their advance in the direction of Mukden, General Kuropatkin's position would seem decidedly dangerous. The Japanese seem assured of the command of the mouth of the Liao river valley, which will give them a new base with two routes, one direct to Mukden and the other to the Sinmintung river and the imperial high road. Severe fighting is not improbable north of Tatchekiao but the belief is growing that Kuropatkin does not intend to accept a general engagement at this time, even if challenged.

Additional details of the Hoiyan fight July 4 describe the Russian bayonet charge as being the most brilliant incident of the war.

Japanese and Russians were found dead in the trench with their bayonets through each other's bodies.

No further details have been made public here of the engagement at Kaichou. Not one of the newspapers has a special despatch on the subject. Important developments at sea are anticipated.

INVASION OF INDIA IS NOT FEARED

LONDON, July 11.—The attempt of the London Daily Express to revive the "Bogie" of a possible Russian invasion of India by the publication of an alleged plan of campaign prepared by General Kuropatkin, as cabled to the Associated Press early this morning, has not created a ripple of excitement.

Even if the document is authentic it is recognized that it will not give the slightest cause for alarm. It is pointed out that the whole scheme as published is of so academic a sphere that there is nothing in the nature of a direct menace therein. Probably the pigeon-holes of all the war offices in Europe are filled with similar plans, providing for theoretic invasion of their next door neighbor's territory.

EMPEROR'S FAREWELL TO DEPARTING TROOPS

MOSCOW, July 11.—The emperor's second journey to south Russia to speed the departing troops has thus far been attended by demonstrations similar to those made during his first tour. At Kolomna after holding a review his majesty addressed the troops expressing his assurance that they would maintain the honor of the Russian arms. An impressive scene followed. The emperor, who was mounted, raised aloft an ikon and the officers and men sank to their knees while his majesty made the sign of the cross with the ikon above their bowed heads and conferred the blessing of himself and the empress on them. A deputation of workmen from the mechanical works, through their spokesman, addressed the emperor thus:

"Little father, we are happy to see you take such a personal interest in the soldiers, and we working-men are ready to enter the ranks and shed our blood for the emperor and the fatherland.

"Graciously accept bread and salt on behalf of the loyal subjects, the workingmen."

RUSSIANS LOST ABOUT 200 MEN

ST. PETERSBURG, July 11—6.05 p. m.—Further details of the Russian retirement from Kaichou which is hailed as a great victory at Tokio show, according to the official report of Lieut. General Sakharoff, that it was little more than a series of skirmishes. The Russian losses were about 200 men. The Tokio report that ten guns were captured is unfounded. The Russians retired in perfect order before General Oku's army consisting of four divisions.

Staff Captain Count Nerod, who was killed, was a brother of the midshipman of that name who was killed at the time of the sinking of the Russian protected cruiser Variag off Chemulpo. Capt. Nerod was in command of the rear guard, which is the point of honor.

BRITISH STEAMER HAS BEEN CONFISCATED

LONDON, July 11.—Messrs. Galbraith, Pembroke & Co. of this city, the owners of the British steamer Cheltenham, captured by the Vladivostok squadron, have received a notification that the Vladivostok prize court has confiscated the ship and cargo.

NO COMPLAINTS TO THE EMPEROR

ST. PETERSBURG, July 11—6.25 p. m.—Col. Orloff has arrived here from Liao Yang with detailed despatches from General Kuropatkin to the emperor. Reports to the effect that he brought complaints from the commander in chief seem to be completely without foundation.

RUSSIAN BOATS WERE FORCED TO RETREAT

TOKIO, July 11, 11 a. m.—The Russian cruisers Bayan, Diana, Pallada and Novik, two gunboats and seven torpedo boat destroyers came from the harbor of Port Arthur on Saturday morning, July 9, preceded by a number of steamers engaged in clearing away mines. In the afternoon the Russian vessels reached a point between Hershakt and Lun Wan Tag where they were attacked by a Japanese flotilla of torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers. Fire was exchanged with the Bayan. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the Russian ships retreated to the harbor.

Admiral Togo reports that the Japanese vessels had one cabin boy slightly wounded. The vessels themselves sustained no damage.

HEAVY FIGHTING AT POPT ARTHUR

CHEFOO, July 11, 4 p. m.—The Port Arthur Novikral of July 7, a copy of which has just reached Chefoo contains an account of the operations around Port Arthur from July 3 to July 5. It says: "Heavy fighting has occurred between the first line of defences and the Japanese. The results are not announced. Nevertheless little at a time the facts are becoming known. Our side sent scouts to ascertain the position and strength of the enemy and whether they were protected by trenches. It was impossible to find out the exact strength of the Japanese but they do not number less than thirty thousand men. The Chinese credit them with sixty thousand. After three days fighting the positions of the two armies were as follows:

"On the left flank, we retained the position we originally occupied. The previous forcing back of our right flank was rectified and now we have both green and semaphore hills in our hands. In front of these hills, we are not opposed but we are being heavily shelled from both sides. The enemy retired a considerable distance. Of course all this was not won without losses, some of which will strike the hearts of our countrymen.

"We started to take the offensive the night of July 1 when we began a strong attack. Our soldiers who had been forced back at Kinchou were waiting for an opportunity to get at the Japanese. The result was most satisfactory. The infantry marched out as if engaged in manoeuvres, while the artillery, taking up a position, opened a fierce fire with the shrapnel upon the enemy's line, resulting in their retirement.

"During the three days battle the protected cruiser Novik and a fleet of gunboats left the harbor daily, covering the right flank of the army and stopping the fire of the enemy's artillery. On July 4, the Novik fortunately obtained the range of the enemy's batteries and did frightful damage to them. All the morning the gunboats without receiving any return fire shelled the enemy's troops marching towards our defences.

"The Japanese fleet appeared in the afternoon and our gunboats returned to the inner harbor without sustaining any damage."

TWO MAY DIE

MEN WERE STEALING A RIDE ON A TRAIN.

NEWARK, N. J., July 11, 1904.—Three young Philadelphians, on their way to New York to hunt for work, jumped from a train on which they were stealing a ride in front of a locomotive on the Lehigh Valley railroad in Newark yesterday morning. Two were so badly hurt that they may die. John Kyle, 17, of Woodland avenue and Forty-ninth street, had his skull fractured, and Edwin Bond of Thirty-sixth and Walton streets was seriously bruised and probably externally hurt. William Anderson of 46 Woodland avenue was only slightly bruised.

The young men were sitting in a freight car in the railroad yards at Frelinghuysen avenue, waiting for the train to proceed, when they saw a watchman approaching. Fearing arrest, they jumped out of the car door just as a locomotive drew up on the adjoining track. All three were taken to St. Barnabas hospital in Newark.

GUARD WIRES

ARE BEING REMOVED FROM MERRIMACK SQUARE.

The wire gang of the local division of the Boston & Northern railroad are taking down the guard wires in Merrimack street today. These wires were placed over the trolley wires to protect the latter in case any telephone, telegraph or electric wires dropped, which would cause a ground, but since the wires have been placed underground there is no need of the guard wires and the work of removing them has commenced.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at F. H. FROM YESTERDAY'S LATE EDITION

WALTER L. MUZZEY, LOWELL MAN WHO SAVED THE LIFE OF THREE-YEAR-OLD CHILD AT CRESCENT PARK, R. I., SUNDAY.

BADLY POISONED

Light Trimmer Victim of Brown Tail Moth

The brown-tail moths, the old ones, are leaving Lowell but they are leaving behind them millions of eggs that will develop into caterpillars in about three weeks and a little later the caterpillars will be full-fledged moths. Several persons have been poisoned by the moths. Among those who have been poisoned is "Joe" Watts, who trims the large electric lights. Mr. Watts lives at 24 Sycamore street and he is suffering intense pain from the poison. His arms, face and body are badly swollen and the only relief he can find is in the application of vaseline and sweet oil as recommended in The Sun Saturday.

The poison first caused great blisters to appear. The blisters were extremely itchy and Mr. Watts could not resist the desire to scratch them. As soon as the blisters were broken the water which they contained spread to other parts of the flesh spreading the poison as it went, so that in the course of two days Mr. Watts was literally covered with blotches that pained and itched unmercifully.

Mr. William D. Whittet, the florist, is nursing a blister caused by one of the moths. It was down in Lawrence that he came in contact with the brown-tail. He was riding in a street car and the moth lighted on his hand.

Mr. Watts said that he did his best to avoid the moths but they were so plentiful about the electric light poles that it was impossible for him to escape.

It is believed that most of the old moths have left the city. Only a very few were seen in the Highlands last night and Saturday night the fences, poles and houses in that district were literally covered with them.

The moths have also advanced on Lawrence. The Lawrence Daily American of Saturday has the following to say about the brown-tails:

Hundreds of people probably for the past few weeks have noticed the large number of moths which at night flock around the arc and electric lights in numbers of thousands and also upon the buildings near the lights.

The moths are now on their marriage flight and in a short time will lay their eggs in large numbers on the underside of leaves. After laying their eggs the females die. Each female lays 200 to 300 eggs and by the middle of August these eggs hatch and become small caterpillars which feed upon all kinds of foliage.

It is now the time for every citizen to do his part of the work of exterminating these pests as every morning the moths can be seen lying on the sidewalks in large numbers and it is an easy matter for a person to kill them by spraying them with crude oil.

One resident of Prospect hill succeeded in burning a large number of moths one day this week and others are following his example.

There should be something done at once as the moths are increasing very rapidly and if let alone by this time next year there will be a hundred times as many as there are at present, and in the spring the trees will be deprived of foliage and the fruit trees will bear no fruit in the autumn.

The chemical of the Methuen fire department was out today spraying the trees about town.

TOOK MORPHINE

Dr. Mayrand Was Delirious But Not Insane

Dr. Eugene Mayrand, who was removed from his room to the Lowell hospital Friday evening, left the hospital Sunday afternoon and was about town this forenoon. The doctor was not insane. He had taken a small dose of morphine to induce sleep and unfortunately he did not take enough of it to put him asleep. In the words of a doctor friend of his "he had nightmare in the day time." Dr. Mayrand does not fear a return of the attack. He does not fear insanity, because he knows that he was not insane on Friday. He remembers, distinctly, everything that happened and he advances the argument that had he been insane he would not remember all that took place. He was weak from loss of sleep and overwork and the morphine made him delirious. Although quite weak he is hopeful and expects to be able to resume his work in a few days.

REV. FR. FIDELIS

IS A GUEST OF REV. WILLIAM O'BRIEN, P. R.

Rev. Fr. Fidelis of St. Anselm's college in Manchester, N. H., is visiting in this city. He is a guest at St. Patrick's parochial residence. There have been quite a few Lowell students at St. Anselm's during recent years and during his stay here Fr. Fidelis will be pleased to meet former students and their parents, as well as any who contemplate entering the college in September. Fr. Fidelis is not a stranger in Lowell for he has appeared in the pulpits of several of the churches in this city and the neighboring towns.

FUNERALS

McCANN—The funeral of Joseph McCann took place this morning from his late home Girard street, Dracut, and proceeded to St. Michael's church on Sixth street where a high mass of requiem was sung at 9.00 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Murphy. The choir sang the Gregorian mass. The floral offerings were beautiful, the most prominent being a pillow inscribed "Husband and Papa" from his wife and children. The bearers were Messrs. John Rogers, John Brennan, Mathew McGuire, Warren Marshall and for Court Columbus F. of A., William Handley and Daniel Monahan. Rev. Fr. Murphy gave the final absolution at the grave. Interment was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery and was in charge of Funeral Director James W. McKenna.

BOURKE COCKRAN

Says That Parker Will be Overwhelmingly Elected

NEW YORK, July 11.—The Associated Press today received the following communication from W. Bourke Cockran, explaining his declination to address the National Democratic convention at St. Louis, under date of Indianapolis, July 10.:

"I left St. Louis yesterday at 12.45 because as matters stood then, I did not want to be in the convention when nominations for vice-president were reached.

"Calls for me to make a speech which had been repeatedly made on prior days, would very likely be renewed at the final session and at the time I could not truthfully assure the convention that Judge Parker had in my opinion the faintest prospect of success. I have made it a rule to never say on a public platform anything which I would not repeat in the witness chair. I could not prophesy victory and I would not foretell defeat. Silence was therefore the only course open and the best way to pursue it was by absence.

"When I reached Indianapolis, I was handed a telegram from Charles F. Murphy, informing me of Judge Parker's message to Mr. Sheehan and urging me to return immediately. In an instant the whole situation was changed.

"The prospect which had been black with signs of disaster at once became splendid with promises of victory. For many months I had been preaching that the success of the democratic party, this year involved a continuance of constitutional government in this country. This view was expressed in the resolution submitted to the state convention last April by the Tammany members, and I think it is shared by every thoughtful man in the country. The one thing absolutely essential to democratic success is a leader. "Till now, no one possessing anything like availability was conspicuous except Mr. Cleveland. To him there were weighty objections.

"His age is advanced. Many politicians believe there is a widespread objection to giving any man however wise or virtuous, more than two terms in the presidency. The antagonisms which he has provoked are numerous and bitter. Still his running qualities were so excellent that the delegates from the old city of New York, urged his nomination as the only one that furnished the slightest hope even of an exciting contest. To bring this about and to secure an unequivocal acknowledgement that the money question was settled were the two objects to which the Tammany delegation confined the efforts of its members. It appeared in unit early that the first of these was wholly impossible. To accomplish the second we felt it was only necessary that delegates from all doubtful states should demand it firmly as a condition absolutely necessary to success. At the meeting of the New York delegation on Tuesday morning, a resolution to this effect offered by me was suppressed by a parliamentary manoeuvre.

"After it had been agreed by the leaders to eliminate all reference to the money question, I again moved that the New York delegation offer as an amendment in the convention the financial plank submitted by Senator Hill to the committee on resolutions, but the motion was rejected by a vote of 50 to 25 of the delegates.

"Under these circumstances the nomination of Judge Parker, who was without any record on the coinage question, except that he had voted twice for Mr. Bryan, seemed to preclude the slightest hope that he would receive even as many electoral votes as Mr. Bryan polled in 1900. But this very pusillanimity of his managers which led them to surrender their convictions and to stifle every attempt of the New York city delegates even to voice the opinions of their constituents on this momentous question furnished Judge Parker with an opportunity which he has improved decisively. It has revealed him to the people of this country almost in an instant, as a great leader—the greatest of this generation: an honest man—the most impressive in displaying that virtue that I have ever known either through experience or reading; a courageous man of such incomparable courage that he was willing to throw away not merely the hope or prospect of a nomination but an actual nomination for the presidency rather than stoop to an evasion or equivocation on a matter of principle.

"I, who left St. Louis before the final adjournment as the only way to avoid being placed in a position where I must have told to the convention that Judge Parker could not, in my opinion, escape crushing defeat, on the receipt of Mr. Murphy's message at once ordered a special train and hastened back, because I then felt free to tell the members if they still desired to hear from me, that on the new platform which he himself had made, he would be overwhelmingly elected.

"When my train arrived at 4 in the morning, the convention had completed its work, but if I had been present, I could not have made a single suggestion which would have been an improvement on its course. Indeed, the admirable temper displayed by the men who at first blush, might have considered themselves belittled or aggrieved by the singularly independent course of their candidate is one of the most auspicious features under which the campaign opens."

LOVING COUPLE

PLACED UNDER ARREST BY PARK POLICE.

NEWTON, July 11.—The metropolitan park police at Riverside put in a busy day yesterday, as a result of which three more were added to the list of arrests this season in connection with the campaign of propriety along the Charles River reservation.

Shortly after 7 last night Sergt. Brawley arrested a young couple on the river near the Riverside recreation grounds for alleged violation of the rules governing indecent actions. They were in a canoe near the shore and made no resistance. When taken to the park police station they gave their names as Malcolm Grant, aged 20, and Mayne Blair, aged 19, both of Cambridge. The young man claimed to be a student at Harvard and said his parents lived in Worcester. His companion, he said, was on a visit from the west. Late last night both secured bail and will appear in the municipal court at West Newton today before Judge Kennedy.

Later in the evening the police arrested Michael Lawless of Newton Lower Falls for violation of the reservation rules. Despite the threatening weather there was a large crowd of canoeists on the river all day. But one upset occurred and that was not of a serious nature.

SUDDEN ATTACK

TWO SISTERS BECAME INSANE AND FOUGHT EACH OTHER.

NEW BEDFORD, July 11.—Clemencia de Brum Garcia and Maria de Brum Garcia, Portuguese immigrants, in a sudden attack of insanity, set Cordeiro's hotel in an uproar late Saturday night, and the frenzied women were not subdued until both had been overpowered and securely bound with clothesline.

The Garcias are single women, the younger 27 years of age and the other four or five years older. They came here from Fayal on the steamer Patria, and were bound to California under the escort of a woman cousin. Clemencia, the elder sister, was in poor health as the result of the ocean voyage, and at supper it was noticed that she acted strangely. She went to bed early in the evening, but about 10.30 she attempted to arise, telling her sister that it was time to get up. The latter tried to restrain her, and a struggle took place, which so wrought upon the younger woman's nerves that her mind, too, gave way, and they fought furiously with each other. Then a delusion evidently seized them that some one was trying to enter the room for they attempted to throw themselves from a window to escape the object of their terror.

By this time the other occupants of the room seized them and prevented them from doing themselves any further injury. Both presented a sorry appearance after the struggle, with hair pulled out, faces scratched, bodies covered with black and blue spots, and clothing torn to tatters.

They were taken to the poor farm yesterday morning, and under the care of physicians and with the administration of medicine, they recovered somewhat during the day. The younger sister was able to give their names today, but the other was violent at times. Dr. H. T. Tucker, physician to the poor department, stated that three or four days' rest and quiet will probably restore the mental balance of both women.

FLOODED DISTRICT

IS GRADUALLY RESUMING ITS FORMER CONDITION.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 11.—With the exception of a part of Kansas avenue, in the lower part of Armourdale the flood water in the Kansas City suburbs has practically disappeared today. Many hundreds of persons are still being fed by the city with the aid of the government rations sent from Fort Levanworth.

OVERDUE BARK

WAS HELD BACK BY CALMS AND HEAD WINDS.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—The overdue French bark Montebello on which fifteen percent reinsurance was quoted, has arrived here, 180 days out from Swansea. Her long trip is accredited to calms and head winds. She reports speaking the British ship Celtic Monarch in latitude 50.24 south; longitude 87.14 west, for the welfare of which considerable anxiety has been felt.

GIRL DID NOT WANT TO MARRY A MAN SHE DID NOT LOVE.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Because her mother wanted her to marry a man for whom she did not care, Mary Engelbeck, 16 years, of No. 306 South Philip street, ran away from home two weeks ago, after inducing her chum, Lottie Penna, 17 years, of No. 411 South Third street, to go with her. The two girls were located in New York yesterday by Mary's mother and her rejected suitor, Louis Shayer, who promptly had them arrested.

HEADS HAMMERED

POLICE OFFICERS AND GROWLER GANG CLASHED.

NEW YORK, July 11—Complaints were made to the police of the East Sixty-seventh street station last night that hoodlums were holding up people in First avenue between Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth streets and demanding beer money. Policeman James Crowley was sent around and found plenty of trouble.

On the corner of Sixty-fifth street a crowd was fighting over a can of beer. He ordered them to move on and received a similar invitation for himself from the gang. He grabbed Thomas O'Connell, a truck driver. O'Connell landed a heavy left on the policeman's jaw and sent him to his knees. The policeman used his nightstick with telling effect on the skull of O'Connell. Others in the crowd rushed into the policeman, and two more policemen came up.

Heads were battered right and left. Some thoughtful citizen telephoned to the Presbyterian Hospital for an ambulance. On its arrival all the gang fled with the exception of O'Connell, who had been beaten almost insensible. O'Connell was put into the ambulance, and just as the trip to the hospital was begun a hale stick was hurled through the air from some unknown quarter and hit the ambulance, narrowly missing Dr. Brown. Sergt. Guilty sent out a squad of men and told them to patrol the section where the disturbance had occurred and to bring in any of the rowdies they could find.

PARALYTIC EVICTED

SAD CASE IS REPORTED FROM A STREET.

Orrin S. Walsh and his brother Horace W. Walsh, the former a paralytic, aged 61 years and the latter a few years younger are said to have been evicted from their humble apartments in A street on Saturday, because of delinquency in paying their rent.

Horace Walsh, is a Civil war pensioner and the two managed to live on the pension but last week there was a delay in sending along the pension with the sad result as above. When the constable ordered the two out of the house Horace Walsh left, saying that he was going to find a room and he has not been seen since. By selling some of the furniture Orrin Walsh raised $17 and a kind neighbor Saturday evening removed him in a carriage to the St. James Hotel where he is no ecomfortably quartered. He is much alarmed over the absence of his brother and would gladly receive information concerning him. Both men are said to have been well-to-do in days gone by.

The Brotherton and Sunday Mines are controlled by Joseph Sellwood of Duluth.

PECULIAR CASE

PART OF MAN'S SPINE TAKEN OUT.

NEW YORK, July 11—With his fifth dorsal vertebra gone and a section of his spinal cord laid bare, Michael Piola, who is aged forty-five years and lives at Elmont, L. I., is fighting death until the backbone grows together. Dr. F. M. Wood, of St. Mary's hospital, Jamaica, who performed the operation in which a portion of the man's backbone was removed, says he has a chance to get well.

Several days ago when Piola, with several companions, was enjoying a feast of cherries, he fell from the tree and his back was broken. As the man was paralyzed below the waist the dangerous operation was postponed for several days. Finally, at Piola's earnest request, preparations were made to remove broken bits of bone which were pressing upon the sufferer's spinal cord.

Yesterday the operation was successfully performed, and Piola faces an eight weeks' stay in one position. Fastened to an air mattress, through which a tube runs to the wound, with 12-pound weights attached to each foot by pulleys, the man is condemned to a two months' wait to determine whether or not he has a chance to live.

Dr. Wood says that a year will have to elapse before the sections of the spinal column from which the vertebra is missing, can be made to knit together. In two days the man will be put in a plaster of paris jacket, which will be removed at the end of two months if the patient's condition improves as much as the physicians expect.

It will be necessary, says Dr. Wood, for Piola to wait until the bones have completely reunited before returning to work, but he may attend to his regular duties after the plaster cast is removed.

STONED BY A MOB

Police Reserves Called to Rescue Motorman

NEW YORK, July 11.—James Farrell, nine years old, of 160 East Eighty-second street, was run over by a southbound car in Third avenue at Seventy-sixth street, last night. The car was crowded with people returning from Fort George and the women passengers shrieked so that they could be heard for several blocks. The tenants in nearby flat houses ran into the street and mobbed Stephen Petty, the motorman.

Stones were hurled at Petty. Several hit him. The passengers fled. Just then Policeman McGuire arrived.

The policeman tried to drive the crowd back and was so roughly handled that he rapped for assistance. Policeman Hennessey responded and the two succeeded in putting the motorman through the crowd. They put him in a hallway in Third avenue. The two cops stationed themselves in front of the door. They were having a hard time keeping the crowd back when the reserves from the East Sixty-seventh street station ran up. A woman had telephoned to police headquarters that there was a riot.

In the meantime Joseph J. Brody of 1318 Third avenue and Joseph Stack of 252 East Eighth street had got into a nearby stable and secured three jacks. Assisted by the policemen they raised the car and dragged the boy out. He was alive, but badly crushed. An ambulance took him to the Presbyterian hospital. It was found that he had sustained a fracture of the skull, fractured ribs, contusions and internal injuries. The doctors say he will die.

The police had their hands full to get Motorman Petty to the station. When they led him out of the railway the mob gathered around and the policemen had to use their nightsticks and force their way through. The prisoner was led across Seventy-sixth street to Lexington avenue, where he was put on a southbound car and taken to the station. He is locked up on a charge of felonious assault.

CUT RATE WAR

MAY BE SETTLED IN A SHORT TIME.

LONDON, July 11.—Unless unexpected obstacles are raised by the representatives of the steamship lines at the further conference to be held with the president of the board of trade, Gerald Balfour, the emigrant rate war will be settled within a few days and the old rates restored. It developed today that Herr Ballin, director general of the Hamburg-American line, has been active in endeavoring to settle the difficulties with the Cunard line and there is no question that Mr. Balfour's intervention was due in a measure to his suggestion.

Basis proposed for a settlement has not yet leaked out but Lord Iverclyde, chairman of the Cunard Steamship company, has insisted on the right of his line to some share of the Austria-Hungarian and Italian immigrant traffic which Herr Ballin held, belonged to his company. On the other hand the officials of the German lines contend that the Cunard line, which controls the Scandinavian immigration should have refrained from interfering with the Mediterranean business.

WAS A BRAKEMAN

How Ex-Senator Davis Rose to Wealth

IS RELATED TO ELKINS AND GORMAN

Was Inactive in Politics for Some Time

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Henry Gassaway Davis, whom the democrats have nominated as their candidate for vice-president, is no spring chicken. Thirty-three years ago he was a conspicuous United States senator and was then a man who had left his youth behind him.

Twenty-five years ago he was chairman of the senate committee on appropriations and was the discoverer of the historic fact that the republican party, after its long lease of uninterrupted power following the Civil war, had looted the treasury to the extent of two cents.

Mr. Davis was the chairman of a special committee to whom the books were turned over for the purpose of examining them under the spur of the campaign cry that republican jobbery had long run riot and after the most exhaustive investigation a report was made to the effect that the books showed the treasury to be just two cents short. Whether the people ever received those two cents back is not a matter of record.

Mr. Davis early in life was a brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and it is a tradition of the senate, of which he was for twelve years a member, that one day, under the soporific influence of a four-hour speech by a venerable republican senator, Mr. Davis fell into a profound slumber at his desk.

He had reached that point where he was emitting high nasal notes, when Senator Allen G. Thurman, "the old Roman," arising to reply to the republican orator, blew two blasts upon his famous red bandanna.

Jumping to his feet, Davis grasped the top of his desk and attempted to twist it off. He thought he was on one of the sharp grades of the West Virginia mountains, and that the engineer was whistling for "down brakes."

Mr. Davis will be 81 years old just after the fall elections, having been born in Woodstock, Md., Nov. 10, 1823. Like Senator Allison of Iowa and other statesmen who have taken care of themselves during their long career in public life, Mr. Davis does not look his years. Like Mr. Allison, also, he is still in possession of his full mental and bodily faculties, and if he should preserve his health for the next four years would be quite capable of performing all the duties of a vice-president, or even of president if a turn of fate should put him into the place of Theodore Roosevelt.

The West Virginian is a man 6 feet tall, straight as an Indian, and rugged in face and figure. He must have been homely in his youth, for his features are heavy, with no softening lines, except that in late years his close-cropped beard and hair, as thick now as twenty-five years ago, have turned white and toned him down somewhat. Mr. Davis wears no mustache. In recent years he has been inclined to dress in fashionable attire and has all the air of a modern captain of industry.

Mr. Davis is a very rich man, owning a great deal of property of various kinds, chiefly in West Virginia. It has been highly productive in the way of coal, oil, timber, etc. Senator Gorman of Maryland, John R. McLean of Ohio and Stephen B. Elkins are all business associates of Mr. Davis, and Mr. Elkins, moreover, has the honor of being his son-in-law. Mr. Gorman is also a relative. Their mothers were sisters.

It is the popular belief that much of the wealth which Mr. Gorman is supposed to possess was made through his long years of business association with what is known as the "Davis-Elkins-McLean-Gorman syndicate," whatever that is.

These men have done a great deal of railroad building in one way or another, chiefly for the purpose of developing their properties in West Virginia, and they have an office in Washington. It it located in John R. McLean's building at the corner of Vermont avenue and H street, where Mr. Davis spends much of his time.

He and Mr. Elkins both divide their time largely between New York and Washington, going to West Virginia only occasionally, except in the summer, when they pass several months on the beautiful estates they have built up.

Politicians in Washington had almost forgotten Mr. Davis as a public man when recently he was selected to head the West Virginia delegation to St. Louis. At the convention where delegates were chosen he received a striking ovation which recalled him to the public mind, but none of the political wiseacres dreamed that the old gentleman was to be resurrected to such an extent as to put him on the presidential ticket.

At that West Virginia convention there was a Davis furore, and he was hailed as the "war horse." He made a hit in striking the keynote for the West Virginia democrats by denouncing the republican party as being a black man's party. He made a speech, described by the local historians as "rousing," in which he charged that the negro had dominated the republican party ever since he was freed by Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Davis also went back a quarter of a century and raised his voice again against those robbers who, he said, were looting the treasury. Again he demanded to look at the books, thinking, no doubt, that this time it would be found that more than two cents were missing.

He attacked the republicans for refusing to have an investigation of the postoffice department, and laid at the door of the republican party the blame for the gigantic land frauds, which had been going on in the west. He demanded that power should be given into the hands of the democratic party so that somebody could be assigned to hunt down the grafters of the Postoffice department and the Land Office, and predicted that he would not have to call in vain.

Mr. Davis was a farmer before he became a brakeman, and is a farmer still, as well as a railroad builder, banker, capitalist and statesman. His father died when he was a mere youth and he worked on a farm until he was 18, when he began twisting brakes on the railroad.

It has been said that Mr. Davis got his fine taste of politics from conversations with Henry Clay, whom he used to meet frequently on the long-drawn-out trips on Mr. Davis' train between Washington and Kentucky.

Mr. Davis was a Union man during the war, although he did not enter the service, and after peace was declared he became a candidate for the legislature on the republican ticket. He was defeated, and in 1866 was elected to the lower house of the West Virginia legislature as a Union Conservative.

Two years later he was chosen United States senator as a democrat. At the expiration of his second term in the United States senate, in 1883, he declined a re-election, as he did not feel justified in longer neglecting his vast private business.

Although it seems to be forgotten now, Mr. Davis was a candidate for vice-president in 1884, when Cleveland was first nominated. He did not want the place, and therefore threw his strength to Thomas A. Hendricks of Indiana. This West Virginia democrat has been a delegate to seven national conventions.

In addition to his prominence as chairman of the committee on appropriations, Mr. Davis' most important work in the senate was in behalf of the movement for bringing the republics of North and South America together, which finally resulted in the establishment of the Bureau of American Republics. He was a delegate to the second International conference at the City of Mexico two years ago.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

UNDER AUSPICES OF SPANISH WAR VETERANS.

A largely attended meeting of the General Adelbert Ames command of the Spanish War Veterans was held last evening in the Memorial hall. Commander M. H. Harrington presiding. The command voted to be represented at the next national convention of the "Vets" to be holden in September.

A committee was appointed to investigate any indigent cases that may be found among any persons who served in the Spanish-American war, and if needy cases are found a report must be made by the aforesaid committee to the command for prompt action.

Following the business meeting there was an ice cream social by the command to the members of the Edith Prescott Wolcott Ladies' Auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans.

After partaking of cake and ice cream a pleasant hour was enjoyed in listening to musical and literary program, in which participated the Highland male quartet, composed of James Greig, first tenor; George Sturtevant, second tenor; F. W. S. Daly, first basso; John Moir, second basso. The vocal selections were "The Owl and Pussy Cat," "The Artillerist's Oath," and "Nellie Gray". Others who took part were Walter Chase in his original topical song, "School Street Echoes," which made a decided hit with the ladies present. There were also vocal selections by Miss Annie Maguire, Miss Alice E. Goodwin, Miss Agnes Meehan and Mrs. Blanche Jelly. Mrs. North Dubuque's original song met with much favor, "Liquid Ice Cream Through the Ceiling Dropping." Miss Lillian Goodwin acted as accompanist.

During the evening Mr. Thomas Dolan, who was a first-class machinist on the flagship Olympia, commanded by Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila, gave a graphic description of the scenes and incidents of that memorable encounter. This meeting and social proved one of the most enjoyable and successful held by General Ames command since its inception as an organization.

SMUGGLING SCHEME

GREAT FRAUD IS CHARGED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Behind the arrest of the Marconi operator and a hospital steward of the Kaiser Wilhelm II, charged with smuggling Sumatra tobacco, the customs officials have unearthed a new and ingenious method of smuggling diamonds, silk, tobacco and other merchandise which should pay a high duty. Frauds on the government of enormous proportions have undoubtedly been perpetrated by a combination of express men, steamship men, and possibly government officials. Its beneficiaries and possibly its promoters are believed to be merchants of this city.

Smuggling in trunks, carried on as passengers' baggage, upon which labels, indicating that they had been properly examined and passed by the inspectors, were surreptitiously pasted, is the method. Four arrests have been made so far, and a large force of special agents was at work nearly all night in seeking other participants.

How far the ramifications and extent of this new smuggling scheme have gone is not yet determined. The crash came last Saturday. It was premature and was practically forced upon the customs men, who were already aware of what was going on, and were working and waiting for bigger game.

CUNEO DYING

HIS ASSAILANT NARROWLY ESCAPED LYNCHING.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 12—Shot down yesterday by one of his own countrymen who had crept up behind him Andrew Cuneo, member of the firm Cuneo Bros., fruit dealers, Dearborn and South Water streets, one of the best known fruit importers in the United States, and said to be the richest Italian in Chicago, is dying at Passavant Hospital.

His assailant, Anthony Crescio, narrowly escaped lynching by an angry mob that closed around him after the shooting. In less than a minute after the shooting a rope had been procured by some one in the crowd with which to hang Crescio, but the police, in response to a riot call that had been sent in, appeared on the scene just in time to save Crescio's life.

The shooting occurred in front of Cuneo's store. Crescio crept up behind Mr. Cuneo and, drawing a revolver from his pocket, shot the merchant twice before any of the dozen bystanders could interfere.

Crescio, who is believed to be mentally unbalanced, was employed by his brother, John Crescio, who has a wholesale fruit store a few doors from the house of Cuneo Bros. Another brother of Mr. Cuneo's assailant married a sister of Mr. Cuneo, and after living with her for a few years, is said to have deserted her.

LADY GORDON MARRIED.

LONDON, July 12—Lady Magorie Gordon, the only daughter of the Earl of Aberdeen, formerly governor general of Canada was married in London this afternoon to John Sinclair, member of parliament for Forfarshire and a former captain of the Royal Irish lancers. The archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Davidson officiated. The church was filled with distinguished people. Mr. Sinclair was secretary to Lord Aberdeen in 1886-88.

RECORDS BROKEN

By Autos at the White Mountains

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N. H., July 12.—Five times the record was smashed in the hill-climbing automobile contest yesterday.

The competition was one of a series that had been arranged by the White Mountain Good Roads Improvement association, and was over a measured course of eight miles, with a grade varying from five to twenty degrees. The record for the distance, 46.59 was made by Otto Westman, three weeks ago. This time was cut down repeatedly yesterday, but F. E. Stanley of Newton, Mass., with a six horse power gasolene machine made the best run of the day. His time was 31 minutes 45 seconds. His nearest competitor was James L. Reese of New York, who negotiated the eight miles of climbing in a forty horse power car in 34 minutes 9 3-5 seconds.

The other record breakers were:

A. E. Morrison, Boston, 24 horse power, gasolene, 36.44 1-5.

Percy Pierce, Cleveland, 24 horse power gasolene, 44.31 4-5.

H. Ernest Rogers, Brookline, Mass., 24 horse power, gasolene 48.07 2-5.

AT THE LAKE

DOINGS ON AND ABOUT LAKE MASCUPPIC.

Canoeing is becoming a very popular fad on Lake Mascuppic and every week finds several new boats on the lake. The stillness of the water and the various nooks and shady places along the water's edge attract a good many people to this sheet of water.

All of the canoe clubs on the water front have their racks filled with boats while a large number of the little craft are stored at different places around Lakeview and Willow Dale and at the cottages between Willow Dale and Mountain Rock.

A new club house, patterned after the pagoda houses of China, is being built between the Iroquois club house and the house formerly occupied by that club. The new house will be occupied by canoeists from the Highlands who formerly occupied the Mascuppic boat house across the lake. The new house, while smaller than either of the club houses in that vicinity, will be a cosy affair and promises to be a neat and attractive addition to the other pretty houses along the water.

If canoeing is getting popular at the lake, so is bowling, at least it has taken an awful jump this year and the people who wish to secure alleys have to get around early or they have to wait, for night after night, and even during the afternoon, the alleys are packed with enthusiastic bowlers of both sexes. The ladies have taken hold of bowling this year and it is amusing to see some of them showing with pride the muscle in their right arm.

Manager Fox has made many changes at the alleys for the accommodation and convenience of the gentler sex and one of the popular changes was the doing away with the dusty blackboards which were used heretofore. Mr. Fox has tally sheets on all of the alleys and if the bowlers wish to take their scores home they can do so.

There is some talk of a six or eight-club tournament starting in the near future. The members of clubs which played on the city alleys in the winter spend a good portion of their time practicing at the Lakeview alleys.

The World's Fair Specialty Co. is at the theatre at Lakeview this week and the few performances which have been given this week have been largely attended.

The members of the Idle Hour camp are going to hold an invitation party next Friday evening at Willow Dale pavilion. The party is chiefly for the entertainment of the cottagers around Willow Dale, though a number of the friends of the members of the Idle Hour camp have been invited.

On Thursday afternoon of this week the Royal Arcanum picnic will be held at Willow Dale. This picnic is sure to draw a large crowd.

On the 23rd of this month the employes of the United Shoe Machinery Co. of Winchester will enjoy an outing at Mountain Rock grove. The company has chartered 15 special cars to carry the employes.

"Jack" Sullivan, the well known piano player at Canobie Lake park, is summering at one of the cottages in Willow Dale, and has to walk from the Collinsville school to the camp every night. A number of the cottagers are afraid that he will be kidnapped some night, though it is said that if he should disappear that there would be peace in the vicinity for a while.

George Teague is doing the cooking for the members of the Idle Hour cottage and since he started in he has lost 17 pounds. The members of the cottage claim that he would rather run the risk of starving than eat some of the dishes he prepares for the other boys ,but the boys are getting stout on the rations served out to them, which is a sufficient testimonial to George's skill as a culinary artist.

John Golden, the expert swimmer, occupies a cottage on the lake and has quite a class of pupils whom he is teaching to swim. They are making rapid progress under his direction.

John Saunders, the lightweight camper, was very fond of scrambled eggs until recently some of the campers scrambled eggs all over his clothing. He said that he wouldn't have cared if the eggs had been fresh, but he is beginning to think that the eggs were laid in Noah's ark.

It is whispered among the campers that the young lady who captures Peter Perrenult, who is camping at the lake, will get a find, for he is getting to be very handy about the house. He has a knack of washing dishes and housekeeping that makes many of the housekeepers at the Dale blush. A towel is not big enough for Peter to wipe the dishes with, he uses a table cloth.

Whenever you see Billy Crowley board a Lakeview car with seven or eight baskets, three or four boxes and his pockets bulged out with bundles, don't imagine that he is going to hold a picnic. It is only the lunch for one of the clubs at the Dale.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Benoit and Mr. J. G. Benoit have returned from a pleasant three weeks' trip to Montreal and other Canadian points.

BROWN-TAIL MOTH

ENGLISH SPARROWS EAT THEM AND GROW FAT.

Supt. Charles A. Whittet of Park commission wrote a letter to A. H. Kirkland of the Bowker Insecticide company, Boston, asking for a description of the insect known as the brown-tail moth, and received the following reply:

43 Chatham St., Boston, July 11, '04.

Mr. Chas. A. Whittet, 393 Central St., Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir:—Thanking you for yours of the 9th, would say that the insects you sent me are brown-tail moths. This is about the height of the flying season for these insects and as you have noticed they are strongly attracted to light. No doubt the electric lights of your city focus the attention of the moths which have developed in the outlying districts for many miles around. There is little that you can do at this time of the year economically to destroy these insects. The arc lamps will kill off a great many of them while toads and English sparrows will take care of many more. If your citizens are in the frame of mind where they want to "see something done," you might tack sheets of sticky fly-paper on the poles where the insects assemble in the greatest numbers. The most profitable use of your funds, however, against this insect can be made after the leaves have fallen, when the winter webs may be easily seen at the tips of twigs. Cutting off and burning these webs will protect your trees from harm another year.

I have asked our board of agriculture to send you a report fully describing this insect and remedies for combatting it. I am always glad to be of service to you.

Yours very truly,

BOWKER INSECTICIDE CO.
A. H. Kirkland.

DISASTROUS BLAZE

DID $125,000 DAMAGE AT COVINGTON, GA.

COVINGTON, Ga., July 12—Fire in Covington late Sunday night resulted in the destruction of property valued at $125,000 with $80,000 insurance. The fire started in the Star Building and the loss is divided among a number of firms.

The Covington Telephone exchange, the Covington Bottling works and the Western Union Telegraph office were also burned.

THROAT SLASHED

BODY OF UNKNOWN WOMAN FOUND IN ENTRY.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The dead body of an unknown woman, about 28 years old, was found in the entrance to a tenement house on East Twenty-ninth street early this morning. The jugular vein had been severed. The woman had evidently been choked before her throat was cut. A light gauze bandage, soaked with blood, covered the wound, which was still bleeding. Some of the skin had been torn off the cheek as if by finger nails.

NASHUA VICTORIOUS

And All is Forgiven by the Home Fans

The Stubborn Children Got Together and Played a Perfect Game Against the Lakelings—Players Promise to be Good Henceforth

For the first time in many days Dr. C. S. Collins of the Nashua team wore a large smile on his features as yesterday's game with Lowell at Lawndale park progressed. "Even if we lose this game," said the doctor, "there can be no fault found with the playing of the team today." The entire Nashua team was on its best behavior. Every man was out to win and all, even Wilson, played a cracker-jack game.

The Lowell team acted as if its members were willing that Nashua should have the game for at times they played like wooden men, yet they played finely at times and gave the fans an interesting game throughout.

Gokey on whom Lowell has had an easy thing this season pitched the game of his life. He struck out five men in the first five innings, gave no bases on balls and allowed only seven scattered hits and they gave him perfect support.

Little Soffel, the rosy-cheeked second baseman of the home team, was the star performer of the game. He got two of Nashua's five runs, two hits with a total of five and accepted seven chances without an error. Van Zant had five fine chances in center. Mike Birmingham, the new man, fielded finely but was weak at the stick. He got a single and fanned out three times.

McGovern's work was gilt-edged, and Manager Barrows of the Detroit team, who was present, was much impressed with Terry's playing.

Of the 500 fans present some 250 were ladies, and how they did root for the home team. The entire crowd went wild with delight at the conclusion of the game, and when the news got down town those who were sore on the team and had refused to go out to the game turned out to meet the players on their return.

It was a great night in Nashua on the strength of the victory and the fans heard more welcome news during the evening, but an account of that appears in another column.

GAME IN DETAIL.

Lowell went first to the bat. Billy Connors was first up and out, succumbing to three swings at Gokey's benders. Grant hit to Soffel and was plucked at first. Gokey was right out for a win and as he got two strikes on Bigbie the crowd yelled with delight. Bigbie then hit safely but was nailed with ease while trying to steal.

In Nashua's half Hickey made a great stop of Pastor's hot grounder and threw him out at first. Soffel hit to Day and was the second out. Van Zant, the erstwhile idol, received no hand from the crowd as he went to bat. Van hit the umpire in the foot with a hot grounder and he got first. Wilson drew a free pass but Cassidy closed the inning with a fly to Grant.

SECOND INNING.

Hickey opened this inning with a fly which Cassidy captured. Lake pushed the sphere to Soffel who winged him at first. McLaughlin, before striking out, which he did eventually, hit a high foul fly over to the third base bleachers and a youngster ran by just in time to catch it plumb on top of the head. Barney fanned out while they were rubbing the kid.

For Nashua, Birmingham, the new man, responded to the crowd's ovation by fanning out. Labelle flied to Grant. Duggan drew a base on balls. A little applause, painfully stingy, compared with what he used to get, greeted Gokey as he stepped up. Gokey went out on a foul fly which McGovern caught up against the wire.

THIRD INNING.

Dorgan went out on a fly to deep centre which Van Zant fixed. McGovern went out on a line drive to Pastor. Day fanned out.

In Lowell's half, Pastor hit along the third base foul line for a single. Day made a wild throw to first to catch Pastor napping and Tony was at third when the ball was recovered. Soffel flied out to Bigbie and Pastor got home on the put-out. Van Zant flied out to Bigbie. Wilson hit by Hickey for a single but was caught trying to steal second.

FOURTH INNING.

In the fourth Connors struck out Grant foul flied to Wilson and Bigbie flied to Soffel.

Nashua didn't do a thing in their half while Lowell gave a tough exhibition of fielding. Cassidy opened with a fly to Connors. Then Birmingham got a single to center and Labelle sent one to right, sending Birmingham to third. Then both tried a double steal and McLaughlin had Labelle out and Birmingham on third, but Lake dropped the throw and both men advanced, Birmingham scoring. A moment later after Duggan had made a single Day threw wild to Lake and Labelle took third. Gokey hit a fly to Dorgan who dropped it but Hickey picked it up and threw Duggan out at second, Labelle scoring. Then Pastor closed the comedy of errors with a fly to Bigbie.

Score—Nashua 3, Lowell 0.

FIFTH INNING.

Hickey opened the fifth with a single to left. Lake flied to Pastor. McGovern flied to Van Zant and Dorgan fanned out.

For Nashua, Soffel opened with a two-bagger to centre, Van Zant advanced him with a sacrifice. Wilson's single scored him. Cassidy flied to Dorgan and Birmingham struck out.

Score—Nashua 4, Lowell 0.

SIXTH INNING.

Lowell broke the ice in the sixth and got an earned run in this manner. McGovern hit to center for a single and Johnnie Day, who wasn't expected to do anything cracked the ball out beyond Van Zant for a couple of bases and McGovern went all the way round. Then Connors flied out to Cassidy. Grant foul flied to Birmingham and Mike made a great running catch, while the crowd cheered like mad and a chorus of voices cried out: "Carney never would have got that." Bigbie hit to Gokey and was killed at first.

The home team went out quick. Labelle hit to Hickey and was retired, Duggan flied out to Bigbie and Gokey popped to McGovern.

SEVENTH INNING.

Hickey opened with a pretty single, but what was the use. Lake hit to Pastor and Tony and Soffel made a double. Barney hit to Wilson who threw him out at first. For the home team Pastor cracked out a single and then tried to steal but was nailed with ease by the perfect throwing of Terry. Soffel hit to deep right center for three bases and scored on Van Zant's grounder to Hickey. Van dying at first. Wilson flied to Connors.

Score—Nashua 5, Lowell 1.

EIGHTH INNING.

Dorgan and Day flied out to Van Zant, McGovern hit to Gokey and was out at first. Cassidy hit to Hickey and was out at first. Birmingham struck out. Labelle got a free pass but Duggan hit to McLaughlin and was third out.

NINTH INNING.

"Come on, the game isn't half over yet," cried Lake, as Billy Connors went to bat. Billy responded with a two bagger to left. Grant flied to Van Zant. Bigbie got a single to center and Connors took third. Hickey flied to Cassidy and Connors scored. Lake hit to Pastor, forcing Bigbie at second.

DIAMOND NOTES.

Concord plays at Spalding Park today.

The papers are now kicking over Haverhill's salary limit. Kicking about the salary limit at this late day looks too much like "squealing" because Haverhill has out-distanced the bunch. The time for the kick was early in the season.

Fred Doe claims that New Bedford is the best baseball city of its size in the country. It is now up to Mayor Ashley to issue a proclamation declaring Doe to be the best baseball manager of his size in the country. One draft of hot air deserves another.

"Way down the South Atlantic league one Manager Ashenback has been fined $10 and suspended 10 days for "rioting." Where have we heard that name before?

And in the midst of all the trouble in Nashua, Ed. Sweet has hiked for the Kings Co., highbush to think it over.

Fred Lake went into a place in Nashua yesterday and asked for a pint of Londonderry. And what do you think? They didn't keep it.

Bushey will twirl today.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE.

The World's Fair Specialty Co. opened up a week's engagement at the Lakeview theatre yesterday and good sized and appreciative audiences witnessed the initial performances.

The performance opened with Lew DeWitt, a juggler, who manipulates many different things, and receives much applause. James W. Bingham, the expert ventriloquist, who is well known to the theatre going people of this city, has his walking and talking figures and he received much applause at both performances yesterday.

"Shorty" and Lillian DeWitt present an unusually funny comedy sketch. "Shorty" who stands less than four feet in his stocking feet does a number of clever stunts and Lillian sings and dances. Theodore and Camille Ladess are novelty acrobats of the first class and present 16 minutes of real enjoyment for those who appreciate this particular kind of work. The male member of the duo, is a contortionist and bends and twists himself up in all kinds of knots.

The closing number, perhaps the most appreciated feature, consists of illustrated songs by Howard and Anderson. Performances will be given afternoon and evening for the remainder of the week.

MERRITT ENGAGED

To Manage the Nashua Base Ball Team

Dr. Collins Acts Promptly on The Sun's Suggestion and Secures the Lowell Catcher—The Nashua Players and Fans Gave Merritt a Warm Welcome Last Night

All one could hear in Nashua last night was: "I hope they hire Merritt to run the team."

Ever since The Sun made the suggestion a week ago that Merritt was the one man in all the New England league to take hold of the Nashua team, the Nashua fans have been reeling red hot for the popular Lowell catcher.

The Sun's suggestion was republished by the Nashua and Manchester papers the day following and one of the first to see it and appreciate it was Dr. Collins himself.

With none was the suggestion more welcome than the Nashua players themselves and all agreed that they could do something with Merritt at their head.

Last night after the game nearly all the members of the team were assembled down town and were discussing the situation with a large party of fans when along came Merritt, having dropped off the train from Manchester on his way home. He was immediately surrounded by an admiring group who wanted to know the news.

"Well, I guess I'll be with you, boys," said Billy with a smile, whereupon there was a general handshake all around.

The following despatch to a Boston paper this morning explains the latest action of the Nashua baseball association as follows:

Billy Merritt, formerly catcher for the Lowell baseball team, and one of the best known players in the New England league, closed a deal tonight whereby he will assume the management of the Nashua baseball team. Dr. C. S. Collins has been after Merritt for some time, and has had several conferences with Manager Smith of the Manchester team, with which Merritt has been playing.

Merritt was not under contract with Manchester and therefore is in no way bound to Smith. Merritt has already accepted Nashua's terms and will probably appear in uniform Wednesday. Merritt has been playing first base for Manchester.

Hollis and Hickey received their release this evening, and a staff of five pitchers is left. Labelle is now playing in right field, Bonder, the Philadelphia Athletics' Indian pitcher, has been secured by the Nashua association, and tonight arrangements for his joining the team were made.

Walter King, a catcher, who has been playing independent ball in Pennsylvania, will be tried out in Manchester tomorrow. Business Manager G. F. Aitkin has been dropped, and W. H. Tolles has replaced him.

THE GOLD PLANK.

The gold men will criticize the democratic platform on account of the absence of the gold plank; but its absence indicates that the party considers the question settled. It is not usual to insert anything in the platform on which the party gives its acquiescence to republican policy. Judge Parker's firm stand for the gold standard will afford all the assurance the country needs on the money question.

THE CROP OF INFANT DEATHS.

After the sharp thunderstorm of two weeks ago Saturday, we noted the fact that it had changed the greater part of the milk throughout the city; as a result we predicted that the storm would be followed by a crop of deaths from cholera infantum within a couple of weeks or longer. In the list of deaths for last week, published Saturday, there are recorded nine deaths of infants from cholera infantum.

It is not any wonder that some of the children die. The wonder is that some of them live as long, considering the treatment they get. The parents in a great many cases are to blame. They do not wilfully kill the children but they exercise such criminal ignorance that many of them it seems might be held on a charge of murder.

The washing of a baby's bottle is a simple thing but there are hundreds of mothers in this city who have this to do and never did it right even by accident. There are some who put a small milk can out for their daily milk supply. This can is of the usual form with shoulders, neck soldered on, and stopper. It is impossible to tell when it is clean. The probability is that is has never been clean since first used. A quart or two-quart bottle would serve the purpose as well and could be easily kept clean.

Very few realize the possibilities for evil in a baby's stomach of a few germs from an unclean milk can, a nursing bottle or the nipple attached. In hot weather absolute cleanliness is essential and the food given young children must be absolutely fresh and pure in order to be safe. Even then it must be given in moderation and properly prepared. One mistake in hot weather, one dose of changed milk is sufficient to bring on cholera infantum which only the most prompt and skillful treatment can check.

JUDGE PARKER'S HONESTY AND COURAGE.

The telegram of Judge Parker to the democratic convention notifying the delegates of his attitude on the money question and asking that another candidate might be selected if his position was not acceptable to the convention, shows that he is a man who will not yield his personal convictions even for the honors of office. This fact has strengthened him as a candidate with the people. Before he announced his adherence to the gold standard, his attitude was a mystery.

Ex-Senator Hill said that all he knew about Judge Parker's views on public questions was that he would accept any platform the democratic convention saw fit to adopt. That very statement, if true, would prove him to be a man without convictions of his own upon public questions. The promptness with which he notified the convention of his stand on the money question proves the contrary; it proves that he has very decided convictions and that he is ready to make great sacrifices to maintain them. He is not willing to yield an iota of his convictions even to secure the nomination. That has been demonstrated by his telegram to the convention and it has given him a very high place in the estimation of the American people as there is nothing they admire more than a man's unbending devotion to what he believes to be right—especially when his views accord with those of the majority on the subjects under discussion.

In notifying the convention as he did Judge Parker proved his honesty and his courage—just what the American people want.

MR. BRYAN'S CONVENTION SPEECH.

It seems to be very generally agreed that William Jennings Bryan's speech in seconding the nomination of Senator Cockrell was the best made before the convention. Bryan mentioned Hearst of New York, Wall of Wisconsin, Gray of Pennsylvania, saying that if the convention wanted any of these men the Nebraska delegates would stand by him. He went even farther and said:

"If you prefer an eastern man and find some one who will give both elements of the party something to believe in, something to trust in, something to hope for, we are willing to join you with him."

In closing his speech he said:

"My friends, I believe that the great issue in this country today is plutocracy vs. democracy. You have said that I had just one idea, the silver idea. Well, a while back they said I had only one, but then it was the tariff idea. There is an issue greater than the silver issue, the tariff issue, the trust issue. It is the issue between plutocracy and democracy; whether this is to be a government of the people, administered by officers chosen by the people, administered in behalf of the people. It is either this, or it is to be a rule of the moneyed element of the country for their own interest alone. The issue has been growing.

"I want you, Democrats here assembled, to help us meet this question. You tell me the Republican candidate stands for militarism. Yes, but he also stands for plutocracy. You tell me he delights in war. But there is another objection to him, and that is that he does not enforce the law against a big criminal as he does against a little criminal.

"I close with an appeal that I make from my heart to the hearts of those who hear me. "Give us a pilot who will guide the Democratic ship from militarism, the Scylla of militarism, without wrecking her upon a Charybdis of commercialism."

In his conduct all through the convention Mr. Bryan turned enemies into friends and at the close the convention revered him almost as much as in 1896 and in 1900 when he was looked upon as a man possessed of phenomenal gifts as an orator, a man of incorruptible honesty, and child-like simplicity. In spite of all the slurs and sneers levelled at him by the republican press Bryan stands today one of the ablest men and foremost democrats of the country.

TO ABOLISH THE CLASSICAL COURSE.

A member of the Fitchburg school board makes an appeal for the dropping of the classical course in the high school of that city in order that more attention may be given to the three R's. If the school board member knows what he is talking about the Fitchburg High school must be in a very backward condition. It should not be necessary to drop the classical course to attain efficiency in the essentials mentioned. If the primary and grammar schools do their duty to the pupils, the High school should have no trouble with the so-called Three R's which are reading, writing and arithmetic. All should be taught to perfection in the grammar grades so that the pupils could advance to something higher on entering the High school. To drop the classical course would be to raise a barrier to the higher education that would necessitate the pupils who are intended for college leaving the city for a preparatory course. It is true that the majority of the pupils never enter college. Even so, the minority has a right to the instruction so long as they demand it. To be sure it is not good policy for a boy who will not finish his High school course to spend much time at Latin and Greek as he will never go far enough to derive any benefit from the study. The classics assist in the study of English and nothing is of much more importance or benefit to any student than perfection in writing and speaking English and a good training in mathematics so valuable in developing the reasoning powers and leaning to mathematical accuracy in whatever is undertaken.

SEEN AND HEARD

A size 6 glove today is larger than a size 6 glove five years ago, and this applies to all the sizes made. The explanation is that ladies' hands have grown larger than they used to be, through their practice of cycling, golfing, hockey, etc., but they do not like to admit it, so the glovemakers meet the new conditions and yet avoid hurtling the vanity of their customers.

A feature of style said to have been introduced by the king is to have the creases in the trousers at the side and leg seam instead of back and front. Already a few West End dandies have adopted this plan, but as the effect of this innovation is to produce a thicker appearance to the leg, we do not anticipate any general adoption of this fashion.

A Frenchman who passed through New York recently on his way to St. Louis, was much impressed by one sight he witnessed here. He made a tour of the principal restaurants and hotels to satisfy himself of the gastronomic progress of New York.

"What seemed most curious to me," he said afterward, "was the apparent lack of confidence that New Yorkers have in their cooks. The friends with whom I went to the restaurants here, without waiting to taste the food that had been put on the table, seized the salt and pepper and began to shake it violently into whatever they happened to be eating.

"Now, the chefs who had prepared the dishes presumably received large salaries for cooking the dishes properly. But I never saw anybody wait to find out whether they were well seasoned. The salt and pepper were put in use before anybody had tested the skill of the chef. And the amount of salt and pepper that went into the dishes often was enough to conceal all trace of really good cooking."

Following are a few items from the genuine blue laws of the early colonial times:

DOUBLE WEDDING

PRETTY EVENT IN FRENCH SOCIAL CIRCLES YESTERDAY.

A double wedding took place yesterday morning when Misses Josephine and Angeline Crepeau were married to two young men, well known in French social circles. Miss Josephine became the wife of Mr. Thomas J. Goyette and Miss Angeline the wife of Mr. Eugene Labrie. The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 6.30 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church. It was the earliest hour that a ceremony has ever been solemnized at that church. The young brides are the daughters of Mrs. Emmanuel Crepeau, 532 Moody street. First to enter the church was Mr. Goyette with his witness, Mrs. Jean Ouellette, and then Mr. Labrie, with his brother, Mr. Ernest Labrie, as his witness.

The brides followed at some distance behind, Miss Josephine Crepeau being attended by her brother-in-law, Aime Rheault, and Miss Angeline Crepeau, by her brother, Mr. Leon Crepeau. The first bride-to-be wore a very elegant and becoming traveling gown of fawn cloth, with a hat of rough yellow straw. Miss Angeline wore a very pretty gown of ecru nun's veiling, and a white flower hat.

Rev. Fr. Campeau, O. M. I., director of St. Jean Baptiste's church, performed the double ceremony, and officiated at the mass which followed.

After the ceremony the wedding party and the immediate relatives went to the home of the brides' mother in Moody street, where refreshments were served awaiting the departure of both young couples on an early train. Here another surprise awaited their friends. The train on which they had said they were to leave was at 7.01 o'clock, and accordingly, all of the friends present at the church marched to the Middlesex street station for that hour, each carrying a generous supply of rice. When they got there, however, the birds had flown by the 6.45 train to Boston.

Both young couples, after having breakfast at the Touraine, Boston, left on an early train for an extended trip, to include New York, Albany, Washingtonville, N. Y., and a trip up the Hudson river. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Goyette will reside at 72 Bartlett street, and Mr. and Mrs. Labrie will reside at 41 Bowers street.

ELOPERS CHASED

Husband's Search Carried Him Across the Ocean

BOSTON, July 12—After chasing his erring wife, who had eloped with another man, through Germany from Berlin to Zurich, Switzerland, thence back again to Berlin and then starting out from Liverpool, where he first got on the right track of the missing couple, taking the ocean flyer Campania for New York, and then again from there, a five-hour train for Boston, Oscar Tuetzer, a well known suspender manufacturer and belt maker of Berlin, Ger., ran down his wife, Frieda, and her companion, Paul C. Blass, with whom she had decamped, and found them among the detained immigrants housed in Commissioner George P. Billings' detention station at Long wharf, this city.

Mrs. Tuetzer, accompanied by Blass, had taken passage as Oscar Tuetzer and wife on the steamer Republic, which arrived here July 1. When Tuetzer arrived at Liverpool and learned that his wife and Blass had registered in a hotel as man and wife, under his own name, he immediately went to all the offices of the steamship lines to ascertain whether they had taken passage for this country. In looking through the long lists, he finally found that the eloping couple had taken passage on the Republic for Boston, as Oscar Tuetzer and wife, in the steerage.

Tuetzer lost no time in cabling to Commissioner Billings the facts of the elopement, and asked that they be detained until he arrived. He took passage on the Campania, arrived in New York Saturday morning and immediately boarded the first train for this city, arriving here late in the afternoon. He got to the detention station about 5 o'clock and introduced himself to the inspector in charge.

After being repeatedly told that his wish to speak to his wife would not be granted then, but that he would be given a hearing on the following morning, he left a very disappointed and heart-broken man, shedding tears, and was very depressed. He was told to call at 10 o'clock Sunday and at that time a board was present and his case was heard.

Tuetzer does not speak a word of English, and was interrogated through an interpreter. The case was gone through most thoroughly, and he related in a graphic manner how, on the 17th of June, when he left his home early in the morning for his place of business, he was told by his wife and Blass that a business associate would call on him during the day, and that he should remain in the factory until he came.

During that time Blass and Mrs. Tuetzer were preparing for their quick departure, and, after removing all of the money, amounting to something like 500 marks from the strong box belonging to Tuetzer, the couple made off for other lands. But before leaving Berlin Mrs. Tuetzer called at the factory and asked her husband if he had any money, as she wanted to take a short trip into the country and take in the horse racing that was going on that day. This was the last that the husband saw of his wife until they met face to face in the board room Sunday morning.

Their meeting was an intensely dramatic scene, Mrs. Tuetzer had absolutely no idea that her husband was coming to this country, and she dreamt that she was free of him forever. But when she was brought into the board room, entirely ignorant of the reason, and saw her husband standing before her, she for a moment acted as if dazed. Then, grasping a chair, she stood erect, looking him straight in the face, and said: "What do you want here? Why did you follow me? I left you and want no more of you."

Her tone teemed with hatred and sarcasm, while he, with pleading tone and tears streaming down his cheeks, implored her to be reasonable and listen to him.

CHEATED HIM.

At first she treated him with utmost contempt; her answers were curt and cutting; she would not allow him to touch her, but drew away from him whenever he came near her. She declined to listen to any of his overtures and when he asked her to return to Berlin and start life all over again, saying that he was willing to forgive and forget her follies, she declined, and added that she had left him for good cause; that he had been abusive to her for many years, ever in fact, since they had been married, and that she left him to come to this country and would forget him and endeavor to earn her own living. She would not have any further dealings with him. She also declared that if he remained in this country she would go elsewhere but that to live with him was entirely out of the question.

During the hearing it transpired that the suspender business which had been reorganized recently, was controlled by a firm of four persons and that Oscar Tuetzer and his wife owned one-third interest which was in her name. Without his knowledge, a day previous to her departure, she transferred that one-third interest to the other two partners, thus depriving him of his share of the business. So Tuetzer not only lost his wife but also his business.

When he asked her for an explanation regarding her doings she was evasive in her answers and he could get no satisfaction from her. Although it was admitted by her, as well as by Blass, that their relations were intimate, not only since they left Berlin but even previous to that time, it was not their intention to get married here, even if she could secure a divorce.

Yesterday morning Tuetzer and Blass met for the first time since the elopement and the scene was a stormy one. The angered and injured husband accused Blass of all sorts of trangressions, and but for the presence of the inspectors at the interview Blass, who is a very youthful appearing man, rather undersized and with three fingers missing from his left hand, would have received severe treatment from the deserted and wronged Tuetzer.

WIFE CHANGES MIND.

Yesterday afternoon another hearing was given in the case, at which all three parties concerned were present. Mrs. Tuetzer was given another opportunity to declare herself as to the stand she was willing to take regarding her husband, and, when questioned, stated that she had changed her mind and was willing to return to him on condition that he would change his attitude toward her. If he would promise that in the future he would not ill treat her, that he was willing to give her all the comforts to which she was accustomed, for the sake of their 5-year-old daughter, who is a cripple, her family and their good name, she would cast her lot with him again—not in Germany, but here in America.

She appeared, nevertheless, so indifferent and answered the question of the board so haughtily that it appeared that her love and regard for her husband were lost; so the board decided that she should be debarred from landing, and she will be deported on the steamer Cymric, which sails Thursday.

Tuetzer was heart broken when he was informed of the board's decision, and implored Commissioner Billings to set it aside, and allow his erring wife to come to him. His pleadings were not considered, and the verdict remained unchanged. Mrs. Tuetzer will be sent back to Liverpool on the ground that she is likely to become a public charge and on account of her desertion.

The case of Blass was also considered, and the board rendered a verdict that he, too, should be deported as likely to become a public charge and because of his being deformed. It is quite likely that Tuetzer will accompany his wife back, as he has been regularly landed, and the couple can begin life over on the other side, while Blass will have to remain here until the next steamer sails, so that the two men shall not come together. If they should meet, serious trouble would occur, and this Commissioner Billings will prevent.

This is one of the most extraordinary cases that has come before the local inspectors of immigration, and is the first case in which a husband has followed his wife thousands of miles and has been willing to take her back and forgive, and then has been turned down by her.

SENATOR CLARK

WAS MARRIED IN PARIS THREE YEARS AGO.

NEW YORK, July 12—Clark—LaChapelle—On May 25, 1901, at Marseilles, France, W. A. Clark to Anna E. LaChapelle, both of Butte, Mont.

In this announcement the public is apprised of the marriage of United States Senator William A. Clark to Miss Anna E. LaChapelle, the culmination of a romance that began about nine years ago. Three years have elapsed since, in Marseilles, France, the ceremony was performed that made the handsome child of the western mining fields the bride of the many times millionaire and United States senator. And with the announcement of the marriage comes the tidings that it has been blessed by the birth of a girl, now quite two years old.

Senator Clark informed his daughters, Mrs. Clark Culver and Mrs. Lewis Rutherford Morris of his marriage shortly after his arrival from Europe in the steamship Teutonic on June 30. The daughters were much surprised particularly as they had never objected to their father remarrying.

Mrs. Clark is about 35 years younger than the senator. She is the daughter of Dr. LaChapelle, who died suddenly in Chicago, after which event Senator Clark extended financial assistance to the family. He recognized Anna was a girl endowed with unusual intelligence, and made the girl his ward. Mrs. Clark is at present in Paris.

JUDGE PARKER

Did Not Send Telegram to Hill

BELIEVED HIS POSITION WAS UNDERSTOOD

Congratulations Pour in on the Candidate

ESOPUS, N. Y., July 12.—An explanatory statement of the long silence of Judge Parker was given by a close personal friend of the judge yesterday afternoon to the Associated Press. As a judge, said the authority, Judge Parker had kept silent on political questions, believing that it was not compatible with the dignity of a judge on the bench to discuss such questions. When he was prominently mentioned as a candidate for the presidency, Judge Parker thought that the people of the country knew his full views. He realized that the democratic party would be composed of two elements when the national convention assembled—radicals and conservatives. He knew that he was regarded as the candidate of the conservatives and became convinced that it was not necessary for him to make any statement of his views. Judge Parker had voted for Mr. Bryan in 1896 and 1900 and he had done so not because of, but in spite of, the silver plank. He did not think that anyone had any doubt as to where he stood, and had hoped to maintain his silence throughout the campaign preliminary to the convention.

Judge Parker had no intimation of the subject matter of the platform until after he had been notified by the Associated Press of his nomination, said the authority. When he had gone for his horseback ride, he realized that if he allowed the convention to adjourn without knowing his financial views, the people would regard as true Mr. Bryan's statement that the judge was tricking the convention and the party. He was not willing to profit by the nomination and thus be regarded as being guilty of trickery. It was then, said the informant, that Judge Parker decided to send a telegram to the convention. He returned from his ride and without consulting anyone, wrote the telegram to Mr. Sheehan, which was filed at Esopus at 11.50 a. m. on Saturday.

William H. Sheehan arrived at Esopus from St. Louis yesterday afternoon. He was met at the station by Mrs. Sheehan and was driven to his summer home near Rosemont. On the way Mr. Sheehan met Judge Parker, who was driving. The two gentlemen alighted and greeted each other. Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Sheehan then drove to the Sheehan house in one carriage and Judge Parker and Mr. Sheehan in the other. Later Mr. Sheehan made this statement to the Associated Press:

"I am authorized to say that no telegram was sent by Judge Parker to Senator Hill on any subject while the latter was in St. Louis."

Judge Parker returned home from Mr. Sheehan's residence at 7 o'clock after which he dined.

In reply to his telegram of congratulation to former Senator Henry G. Davis, the nominee for vice president, Judge Parker received the following:

"Delayed in reaching home. Thanks for your telegram. Most cordial congratulations to you and the country on your nomination. I feel proud and highly honored to be associated with you on the ticket.

(Signed) H. G. DAVIS."

Other telegrams received were:

Headquarters Bryan National Democratic club, Charleston, S. C.

"President and members send their sincere congratulations.

(Signed) "J. D. G. KENNEDY, "Secretary."

From Gov. Edwin Warfield of Maryland, dated Baltimore:

"The democracy of Maryland is enthusiastic over your nomination. You can count on her electoral vote by a splendid majority. Marylanders like your backbone and manly independence."

Among letters of congratulation received were letters from Judge C. H. Van Brunt of the appellate division supreme court, New York city; John P. Masterson, Albany and William Barnes, Sr., Albany, N. Y.

TRIPLE MARRIAGE

THREE SISTERS WED AT SAME TIME.

MANCHESTER, July 12—A remarkable wedding ceremony took place at Goff's Falls Monday morning at 8 o'clock, when three sisters were married to two brothers and a long-time friend of both families. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. X. Lyons in St. Francis church and a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties witnessed it.

The names of the three sisters were Celinir, Erminie and Merricliss Roy, and they are the daughters of Honore and Josephine Roy of Goff's Falls. The two brothers were Joseph P., and Theophile Charland, who have resided at 245 Pine street in this city and are employed as teamsters for a local concern. The third groom was John Gould of this city, a gardener.

The ceremony was a very impressive and interesting one. The brides were all dressed alike in handsome white gowns and all wore white hats. There were no attendants with the brides and grooms. The brides were given away by their father.

The couples were paired off and matrimonially joined as follows:

Joseph A. Charland and Celinir Roy, Theophile Charland and Erminie Roy, John Gould and Merricliss Roy. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the Charlands on Pine street after the wedding.

TAYLOR CONFESSED

ADMITTED THAT HE TOOK THE BANK'S MONE.

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—Robert B. Taylor, interest clerk of the Citizens' Central National bank of New York city, who was arrested while trying to dispose of bank notes, a part of $6720, which he had taken from the Central National bank before its merger with the Citizens' bank, and before the notes had been signed by the officers of the bank, made a confession yesterday to Secret Service Agent John E. Murphy and Henry Demse, cashier of the Citizens' National bank. Mr. Demse, in telling of the confession, said:

"Taylor has confessed the entire business. He states that when the money was delivered to him by the express messenger he took it. That was in October of last year before the merger of the two banks. He took the money to his home, where he dug a hole in the cellar under the front part of his house and buried it. It remained there unknown to anyone until a few weeks ago last Friday. One night while Mrs. Taylor was in the Adirondacks Taylor waited until his son had gone to bed and then secured the money from the cellar. He signed the notes and cut them apart. Before that they had been in sheets. He then took the train for St. Louis."

DIED ON SAME DAY

THE LATE BISHOP HUNTINGTON.

Bishop Hnntington and His Son Passed Away

HADLEY, July 12—Right Rev. Frederick Dan Huntington, Episcopal bishop of the Central diocese of New York, died at his summer home here yesterday afternoon. Death came at 4.30 o'clock and found the venerable clergyman in the room where he was born 85 years ago. The end was not unexpected as the bishop had been in failing health for several months as a result of a complication of diseases which old age denied him the strength to combat successfully. Two weeks ago there was a decided change for the worse and yesterday the patient was seized with congestive chills. His physicians then announced that death was imminent.

Following the wishes of the bishop, as expressed during his last illness, the funeral services will be characterized by simplicity. There will be a service at the old farm house at which only members of the immediate family and intimate friends will be present at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Right Rev. Charles Tyler Olmstead, of Utica, N. Y., bishop coadjutor and Bishop Huntington's successor will officiate. The interment will be made in the Huntington family burying ground at 5 o'clock.

The brief service at the grave will be public.

Bishop Huntington came to Hadley from his home in Syracuse, N. Y., on June 26, to spend, as was his custom, the warmer months at the farm where he was born and married. The day after his arrival, he attended the commencement exercises at Smith college, and offered prayer. This was his last public appearance, his rapid decline dating from a few days later.

Right Rev. Frederick Dan Huntington D. D. LL. D. Ph. D., was born in Hadley on the day of the birth of Queen Victoria (May 24, 1819.) His father was Rev. Dan Huntington, a Congregational minister. He was graduated from Amherst college in the class of 1838, of which he was valedictorian and was the last surviving member of that class. Soon after his graduation he entered the Unitarian ministry and for a number of years preached in the South Congregational church, the parish of which Rev. Edward Everett Hale is pastor emeritus. Dr. Huntington afterwards filled the Plummer chair of Theology at Harvard university.

While a professor at Harvard in 1851, Dr. Huntington accepted the doctrine of the Trinity and entered the Episcopal church. He was ordained priest in that year and became rector of Emmanuel church, Boston. He remained there until 1859 in which year he was elected bishop of the diocese of Albany. He declined this election but a little later was made bishop of Central N. Y., with headquarters at Syracuse. During his long episcopate the Episcopal church has rapidly grown in that diocese and he established numerous schools and hospitals. He was known as a conservative churchman and a sound theologian. He was known as a friend of laboring men and was the first president of the Church Association for the Advancement of Labor.

In 1843 Dr. Huntington married Miss Hannah Sargent of Boston.

Five children were born to them, all of whom survive. They are: Rev. Fr. J. O. S. Huntington, superior of the order of the Holy Cross, West Park, N. Y.; Rev. George P. Huntington, D. D. professor of Hebrew in Dartmouth college; Miss Arrie S. Huntington, for several years school commissioner of Syracuse; Miss Mary L. Huntington, also of Syracuse; Mrs. Archibald of Northampton.

The successor of Bishop Huntington will be Right Rev. Charles T. Olmstead, D. D., his bishop coadjutor.

PROF. HUNTINGTON DEAD.

HANOVER, N. H., July 12.—Dr. George P. Huntington, professor of Hebrew at Dartmouth college died last night of slow fever. Death occurred only a few hours after the receipt here of the intelligence of the death at Hadley, Mass. Yesterday afternoon of Dr. Huntington's father, the Right Rev. Frederick Dan Huntington, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Central New York.

For twelve years Dr. Huntington had been rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal church, although his connection with the chair of Hebrew of Dartmouth college was of more recent date.

As in the case of his father, Dr. Huntington's death was due to a complication of diseases. Six weeks ago he was attacked with a slow fever which later developed symptoms of typhoid.

Yesterday morning Dr. Huntington's physicians stated that the patient's condition was greatly improved. Last night the news was received here of the death yesterday afternoon in Hadley, Mass., of Dr. Huntington's father. Soon after Dr. Huntington was told of his father's death he was seized with a severe attack of asthma. His six weeks' illness had weakened him and he was unable to resist the attack and death soon followed. Dr. Huntington was 84 years of age. He leaves a widow, three sons and a daughter.

STEAMSHIP LOST

The San Jacinto Destroyed by Fire

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—The steamship San Jacinto of the Mallory line was damaged to the extent of $40,000 by fire today while lying at Roch's shipyard, Chester, Pa., where she was laid up for repairs. The flames were confined to the after part of the vessel between decks.

The boat was built by the Roch Ship Building company at a cost of over half a million dollars and was launched about a year ago. When completed the San Jacinto was placed on the line between New York and Galveston. She was brought to Chester on June 8 for repairs and would have been ready to take her regular run next week.

The fire originated in a room used for storing oil and varnish and had gained such headway before the arrival of the fire engines that the firemen divided their attention between the big vessel and the property of the ship building company adjacent to the dock.

HURLEY RAID

WAS DUE TO POLITICS SAYS EX-MAYOR.

SALEM, July 12.—Ex-Mayor Hurley says the raid on his store Sunday morning is the work of his political enemies. "I am in no way implicated in any illegal liquor traffic which may have been carried on in this city, and the complaint against me is the work of political enemies. Before the affair is ended, certain people will regret this thing," he said last night.

Mr. Hurley and Bernard Shutzkiver are named as the proprietors of a drug store which the police raided.

"We can prove that ex-Mayor Hurley is associated with Shutzkiver," declared Marshall Field last night, "and that the liquor discovered in the different parts of the building was owned by them."

"Ex-Mayor Hurley is the victim of scheming politicians," said ex-Alderman J. H. Cashman, a close friend of the accused.

"Political opponents fear that Mr. Hurley will enter the political field in the next campaign.

"Just wait until the real issue comes to light, and then I will enter the battle. I know many things at City hall of which the public has no inkling, and before this case is over, Salem will experience a sensation."

RECORD BROKEN

STANLEY CLIMBED MOUNT WASHINGTON IN 28 MINUTES.

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N. H., July 12.—A number of the automobilists who in yesterday's contest up Mount Washington broke the previous record of 48 minutes, 35 seconds, for the eight miles up the mountain, today continued the competition in an endeavor to lower yesterday's marks. F. E. Stanley in his six horse power steam machine, with which yesterday he came out ahead of all others, having ascended in 31 minutes, 15 seconds, succeeded today in clipping almost three minutes from his previous time. He made the ascent today in 28 minutes 19 2-5 seconds.

DANGEROUS FUN

Indulged in by Children on Canal Bridge

Georgette Bibeault, aged 2½ years, and Dewey Bibeault, aged 3½ years, children of Mr. Napoleon Bibeault of 88 Ford street, and Andre Bouthillette, aged 3½ years and son of Mr. Wilbrod Bouthillette, had a narrow escape from being drowned in the canal which flows between Ford and Chelmsford streets yesterday.

The three little ones were playing in the vicinity of the Aiken street canal bridge and crawled through the railing and walked out on the short ends of the planking which extends a little beyond these guards. These ends are very short and there is scarcely room for a foothold. Under their feet rolled the swift current of the canal, into which a misstep might have sent one or all in an instant.

The builders of the bridge made a mistake in not closing up these apertures so that children could not crawl through. Now the superintendent of streets is requested to look after this source of danger to children and anxiety to parents.

Mr. Thomas Willetts of 202 Lawrence street sails for England today to act as agent and demonstrator of the Ford Patent Ring machine.

GREWSOME FIND

CASKET CONTAINED BODY OF A CHILD.

LAWRENCE, July 12—Curtis Dearborn, proprietor of the second hand dealer's store at the corner of Common and Amesbury streets, has in his possession a curious and interesting relic. An uncle of the professor, who owns a farm near Salem, N. H., while plowing recently struck some metallic substance and when it was dug up it proved to be a metal coffin about three feet long.

When opened the casket was found to contain the bones of a human being, and from their size and the length of the coffin it is presumed that the bones were those of a child. The casket was covered with a thick coating of rust.

On the casket is a metal plate on which is inscribed some words which have not yet been deciphered owing to the accumulations of rust. An endeavor will be made today to clean the tablet and thus find out whose body reposed in the casket.

FIREMEN'S MUSTER

THE BOSTON VETERANS WANT THE MUSTER.

Since the New England States Veteran Firemen's association cannot be held in Fall River, the veterans of Boston are trying to get the muster if possible. Worcester, Providence and Portsmouth are also looking for it. There it not much chance of Providence getting it however, for Providence withdrew in favor of Fall River as the former city could not secure sufficient funds to pull the muster off.

NON-UNION BREAD

SAID TO BE SENT FROM LOWELL TO NASHUA.

NASHUA, July 12.—At a meeting of the traders and labor assembly, last night, the question of preventing the sale of non-union bread was gone over at length. John Clifford, A. Acton and John Bradshaw were appointed to confer with the dealers and to prevent the distribution of this bread, which is said to come from Lowell, Mass. The semi-annual election was held, and after twenty-nine ballots J. F. Jefts was made president.

The other officers are: Vice president, J. Acton; corresponding and recording secretary, William Ahearn; financial secretary, George Hooper; assistant financial secretary, Fred Ladoux; treasurer, H. Bordeau; sergeant-at-arms, J. F. Jefts; organizing committee, George Crocker, William Ahearn, Michael O'Neil, A. H. Drumm, B. Paquette and P. Brouen. The officers were installed last night by Delegate A. E. Esterline.

FATALLY BURNED

LITTLE GIRL'S DRESS CAUGHT FIRE.

BLACKSTONE, July 12.—Esther, the 5-year-old daughter of John Bentley, was fatally burned while playing near her home yesterday morning. The girl was with a number of companions and one of them had a ball of waste.

One of the party lighted the waste and the fire caught on the Bentley girl's dress. She was entirely enveloped in a moment, and before the flames could be put out her chest, arms and head were frightfully burned. Dr. T. F. Roache was called and ordered her removal to the Woonsocket hospital, where it was reported last evening she had no chance for recovery.

FOR NEW SCHOOL

Education Committee Votes Loan of $70,000

FOR SCHOOL HOUSE IN CENTRALVILLE

Only One Member of Committee Opposed the Measure

The committee on education of the city council got together last evening at City hall and after some discussion finally voted to recommend that a loan of $70,000 for the building of a school in Ennell street be made. Councilman Mayberry was the only member in opposition.

Chairman Gallagher, who has been untiring in his efforts to bring the matter to a head, presided over the meeting and there were present Aldermen Miskella and Councilmen Cheney, Cosgrove and Mayberry.

The loan of $8000 for the Textile school was recommended without debate.

On motion of Councilman Cheney it was voted to view the Grand and Howard street schools with the idea toward alleviating the bad sanitation.

Alderman Miskella called up the Centralville school house matter and Councilman Cheney, a tonsorial artist by trade, expressed the belief that a 12-room school house could be built for $5000 a room or $10,000 less than Supt. Conlan had estimated. Councilman Cheney self-confidently stated that he did not believe that Supt. Conlan, who, by the way, is a practical brick work contractor and member of the Builders' Exchange, was competent to estimate such a large job.

Chairman Gallagher stated that the superintendent had made his estimate from the figures of several leading builders while Councilman Cosgrove, jokingly, remarked that he was surely as competent as the man who said that the High school annex could be built for $29,000.

Alderman Miskella stated that there has been enough play and dilly-dallying over the matter which has been before the city council for five years.

Councilman Mayberry wanted the loan divided among all of the sections, saying that he didn't believe a 12-room building was wanted in Centralville, when the Highland and Lincoln schools were so badly in need of extension. He thought a smaller building in Centralville would do well enough.

Councilman Cosgrove said $70,000, divided among the different districts, wouldn't do much in any one of them. He thought it would take $500,000 at least, to put every school house in the city in prime condition.

It was voted that the chairman be instructed to draw up a loan for $70,000, for the erection of a 12-room building in Ennell street. Councilman Mayberry alone opposed the loan.

Councilman Mayberry moved that a loan for $50,000, for a site, in the vicinity of Stevens and Midland streets, and for a building thereon be negotiated. It was not seconded.

On motion of Councilman Cosgrove the question of poor sanitation in the Edson, Butler and Lyon street schools be referred to the superintendent of lands and buildings for suggestions as to the best remedies for existing conditions.

Mr. Cheney moved that a site be looked up in the Highlands, for a new school building. Superintendent of Schools Whitcomb to accompany the committee.

BAND CONCERTS

COMMITTEE SELECTS THEIR DATES AND PLACES.

The committee on band concerts met last night and voted to have ten band concerts, adopting the following schedule:

July 14—Thursday, South common.
July 17—Sunday, Fort Hill.
July 21—Thursday, North common.
July 24—Sunday, South common.
July 28—Thursday, Centralville.
July 31—Sunday, North common.
Aug. 4—Thursday, Highlands.
Aug. 7—Sunday, South common.
Aug. 11—Thursday, Pawtucketville.
Aug. 14—Sunday, South common.

It was voted to pay $60 for each concert, for bands each of not less than 25 men.

It was voted that concert programs for the newspapers be furnished by band leaders, on day before the concerts.

It is more profitable to advertise honorably and fail in the attempt to get business, than to advertise dishonorably and succeed for a little while.

BABY ATTACKED

By Hungry Rat in Salem Street House

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Letendre of 80 Salem street is suffering from the effects of a rat bite. The seven-weeks old baby was bitten during the night, about a week ago on the face, left wrist and palm of left hand. She lost considerable blood.

The house in which the family resides is very old and is infested with hungry rats whose boldness at times has alarmed the family yet the rodents had never attacked anybody. It was the little one's cries of pain that awoke her mother and the rat did not cease to bite his little victim until driven away.

CANADIANS LEAD

IN INTERNATIONAL CRICKET MATCH.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12—The 36th annual international cricket match between Canada and the United States, the latter represented by players picked from the various Philadelphia cricket clubs was begun yesterday on the grounds of the Merion Cricket club at Haverford, a suburb of this city. The weather was cloudy. The Canadians made 182 runs in their first inning and when stumps were drawn for the night the Americans had accumulated 122 runs for the loss of three wickets. For the visitors I. C. S. Saunders and Captain Simonds played excellent cricket, they making 61 and 51 runs respectively. J. B. King, for the Americans had a fine inning of 40.

WEALTHY BROKER

PICKED UP BY THE WORCESTER POLICE.

WORCESTER, July 12—George A. Andresen, 44 years old, a wealthy broker of Larchmont, N. Y., was picked up on the street in a dazed condition yesterday by Patrolman Daniel F. Sullivan and taken to the city hospital last night for treatment.

When Patrolman Sullivan addressed him he could give no account of himself, and the officer took him to police headquarters, where several unsuccessful attempts were made during the day to get his story from him. He did not have a cent in his clothes and could give absolutely no information regarding himself or his home. His mind was a blank.

Last night he called for doorman George W. Baker and said, "I remember now." He then told the officer who he was and that he lived in Larchmont in the next house to Fred Proctor, the theatrical man.

He said he left his home in Larchmont Tuesday and arrived Wednesday morning in Boston, where he registered at the hotel Essex. Since Wednesday his mind has been a blank. He does not know when or how he left Boston or when he arrived in Worcester.

As soon as he told his story he was taken to the city hospital at 9.15, and Chief of Police William J. E. Stone telegraphed his wife to come to Worcester for him.

EASTMAN TRIAL

Judge Foster Argued For the Defence

ALFRED, Me., July 12.—The jury in the trial of Dr. Charles A. Eastman of Boston and Old Orchard listened seven hours yesterday to arguments. County Attorney Emery will today conclude his argument, and it is anticipated that the case will go to the jury early in the afternoon.

Judge Enoch Foster of Portland made the closing argument for the defence, occupying four hours. He declared that the state had failed to prove the allegations that a murder was committed. On the contrary, the testimony showed that when Edith McIntire, at her home in Boothbay Harbor, took a dose of oxalic acid, either accidentally or with suicidal intent, it caused the death of her unborn child, and that before she arrived at Dr. Eastman's sanitorium the condition which he is charged with having caused already existed; that, owing to her weakened constitution, she was on the brink of the grave.

Judge Foster further argued that every word and act of Dr. Eastman after the death of Miss McIntire was consistent with his plea of innocence. His flight from his Boston office, and aimless traveling from place to place in the suburbs was explained as simply being the result of nervousness over the publication of newspaper dispatches that he was wanted at Old Orchard on a charge of murder.

County Attorney Emery at the outset said that the charge on which the respondent was being tried was that of murder, but the indictment was so worded that a verdict of manslaughter might be rendered if the jury thought him guilty of that crime, rather than of murder.

In discussing the medical expert testimony, the county attorney said that two of the doctors who testified for the state performed the autopsy and saw the actual conditions; the third examined specimens sent him after the autopsy.

The letters written to Dr. Eastman by his wife, containing the mention of names of other women, prospective patients, were cited as evidence of the kind of practice the respondent was following.

The county attorney sprang something of a sensation in his argument by declaring that the alleged "bedside record," a memorandum which the respondent testified was daily kept during Miss McIntire's illness, was made up in Alfred jail. He called the jury's attention to the entries from day to day, made in precisely the same kind of ink, the same character of shading, and that a partial blur, caused by an obstruction on the point of the pen, had run through three days of alleged hourly records of the patient's symptoms and treatment.

THIRTY YEARS ON MERRIMACK ST., ACROSS FROM CITY HALL

DEAD IN RUINS

Manager of Broker's Office Despondent

CONCORD, N. H., July 12.—An explosion in the second story of the Exchange block on North Main street at 11.20 last night wrecked the inside of the building and resulted in a fire which caused damage estimated at $6000. The explosion occurred in the brokerage rooms of Cunningham & Co. and Chester E. Hooper of Everett, Mass. the local manager, was taken out of the room dead. What was at first believed to be a bullet wound was noticed in his head, but it was later set down as one of the results of the explosion. An autopsy will be held today.

The first evidence of the affair came when, accompanied by a huge volume of smoke, the windows in the front of the building were blown out on to the sidewalk and the entrance to the building filled with black smoke that made it almost impossible at first to enter the building. Capt. Flanders was in the vicinity at the time, and a detail of policemen soon arrived. It was some moments before an alarm of fire was sounded, and by that time the police were able to enter the building. The two upper stories of the building are almost exclusively occupied as tenements, and women, dressed only in their night clothes, commenced to come down stairs.

The police as quickly as possible went through the building awakening those who were distant from the explosion, and breaking open the doors to be certain that no one was left in the building. All the women were removed, but after the police and firemen were driven from the building by the smoke and flames two men were taken out in an almost unconscious condition, and one of them, a man named Collins, was taken to the hospital injured. The explosion occurred in the closet of the brokerage office, and soon after the flames had commenced to spread the door to the main office was broken open by Capt. Flanders, and Hooper was seen lying on the floor covered by debris. He was taken to the street below before the ambulance arrived. Little is known of the man as he has been in the city but a short time.

The fire was under control in a half hour, and while the damage was considerable, interest centred in the dead man and the causes of the fire. It is alleged that the concern has not been prospering lately in its Concord business, and friends of Hooper said last night that he had been despondent of late. The suicide theory was explained when it was found that there were no gas connections in the room. Pending the autopsy the police are at a loss to ascribe any cause for the explosion.

TWO LIVES SAVED

Two Other Persons Were Drowned

CAMDEN, Me., July 12.—A double drowning in the harbor last night was followed by a sensational rescue, in which two other lives were saved only through the courage of the party.

The drowned:

ROBERT YOUNG, 19 years of age, of Waldo.

MAMIE BARKER, aged 23 years, of Camden.

The rescued:

Ernest Picket, aged 25 years, of Camden.

Fannie Willis, 22 years, of Rockland.

The two young couples were sailing off Sherman's Point when their boat was capsized.

Young and Miss Barker sank quickly and were drowned.

Picket, who is an athlete, seized Miss Willis and started to swim for shore. At the point where he touched, however, a sheer precipice arises, and it was only after repeated efforts that Picket secured a footing. His companion had become exhausted, and he was obliged to hold her in his arms to save her from falling into the water.

Cottagers who heard his cries were unable to locate them because of the fog. A telephone message was sent to this place, and parties in boats finally discovered the two in their perilous position. Picket, who was nearly exhausted, had lost his footing and was clinging to a crevice in the ledge with one hand, while with the other he supported the unconscious form of his companion. Neither will suffer seriously from their experience.

MANY VICTIMS

GAMBLING ON A FAMILY EXCURSION STEAMER.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 12—The failure of the authorities to suppress gambling on the family excursion steamer Corwin H. Spencer was evidenced yesterday by the receipt of complaints at the four courts from a number of victims, including Mr. and Mrs. Kisling of Boston, Mass. Mr. Kisling explained that he and his wife had lost $60 after being induced to play by a "capper" who assured that that they couldn't lose.

SUIT FOR $10,000

Growing Out of Pelham Trolley Accident

The trolley accident at Pelham, several months ago, is recalled by the announcement that suit for $10,000 has been brought against the Hudson, Pelham and Salem electric company by the estate of Abbie N. Dillon of West Brookfield, to recover for her death which is alleged to have been caused by injuries received while she was a passenger on one of the company's cars.

Abbie Dillon was among those who were injured in the disaster in Pelham, September 6, 1903, when several people were killed and a score injured by the collision of two high-speed cars. The injured woman died at a hospital in Lowell on the following day and in the suit is alleged to have suffered much during the time intervening between the accident and her death.

Yesterday morning Deputy Sheriff J. H. Hunt went to Pelham and armed with a writ attached the property of the railroad company to the amount named in the suit. This case is one of the few that was left unsettled, payments having been made by the road in nearly all of the other cases.

"KID" PARKER

REPORTED TO BE AMONG THE MISSING.

FALL RIVER, July 12.—Local sports are much excited over the disappearance of "Kid" Parker, well known as a wrestler. Parker came here last February and had been running a wrestling school. The rooms were fitted with stylish furniture, secured on the instalment plan from a local dealer.

A week ago Parker, who had been living at a lodging house with his wife, moved to a house on Third street and applied for permission to move the furniture of the wrestling school to that place. This permission was granted, but it is alleged the furniture was disposed of to various second-hand dealers and that Parker disappeared.

The balance of indebtedness on the goods, about $87, remains unpaid, and the matter was put in the hands of the police yesterday morning.

There are others besides the furniture firm who have claims on Parker.

SKULL FRACTURED

FESSENDEN WAS KILLED BY A FALL.

BOSTON, July 12.—Frank H. Fessenden, 55, custodian of the Museum of fine arts, was killed by a fall yesterday morning in the museum. The accident happened at a time when no one was within hearing distance. He was found unconscious on the floor soon afterward, and was sent to the City hospital. The physicians found that his skull had been fractured in two places and that several of his ribs had been broken. He died early last evening.

It is presumed that he was at work near the ceiling when the ladder slipped and threw him to the floor, a distance of some 20 feet.

Fessenden's home was at 159 Mystic street, Arlington.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Serious Damage Was Done in North Billerica

The thunder and lightning storm, which just dodged this city shortly before one o'clock this afternoon, raised havoc in North Billerica, houses being struck, telephones and electric lights put out of commission and even people being shocked. The old residents of the town claim that it was one of the most severe lightning storms that has struck the town for a long time. The rain, descended in torrents, the thunder roared and the lightning was blinding.

About half past twelve the sky began to darken, and the wind blew so hard that people thought a hurricane was coming. Then the rain started to come, accompanied by thunder and lightning. The roar of the thunder was so loud and the lightning so bright that the people were terrified.

During the fury of the storm the houses occupied by T. J. McCarthy and Henry Mahoney, situated on Church street, near St. Andrew's church, were struck by the lightning and badly damaged. The lightning entered the attics of both houses and raised havoc with the plastering, furniture, shingles and chimneys. Fortunately the occupants of both houses were on the ground floor when the lightning struck or else they might have been killed.

The electric lights at the Talbot Dyewood and Chemical Co. were put out of commission as were those in other places in the town. Many of the telephones were also affected so that word had to be sent to this city for assistance in repairing the electric and telephone wires.

Assistant Station Agent Delmage, at the Boston & Maine station at North Billerica, received a shock which placed him in a semi-conscious condition for a while, but he later recovered.

Many trees were felled to the ground, while houses lost numerous shingles and bricks from the chimneys.

LABOR DELEGATES

Roosevelt Turns Down Delegates of 225,000 Workers

OYSTER BAY, July 12.—A committee consisting of M. Burke of Carbondale, Pa., and Henry Horskovitz of Plymouth, Pa., representing the central labor unions in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties, with a membership of 225,000 men, principally miners or allied workmen, came here today to present to President Roosevelt resolutions adopted by the several central labor bodies they represent, urging him to investigate the Colorado labor situation. The committeemen were received by Secretary Loeb whom they asked to arrange an interview with the president. Mr. Loeb offered to lay the resolutions himself before the president, but as the committee had been directed to present them personally to the president Mr. Loeb's position was not satisfactory. The members of the committee were informed by the secretary that a personal interview with the president could not be arranged. He suggested that they call on National Chairman Cortelyou in New York with the resolutions, but they declined to accept the suggestion. They left immediately for home to report to a convention which is now in session at Pitston, Pa.

GOING TOO FAST

Autoist Fined For Exceeding Billerica's Speed Limit

Henry B. Morse of Newtonville, in police court today, pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with exceeding the automobile speed limit in Billerica on Sunday last, and was fined $10. Morse said he did not know that he was exceeding the speed limit. He said it was rather difficult for the automobilist to tell how fast he is speeding and he pleaded guilty, he said, on the word of Officer Conway. No such qualification, however, was allowed by by the court and Mr. Morse pleaded guilty on his own responsibility, without any reference to the officer's claim.

Officer Conway found two victims Sunday afternoon. The second one was William J. Rooney of Boston and he will appear in police court Thursday morning, at least he has been summoned to appear. He was in charge of a motor car owned by H. S. Allen of Manchester, N. H. Rooney would have escaped the vigilance of Officer Conway and his assistants but for the fact that his machine broke down. He allowed it was pretty "bum" luck. Rooney made the eighth of a mile in seventeen seconds and Officer Conway said that before Rooney struck the speed test, the measured distance, his machine was making about fifty miles an hour, and people in Billerica allow "that's going some."

FOR ILLEGAL KEEPING.

Pierre Bougeois and Wilfred L. L'Esperance pleaded guilty to complaints charging them with illegally keeping and exposing for sale intoxicating liquors. They were fined $100 each for illegal keeping and the sale complaints were placed on file with affidavits.

The case of Sumner W. Williams and William Leahy, charged with illegally keeping liquor, came up on a continuance and was continued again, this time to July 19.

Anthony Uzdan, charged with illegally keeping liquor, was ordered in $300 for his appearance before the court on Friday morning.

THE DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Judge Hadley has remarked several times on the increase of drunken offenders, especially women, during the last few weeks. His honor would favor a drive against the places that cater to the women who go 'round to the little side door.

Bernard Jacobson, a one-armed man, was charged with drunkenness and denied the allegation. Bernard's wife said that her husband was very cross, while under the influence of liquor, but she was willing to excuse him this time. The court, however, after hearing what the arresting officer had to say, decided that a trip to the workhouse would do Bernard all the good in the world, and Bernard, pleading and penitent, was hooked to join Dr. Donlan's force at the city farm. Bernard wanted to ride in Mr. Slattery's wagon but the court couldn't see it.

Winifred Rock will inhale the fresh air at the workhouse, barring accident, for the next three months.

Bridget Wilson will keep her company, and will have another month to spend after Winifred is given her release.

Catherine McDermott will be there to say "good night" and "good morning" for one month only.

John E. Corcoran will sojourn at the state farm until the second week in October. Robert Hendry was sentenced to the workhouse and was then placed on probation. Margaret Kelley and Thomas A. Armour were fined $6 each. Seven first offenders were fined $2 each and four were released.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Samuel and Sarah Miller of Billerica were charged with assault and battery and had their case continued one month.

PUT OUT FLAMES

Fr. McDermod's Coolness Averts Bad Accident

Owing to the presence of mind of Rev. Hugh M. McDermod, little Miss Molly Kane of Elm street narrowly escaped being severely burned at St. Peter's church, Sunday evening.

The accident occurred during a reception of children into the children of Mary sodality and the little girls wearing white veils and carrying lighted candles marched about the church and then proceeded to the altar. When near the altar a draught from the vestry door threw the flame on the candle carried by Miss Kane into her veil which hung about her shoulders and in an instant it was in flames, and it looked to those in the front of the church as though the entire line of girls would be enveloped in the flames.

Fr. McDermod who was at the further side of the church happened to glance over just in time to see the veil catch fire. He appreciated the situation in an instant and rushing up to the altar rail grasped the little girl in his arms and beat out the flames. It took only a minute to beat out the flame and the girl escaped without injury while Fr. McDermod sustained slight burns on his hands.

HELD IN $7,000

Ives Pleaded Guilty of Assault

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—Edward H. Ives, who was arrested after shooting Mrs. Julia F. C. Auty on the street yesterday, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon in the district court today and was held in $7000 bonds for sentence July 19, this action being taken to await the result of his victim's injuries. While Mrs. Auty's wound is considered very dangerous, her case is not entirely hopeless.

Ives' wound is of a superficial nature and he will probably be taken to the county jail to await sentence.

SHOT TRAMP DOG

Police Officer Despatched Him With One Shot

An innocent-looking little dog with sad eyes and an all-gone expression wandered into the police station this forenoon and this afternoon he was shot to death by a 32 calibre revolver in the hands of Officer James Holland. Mr. Holland didn't want the job, but it fell to his lot and his unerring aim closed the lid on all the troubles that the little dog ever knew.

Several of the officers refused to kill the dog. Officer Bumps gave as his excuse that he was too busy with commitment papers. Mr. Maguire, chief of the bureau of information, said that he couldn't hit a barn door. Officer Brown didn't have any revolver and besides he had just had dinner. Other officers made excuses, the majority of which were very weak, and finally Officer Holland was picked upon as the man to do the trick.

Lieut. Donaldson's sharpshooters were on the trail of thieves and housebreakers. If they had been at the station house the unenviable job of shooting the dog would have been done by a member of the sleuth department. All the members of the detective bureau are crack shots and they consider the shooting of dogs excellent practice.

Miss Vining had fed and watered the dog and was telling what a nice, kind little fellow he was when the sound of the pistol shot was heard and a few seconds later Mr. Holland marched into the operator's room, pale-faced and holding in his hand the smoking revolver.

"They'll call me cruel-hearted," he said to Mr. Maguire, "but I was selected to do the killing. I suppose they selected me because I am the best shot in the camp. The poor little fellow didn't murmur. Before shooting I asked him if he had anything to say and he shook his head."

Miss Vining allowed it was a cruel thing to do. "Why didn't they poison the poor little fellow?" she asked and no one answered. The board of health was notified and the little yellow and white dog was taken away.

NIGHT EDITION

MR. BURKE RETURNS

Greatly Fatigued After the St. Louis' Convention

JOHN C. BURKE

Was Not Favorably Impressed With the Manner in Which Convention Was Run — Mr. Bryan Was Strong in the Convention — The Spectators Were All With Parker

John C. Burke, delegate from this district to the democratic national convention, returned home last night from St. Louis probably more tired than he ever was before in his life and despite a good night's rest he still showed signs of fatigue when called upon by a reporter of The Sun at his office this morning. On the trip home the Massachusetts delegation was delayed by three railroad wrecks, necessitating slow traveling until after they had reached Buffalo, and hence they did not get back to Boston for several hours after schedule time.

Mr. Burke while loyally enthusiastic over the result of the convention's deliberations, though an Olney man throughout, could not enthuse over the manner in which the convention was conducted and will be one of the first to vote to exclude outsiders should he ever be sent on a similar errand. Speaking of his experiences, Mr. Burke said: "Notwithstanding the hardships through which I have passed during the week just closed, I feel honored at having been one of the delegation from Massachusetts, for they of all others were a credit to their state, their party and themselves. While they were overwhelmingly outnumbered in the convention, they were still loyal, honorable and in every respect a most exemplary delegation.

The convention was a most remarkable one. There has never been another like it and perhaps it would be as well for the party were there no others like it in the future. There were 1000 delegates and an audience of between 15,000 and 18,000 people, and that great audience took a most active part in the entire proceedings. When the resolutions were read the scene resembled that of a howling mob in possession of the convention hall. It was an impossibility to hear a word that was being said and not more than 20 out of that great gathering, it would appear, heard the reading of the resolutions through. Yet immediately upon the conclusion of the reading of the resolutions, the previous question was moved and carried and the resolutions were voted on by many who did not know what they contained. The outsiders often interrupted a speaker so that few if any could hear what he was saying and he spoke amid a babel of voices. All one could see was the speaker gesticulating and moving his mouth while cheers and laughter drowned his speech. Two men had sufficient control of the convention to make themselves heard and they were Mr. Bryan and Mr. Littleton who nominated Parker. Mr. Littleton had the attention of the crowd because the crowd was all for Parker, but Mr. Bryan had them on his own personality, because he is certainly a wonderful man. Mr. Bryan was stronger in that convention than was ever dreamed of even by Mr. Bryan himself and even those who were bitterly opposed to him had to admire him for his indefatigable efforts in the interest of his cause. I don't believe he got six hours' sleep throughout the convention and he was fighting all the time. After going without sleep for 48 hours and without food for almost as long he stood up and made a most effective speech. If I may be permitted to criticize this wonderful man I can see that he has two weaknesses. In the first place he is prone to getting into trouble. He gets into debate at times when a little diplomacy will gain the desired end. Then he has a wonderful opinion of his own ideas though I must say that he thought no more of himself than that convention thought of him. Mr. Littleton's speech which I suppose you have read was a remarkable effort and anyone who has read it can imagine the stirring effect it had upon a friendly audience numbering several thousands.

The delaying of the balloting until everyone was near ready to drop with fatigue was a bad feature and perhaps was responsible in a measure for the fact that only one ballot was taken, a large number of the delegates taking advantage of the opportunity to change their votes and go over to Parker after the original roll call.

Mr. Parker's telegram of which undoubtedly you have read much in the past few days made him friends among those who were against him in the convention for all admired him for his courage and independence. Then the telegram was the cause of ironing out an omission that might have made some trouble later on, the omission to discuss the monetary situation in the platform. Judge Parker in his telegram announced himself as opposed to any change in the monetary conditions and the convention endorsed his views by a vote of over three to one. Thus there is no question as to how the party now stands on that matter and the delegates left St. Louis feeling that they had presented the strongest platform and had nominated the strongest candidate."

Mr. Burke was then asked his impressions of the St. Louis Exposition and he was not over enthusiastic over that, but as he explained the last evening that he visited the fair he went only for the ride and was really too exhausted to see anything. Compared with the expositons of Paris and Chicago he says the St. Louis Exposition is tame. "The whole place" said Mr. Burke "has an unfinished appearance. There are many beautiful buildings, the electrical display is magnificent and there is fun for all but it is not Chicago by any means." He also stated that the prices for board and rooms are extremely high, some of the delegates paying $10 for one room with a bed and two cots in it, while some of the visitors paid as high as $3 for breakfast.

REFUSE TO WORK

Marble Workers Asked for More Pay

RUTLAND, Vt., July 12.—About 350 members of the Marble Workers' union in Rutland, West Rutland, Proctor and Fowler struck here today because of the refusal of the employers to grant their demands. Temple Brothers and the Columbian Marble Quarrying company's yards here were shut down as soon as the men struck, but the big works of the Vermont Marble company at Proctor and elsewhere are still in operation. The Vermont Marble company is controlled by the Proctor family, of which United States Senator Redfield Proctor of Vermont is the head. In all there are about 4500 hands on the pay rolls of the concerns named and at the Rutland Florence company works at Fowler, but many of them are not union men and did not strike.

The union asks for a nine-hour day, weekly payments, the abolition of piece work, and the adoption of the union scale as paid in New York state.

JUDGE HUNT

DISCUSSED PORTO RICAN AFFAIRS WITH PRESIDENT.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 12.—Senator Fairbanks and National Chairman George B. Cortelyou, who were overnight guests of President Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill, left here for New York today. Mr. Fairbanks will remain in New York until this evening, when he will return directly to Indianapolis. Mr. Cortelyou will stay in New York for several days to make the arrangements for the campaign.

Before the party left Sagamore Hill today, the president, Senator Fairbanks and Chairman Cortelyou were photographed. The conference at Sagamore Hill continued until an early hour this morning but no information concerning it was obtainable.

Judge William Hunt, who until July 1 was governor of Porto Rico, arrived here today. He came to pay his respects to the president and to discuss Porto Rican affairs with him.

STABBED HIMSELF

FEARFUL CULMINATION TO DOUBLE MURDER.

OMAHA, July 12.—William M. Zellar supplied a fearful culmination to the brutal double murder of his wife and his father-in-law Saturday by appearing unexpectedly in the midst of the mourners at the funeral yesterday afternoon and slashing himself twice across the body, disemboweling himself.

A posse of more than 100 policemen, deputy sheriffs and farmers were searching the adjacent woods and fields for miles around for the murderer at the moment he emerged from a thicket on the cemetery grounds.

Zellar was still armed with the knife with which he did the murders. The effects of two days' flight without food and rest were apparent in his colorless face. People at the graves were dazed at the sight of him and before they had time either to cry out or run he drew the knife twice across his abdomen and fell to the ground.

City Physician Ralph, who was near by, wrenched the knife from Zellar's hand and took precautions to prevent him, harming himself further, but he will die.

Zellar is a market gardener, who had borne a good reputation till Saturday morning, when he stabbed his wife to death and then killed his father-in-law, J. R. Burkamp, 69 years old.

POLLING PLACES

COMMITTEE STARTS TO SOLVE A KNOTTY PROBLEM.

The committee on polling places met at City Hall, last evening and heard City Clerk Dadman read the law in regard to joint primaries. The committee was much at sea as to just what to do in relation to the primaries and City Clerk Dadman informed them that action must be taken before long as the time for filing nomination papers opens in August. The primaries for state election will be held Sept. 27.

The meeting was to decide whether primaries should be held by wards or by precincts. Alderman Wilson favored splitting up the different sections of the city, having the primaries held by wards where there was not a great population, and by precincts where a big vote would be polled.

Relative to the time of day between which hours the primaries would be open nothing was done. They must be open in cities for nine consecutive hours. In Boston they have opened at 6 in the morning and closed at 3 in the afternoon.

It was finally voted to adjourn, subject to a call from the chair.

BROKE HIS HAND

MARTIN CANOLE HAS TOUGH LUCK.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—Martin Canole had the misfortune last night to break his hand in the second round of his bout with Willie Fitzgerald at the National A. C. The first round was exciting enough to please any one, but after the accident, which the spectators were not aware of until the bout was over, Canole acted entirely on the defensive.

The result was that the last rounds were tame. While Fitzgerald made no effort to take advantage of his opponent's condition he had the better of the setto.

THE BOUNTY BILL

Attorney General Thinks It Unconstitutional

BOSTON, July 12.—The constitutionality of the old soldiers' bounty bill, passed by the last legislature, is questioned by Attorney General Parker, in an opinion sent to State Treasurer Bradford today. The attorney general said that he had grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the passage of the measure over the governor's veto and advises them not to issue bonds to raise money with which to pay the bounty.

SENATOR ELKINS

BESTOWS HIGH PRAISE ON DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 12.—The republican state convention met here today The chairman of the committee introduced Senator Stephen B. Elkins as temporary chairman of the convention. Mr. Elkins was received with great applause. When order was restored he said in part:

The republican party of this state with a view of lessening the burdens of taxation, providing better methods of assessment and collection and a system of taxation fair and just to all interests, declared boldly for tax reform. At once there sprang up sharp differences and much discussion throughout the state and in the republican press as to the methods of taxation that should be adopted. This discussion has been wholesome and profitable and will help to solve the tax question intelligently.

"The republican party stands for the principle of protection, but individuals differ widely as to the schedules in all the great tariff bills. For instance, the Dingley bill now in force here, has the most perfect principle of machinery ever invented for providing revenue and at the same time protecting American labor and American industries as a whole commanded the support of every republican member of congress, but taken by sections and schedules, there is not a republican member of either house that would vote for each separately.

"The national democratic party in its desire to capture this state, has nominated for vice president one of our most distinguished citizens and the foremost democrat in this state; but in this, as in most everything else, the democrats made a mistake. Senator Davis, in whom I am so nearly related, and for whom I cherish feelings of highest regard, admiration and affection, is a man of affairs and an experienced statesman, having served his state creditably in the senate for 12 years.

HORACE W. WALSH

Evicted Man May Have Ended His Life

Orrin S. Walsh, a paralytic, who was evicted from his house in A street Saturday for the non-payment of rent, is now at the St. James hotel, and is greatly worried over the absence of his brother, Horace W. Walsh, who disappeared Saturday morning. In yesterday's edition of The Sun there was an account of the eviction, because of delinquency in paying their rent. Horace Walsh is a civil war pensioner, and the two, each of whom is over 60 years of age, managed to live on the pension. The brothers were very much devoted to each other and Orrin said this morning that a cross word never passed between the two, that one was willing to cast his lot with the other no matter how hard the road was to travel. Being together the greater part of their life and as they thought a great deal of each other, the disappearance of Horace is keenly felt by his brother.

Last week because there was a delay in sending along the pension money the two were ordered out by a constable. Horace went out at 8 o'clock in the morning to look for a place to reside and also to get a man to move the furniture, and since then he has not been seen or heard from.

A representative of The Sun called at the St. James hotel this morning and during the conversation with Orrin S. Walsh, the latter had the following to say:

"My brother and I have lived happily for years and years and his troubles were my troubles and mine were his. No matter what we had we always divided and neither of us would see the other in want. Horace is one of the best natured men I ever knew. He never had a cross word to say and no one knows better than myself that his road was a hard one. I am suffering from a paralytic shock and am almost helpless, but Horace attended to my every want and we managed to get along on his pension. We bothered no one and lived quietly together.

"I do not care to talk about the eviction, for it separated two brothers who loved each other and I have a strange presentiment that I have seen the last of my brother. If he was alive or able to come to me he would, for the neighbors know where I am."

Continuing his story he said: "On Saturday morning at eight o'clock we knew that we had to leave the house before night and my brother went to look for a room where we could go and also to see a Mr. Claus on Lincoln street to remove our household goods to a storage place. He left me good-bye and said he would return soon. I do not know where he went but think that he went to Mr. Claus, for that gentleman came to the house and removed the goods to a place of safety.

"I waited around the house all day. He did not come to dinner, neither did he come to supper, and then I became worried. Not knowing what to do and as I had no place to lay my head that night I waited until 9.30 o'clock when I had one of the neighbors hire a carriage and I directed the man to drive to the drug store where my son works in Branch street. When I reached the drug store I found that my son was away on his vacation and as I had to go some place to bed I told the man to drive me to the St. James hotel. I have been here since then and not a word or a message have I received from Horace. I know that something has happened him."

In the course of his conversation Mr. Walsh said that owing to his condition and the pecuniary circumstances that he and his brother had been in he thought his brother's mind had been turned and that his brother had spoken about going either to the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea or at Togus. He felt sure that Horace would have told him when he intended to start. Mr. Walsh said that he thought that some person killed him.

"Did your brother have any enemies, or is there anyone who would do him bodily harm?" asked the reporter.

"No, I do not know of a person who thought ill of him, for he would not do anything out of the way, but there is something that tells me that he is dead or hurt in some manner."

An inquiry brought out the fact that Horace Walsh was at times unbalanced in his mind. His brother informed the reporter that Horace was also quite despondent at times, and it is thought that owing to the trouble the men were in, and there being no signs of better times for them, together with the heat, that Horace may have ended his life, probably by jumping into a canal or one of the rivers.

FOR DRUNKENNESS

Soldier Arrested Here May be Court Martialed

Corporal Brylerger came to Lowell from Fort Banks this morning and returned with Patrick McNamara, the soldier who was convicted of drunkenness in the local police court a few days ago. Judge Hadley's sentence was waived and the soldier was taken into custody by the United States officer. "What will they do with him?" asked a police officer of Corporal Brylerger. "He will probably get three years," replied the corporal.

PELHAM FARMER

SEIZED WITH SUDDEN FIT OF INSANITY.

John Quigley, a farmer residing in Pelham, raised ructions on Hampshire street in Lawrence Saturday morning.

Quigley was riding on Hampshire street, near Lowell street, about 10 o'clock, when he suddenly jumped from his team. He pulled off his coat and vest and threw them into one of William Forbes & Sons' wagons. Quigley then ran to Maloney's store at the corner of Hampshire and Valley streets and picked up two pumpkins which he hurled at the crowd of spectators who were following him. The pumpkins went wide of their mark and were shattered to pieces by coming in contact with the pavement.

Quigley continued his wild run until he reached Holihan Brothers' store. Here he picked up two tonic bottles and was in the act of throwing them through a plate glass window when he was seized by Joseph Doyle and J. Praeetzs who held him until Policeman Reardon arrived and took Quigley to the station. Quigley was examined at the Lawrence police station and it was decided that he was temporarily insane. The Concord, N. H., authorities were communicated with and an officer was sent from that place Saturday night and Quigley was given into his charge. It was necessary to strap him in order to prevent his doing harm. The effects of the heat and a copious supply of drink no doubt caused his trouble, which is believed to be but temporary.

INSTANTLY KILLED

BALL PLAYER WAS STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

PITTSBURG, July 12.—Charles Jefferies, left fielder of the Johnstown baseball team, was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon and died almost instantly. The team had just finished practice and Jeffries was in the act of throwing the ball to second baseman Sadin, when there was a flash of lightning and he fell on the field.

Jefferies is the man the New York National league team was after. His parents reside at Lancaster, Pa.

HIS HAND INJURED.

Joseph Donahue, residing at 15 Merrill street, and employed in the bottling department of the Harvard brewery, while at work this morning, met with an accident, one of the bottles which he was holding exploded, inflicting a severe gash in his right hand. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to St. John's hospital, where his injury was dressed.

83 YEARS OLD

Charles H. Hanson Sr. Observes Anniversary

Mr. Charles H. Hanson, one of the oldest citizens of this city, yesterday celebrated the eight-third anniversary of his birth at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Daniel R. Fryo, 219 Gibson street. The celebration was confined to the immediate relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson, their children and grandchildren.

Mr. Hanson was born in Barnston, Canada, 83 years ago and came to Lowell in May, 1840. Soon after his arrival in this city he went to work on the old Middlesex canal on a canal boat that plied between Middlesex Village and Boston. Afterwards he went into the employ of Horace Howard as a teamster, but later embarked in trade for himself on Rock street in the teaming and stable business in which he continued with marked success until 1887, when he retired and left it in the hands of his sons, the Hon. C. H. Hanson and Mr. J. S. Hanson, whose horse repository is known as one of the best of its kind to be found in this part of the country.

Mr. Hanson was always a staunch republican and at the time Fletcher M. Ayer was running for mayor, Mr. Hanson was his right-hand man.

The old gentleman is something of a gardener, having one of the finest gardens in the Highlands, the care of which falls entirely on him.

All of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson's family live in the immediate neighborhood where the aged couple reside, so their home is a sort of rendezvous for them.

STUBBORN BLAZE

FIRE CAUSED $25,000 LOSS IN WOONSOCKET.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 12.—A stubborn fire, the origin of which is unknown, did $25,000 damage in Edwards block next to the Worcester division railroad station last night. The damage to the three-story building will reach $5000 while over $20,000 damage was done to stock, furniture, etc., in various stores and offices. The heaviest losses are estimated as follows:

James Dyce & Co., dry goods, $10,000; Desroches brothers, $3000; Earle and Prew Express, $3000; Hector Desmarais, photographer, $2500.

The losses are covered by insurance, except in Desmarais's case, whose insurance is about half his loss. The rest of the tenants, namely physicians and dentists, all sustained losses. The blaze was the most serious one that has taken place in the city's business district since Edwards block and the Worcester division railroad station of the Consolidated road were gutted by fire 22 years ago.

PLOT EXPOSED

WOMAN TOLD HOW PRISONERS PLANNED TO ESCAPE.

LACONIA, N. H., July 13.—A well-arranged plot of escape by the prisoners in the Belknap county jail was discovered and thwarted yesterday through information given by a woman.

Mrs. Parsons, wife of Howard E. Parsons, who is held for the grand jury on a charge of abducting Addie Tate of this city, informed police officer Rowen that one Mrs. Zalonis, wife of a Russian who is in the jail, had confided that she had taken into the jail when visiting her husband some saws for cutting metal and a file.

Officer Rowen at once told Jailer Weymouth yesterday, and he and Sheriff Philbrook made a thorough search of the jail. A confession was obtained from one of the prisoners to the effect that the tools were in the cell of a prisoner named Legrand. When confronted Legrand admitted the plot, and from his cell were taken five saws and a new file. Later he also produced a saw frame which was hidden in the main room of the jail outside the cells on a niche near the ceiling.

As near as can be learned the tools have been in the possession of the prisoners about ten days. The prisoners now in the jail, including the Russian, who is held for the higher court on a charge of adultery, are Legrand, who is serving a sentence of one year for the conversion of a mileage book and whose time is nearly up; Parsons, James Danforth of Wolfboro, who is held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of assaulting a 14-year-old girl in Gilford; Edward Corey, held for larceny; Noie Larock, held on a charge of assaulting a female child; Peter Ogden, a half-breed Indian, held on a charge of attempted highway robbery, and Clarence Hurley, held for breaking and entering and larceny.

The authorities believe that Danforth was the ringleader. Sheriff Philbrook has given orders that the strictest watch be put upon all visitors admitted to the jail, and all the prisoners have been put into parti-colored prison suits.

WARE, July 12.—About 10.30 yesterday morning while Louis Fountain, aged 41, and Thomas Parker, aged 70, were shingling the roof of the postoffice at Gilbertville in the town of Hardwick, the staging they were on gave way, throwing them to the ground.

Fountain was instantly killed and Parker fatally injured. The latter was alive last night but no hope is held of his recovery.

Fountain leaves a wife and 11 children, and Parker, who is a widower, has nine children.

PRIEST STABBED

Rev. John P. Barry May Not Live

HE WAS ATTACKED BY FORMER JANITOR

The Latter Was in the Insane Asylum

BOSTON, July 12.—Suffering intense agony from two severe knife wounds, the Rev. Fr. John P. Barry, formerly of Boston, and now pastor of St. Anne's Catholic Church, Youngstown, O., is lying between life and death in a hospital in that city.

Fr. Barry was struck down at 10.30 o'clock last Saturday morning by a former janitor at his church just as he had come from an errand of mercy to one of his parishioners, and after he had greeted his assailant, with a shake of the hand.

John Berry is under arrest, charged with the crime. He coolly expressed his sorrow at not having completed "the job." He was in an asylum for about a year. Last Christmas he was discharged as cured.

On Saturday morning he made many inquiries in the neighborhood of the parochial residence regarding the whereabouts of Fr. Barry, who had been out of town for a week, and evidently followed him to the house of Thomas Fleming on West Federal street, where the priest had gone, and in front of which the stabbing occurred.

Upon emerging from this house Fr. Barry saw his old sexton in the yard, and advanced toward him with outstretched hand. They conversed for a minute or two, and the next that was known was when Mr. Fleming saw the two men in each other's grasp, and heard the priest utter an exclamation of pain and a cry for help. Hurrying to his aid, Mr. Fleming found a cheap pocket knife firmly wedged in the priest's left eye, which had passed through the eyeball and both lids, destroying the sight. Another wound was made in the abdomen, low down, which opened it and caused severe internal wounds.

Fr. Barry was removed to the City hospital, where he underwent an operation. Late Saturday afternoon he was resting as well as could be expected.

The affair occurred on the 19th anniversary of Fr. Barry's ordination.

After his arrest the assassin refused to talk, except to say: "I am sorry I did not finish the job."

Fr. Barry was born in Boston, October 7, 1861, being one of a family of four children, all of whom are now living. He was the son of Thomas and Ann Barry, who came to Boston from Ireland.

Fr. Barry was educated in the public schools here and graduated from the English High school with honors. He began his classical studies at Boston college, remaining there two years, after which he went to Niolet college, Quebec, from which he graduated in June, 1881.

He began his theological studies at the Grand Seminary in Montreal, Can., under the direction of the Sulpician Fathers. He has been pastor of St. Ann's church for 17 years.

The condition of Fr. Barry is still believed by the physicians in attendance to be dangerous. They were more hopeful last night, however, than at any time since the assault, and they think there is a good chance, if blood poisoning can be averted. They are not yet determined whether the knife thrust in the eye pierced the brain.

BEY OF TUNIS

PAID VISIT TO PRESIDENT LOUBET.

PARIS, July 12 The Bey of Tunis arrived here this morning. He was accorded military honors and received a notable popular reception. He visited President Loubet at the Elisee palace where a long and cordial exchange of friendly sentiment was had. This afternoon the Bey visited the senate and Chad. He will be the guest of honor at a garden party today. The picturesque costumes of the Bey and his party attracted widespread attention. The visit of the Bey to Paris is significant of the strengthening of the French protocol over Tunis and the development of the governmental policy of the French North American empire.

MANY MESSAGES

CONGRATULATIONS POUR IN ON SENATOR DAVIS.

ELKINS, W. Va., July 12.—More than 300 congratulatory telegrams have been received by ex-Senator Davis upon his nomination for vice-president. Among these messages was one from Judge Parker. The expression of weariness which the convention left on Davis' features has disappeared. Throughout yesterday there was a steady stream of townsmen going to and from "Graceland," the beautiful Davis home on an eminence west of the town of Elkins. All were received by Mr. Davis himself, or by his private secretary. The vice-presidential candidate refuses to talk on the money question until Judge Parker has made a statement. He has made no change in his plans but has arranged to meet Senator Hill in two weeks for that purpose. He will go to Redford Springs for two weeks in August.

FRENCH BISHOPS

Asked to Send in Their Resignations

PARIS, July 12.—The Matin today says that eight days after the recall of M. Nisard, former French ambassador at the vatican, a number of French bishops received an order from Cardinal Vannutelli, acting for the vatican to tender their resignations by return of mail. The bishops, it is added, consulted the minister of public worship and Premier Combes, who told them not to tender their resignations on the ground that the concordat required the assent of the state before removals were enforced.

Thereafter the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Merry del Val, threatened the bishops with the termination of their episcopal powers unless they came to Rome within 15 days. This was also submitted to M. Combes, who forbade the bishops leaving their posts. Bishop Laval of Dijon, two other bishops and three arch-bishops were the ones designated.

The Matin further asserts that the dismissal of the bishops without consulting the governments wishes will be considered as a formal renunciation of the relations between the church and state.

FEWER STRIKES

Only ten of the controversies were lockouts. Full details concerning results were not obtained but it was learned that 133 of the strikes involved 28,709 workmen who lost an aggregate of 1,\[illegible]859 days. Twenty-five of the strikes lasted only one day each, but the longest was seventeen weeks.

CITY MARSHAL

Must Answer to Charges Preferred

NASHUA, N. H., July 12.—Charges of neglect of duty in refusing to answer a call for aid were preferred today against City Marshal Alvin S. Eaton and the police commissioners have set July 19 for a hearing in the matter. The complainant is Ellen Provost, matron of the Protestant Orphanage, from which institution two children were forcibly taken away on June 23 by two strangers, said to have come from Fitchburg, Mass. The matron alleges that she was assaulted by the strangers and reported the affair to the city marshal, who refused to take any action.

PACKING HOUSES

ARE PREPARED FOR A STRIKE IN KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 12—A strike of the butchers and workmen affiliated with them in Kansas City will find the six packing house plants here prepared. Owing to light receipts of live stock at the local stock yards, last week, because of the flood, packers had only a small supply of either cattle, hogs or sheep on hand and these were easily cleaned up. Both sides today awaited developments from the conference between the Union leaders and the heads of the principal packing house at Chicago.

PIANO WORKERS CONVENTION.

BOSTON, July 12—The Biennial report of president Frank Helle of Chicago was the first feature of the day at the convention of the piano and organ workers international union now being held in this city. It was expected that the entire day's session would be devoted to this report and to the reports of other officers of the union.

READY TO BATTLE

Opposing Armies are Anxious for the Fray

HEADQUARTERS OF GENERAL COUNT KELLER, Niutikay, 12 miles west of Liandiansan July 12. The opposing armies are grimly facing each other on the heights across the Liank river ready to engage in a death grapple.

The Liank crosses the main Liao Yang-Feng Wang Cheng road, 25 miles east of Liao Yang, flows north into the Taitse river, which passes through Liao Yang and empties into the Liao river. The correspondent of the Associated Press who arrived here after a 35 mile ride from Siaolindji saw long lines of infantry and transport trains winding through the mountains.

At Liandiansan a lookout stationed in a tree top pointed out the way to General Keller's headquarters near Niutikay. There the Russian eastern army was found, hidden in the hills. In a plain tent the correspondent saw General Keller living like a simple soldier, his staff being quartered in a native hut nearby. The general looked cheerful and was bronzed by exposure. He talked enthusiastically of the engagement at Heyan. Around the general's tent were many officers of the guards, the pride of St. Petersburg. To see them as weather-beaten as the Cossacks officers, one could scarcely believe them to be the dashing guardsmen of the Russian capital. They have become hardened fighters, for hardly a day passes without collisions between the advance posts of the eastern army and the Japanese. The whole army is anxious to fight General Kuroki whose headquarters are at Vandiapudze and whose men are entrenched on the banks of the river. The burning question is who will be the first to cross the dread valley of the Liank river.

LITTLE FIGHTING ALONG THE ROAD

TA TCHE KIAO, Saturday, July 9, via Liao Yang, July 11—A Russian correspondent of the Associated Press who has just arrived with the Russian rear guard after a running fight from Kia Chou half way here (Ta Tche Kiao) says:

"We evacuated Kai Chou today, Saturday) after a fight lasting throughout Friday. We made a short stand at Pintsan, seven miles north of Kia Chou. The Japanese kept on our heels and there were constant exchanges between the Russian and Japanese batteries. The Japanese advance stopped eight miles south of here. The fight along the road was lively, but our losses were small.

"There had been preliminary skirmishing and manoeuvring for position around Kia Chou since July 5th. On that day two companies were caught in the hills to the eastward and surrounded by six Japanese battalions. They cut their way out however, and returned to Kia Chou bringing many wounded.

"Early in the morning of July 8, the hills to the southward and eastward of Kia Chou were apparently deserted, but we were aware that the Japanese were ready to spring. We had destroyed the railway bridge south of the town and had a strong line of rifle pits along the bank of the river.

"It was a brilliant morning. The Japanese began to advance from the defiles where they were concealed and, taking cover behind the thick trees and in the gardens south of the river bank kept their batteries on the hill tops carefully masked.

"The entire day was marked by a long series of artillery duels.

"The whole of our artillery remaining in the rear and covering the infantry retreated to Pintsan, allowed the Japanese to come up and then shelled them. Again the fight developed with some warmth while the Japanese brought up fresh batteries with which they pounded the village.

"Gen. Stakelberg hung on until late in the afternoon. We could hear his guns growling behind us as the column moved north. Quiet then ensued and the march was continued uninterruptedly to To Tche Kiao.

GENERAL OKU OCCUPIES KAICHOU

TIEN TSIN, July 12.—Lloyd's agent at New Chwang, telegraphing under date of July 11, says:

"General Oku has occupied Kaichou without resistance. General Stakelburg retiring on Tatchekiao. I do not expect trouble either with the Russian or the Japanese troops."

JAPANESE BOATS NOT DAMAGED

TOKIO, July 12—Noon.—Admiral Togo reports that at midnight, July 11, torpedo boats approached the boom which blocks the entrance to Port Arthur harbor and attacked the guardship Diana with torpedoes. The result has not been ascertained. The Japanese boats returned undamaged.

NEW CHWANG MAY BE EVACUATED

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12—1 p. m.—Colonel Novitsky of the general staff, in an interview today, said:

"The result of the loss of Kaichou will probably be the evacuation of New Chwang.

General Kuropatkin's position is more difficult than that which confronted Lord Roberts in South Africa. It is as if Lord Roberts received his supplies by rail via Constantinople, and Central Africa. It will be a long time before Kuropatkin will have enough supplies and men to assume the offensive. In the meantime he will have to fight rear guard actions, perhaps giving up important positions like New Chwang which are of vastly more consequence than Kaichou.

RUSSIANS OBSERVE GREAT FESTIVAL

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12, 1.05 p. m.—This is the festival of St. Peter and St. Paul, one of the greatest holidays of the year. All business is suspended and the government departments are closed. The papers here are again exploiting the prospects of an Anglo-Russian understanding, the Novosti declaring the idea is no longer Utopian but holds out advantages to both countries, which are recognized more and more every day, a remarkable feature being that the war which one would think would have driven them apart is really drawing them together.

JAPANESE LEGATION ISSUES A DENIAL

ROME, July 12—At the Japanese legation here it was learned today that there is no truth in the report, published in the United States, that Japan had protested to Italy against the transferring of Signor Melegari, the Italian minister at Tokio to St. Petersburg, owing to his pro-Japanese attitude. On the contrary the Italian government consulted o nthe subject with the government at Tokio, which replied that it had no objection to the transfer of Signor Melegari to the Russian capital. The Japanese legation officials here added that there was no truth in the further report that the Japanese minister at Rome would be withdrawn.

RUSSIANS ANXIOUS TO MEET JAPS

GENERAL COUNT KELLERS HEADQUARTERS, via Liao Yang, July 11—A serious fight is expected soon.

The opposing forces are now occupying the hills on opposite sides of the valley of the Llankhi river, where it crosses the Liao Yang road.

CORPORATION TREATY WAS PROMULGATED

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12—The corporation treaty between the United States and Russia, negotiated by Ambassador McCormack, was formally promulgated today.

The corporation treaty provides that an American and Russian corporation may sue in the courts of both Russia and the United States. Previous to the promulgation of the treaty American concerns did sue in Russia, but could not bring suit there.

A STRANGE TALE

LASCAR SAILOR SWAM IN RED SEA FOR THREE DAYS.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Among a number of strange tales related by the crew of the steamship Shimosa, just arrived from Japan and China and which reported having run over a large whale a few miles outside Sandy Hook, is one to the effect that while the big freighter was speeding through the Red sea, a Lascar sailor was picked up. The swarthy heathen declared he had been swimming three days and nights, having fallen overboard from an Indian trader bound for Antwerp. Capt. Champlin is certain that the man was at least 36 hours in the water before the vessel picked him up.

"It was about 5 o'clock on June 15," he said. "We were steaming through the Red sea and 3 or 4 days from Suez when the lookout saw something in the water. The ship was stopped and a few minutes later the chap came swimming alongside. We got the sea ladder over and he climbed on board without help.

"We gave him a wash down with fresh water and a peg of rum to liven him up, and then after giving him something to eat sent him to bed. He seemed all right when he awoke the next morning, but we could get little out of him except the name of the vessel from which he had fallen overboard and his statement that he had been three days and nights swimming.

"Upon reaching Suez we found that the Tinnan to which the Lascar belonged had touched there just 36 hours before we arrived. From this I judge that the man had been that length of time in the water. I sent him to the British consul."

AN INVESTIGATION

BOSTON & MAINE WANTS TO KNOW WHO THREW OPEN SWITCH.

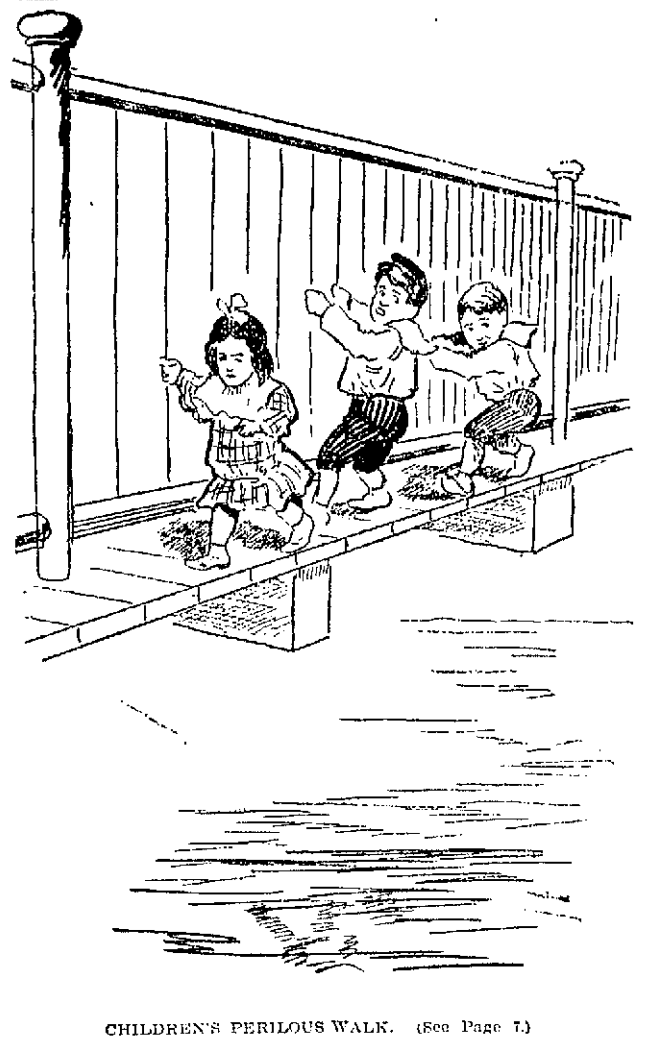

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 12.—The authorities of the Atlantic division of the Canadian Pacific railroad are holding an investigation to determine who opened a switch at Greenville Junction, Maine, and derailed the fast express running from Montreal to this city. The wreck occurred last Sunday morning. The locomotive struck an open switch, jumped the rails and was thrown over on its side. The mail and express cars were also derailed. Traffic was delayed four hours and a temporary track had to be built around the blockade. No one was injured. It is thought the switch may have been left open by some person not employed by the railroad.

THEY MAY AGREE

STEAMSHIP COMPANIES TRYING TO END RATE WAR.

LONDON, July 12—The Associated Press is authorized by one of the representatives of the steamship lines which participated in the conference with the president of the board of trade, Gerald Balfour, in regard to the Transatlantic rate war to deny the report circulated in the United States, that the negotiations have failed. "You can say," he added, "That the negotiations are progressing with every chance of an early agreement."

It is proposed to insert the old emigrant rate in an informal agreement. Until the agreement is signed the $10 rate will continue. Herr Ballin director general of the Hamburg American line left London this morning for Berlin but he will return shortly to London for a further and probably final conference.

WILL CUT WAGES

Big Reduction in Fall River Mills

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 12.—All but two or three of the mill treasurers in the Cotton Manufacturers' association have signed the agreement for a reduction in wages. It is the general understanding that an agreement will go into effect. The proposed reduction will average about 12½ percent, and will become operative on Monday, July 25. The secretaries of labor unions have declined to discuss the proposed reduction until after the formal announcement is made.

AMATEUR COACHING

HARVARD WANTS YALE TO MAKE CHANGE.

CAMBRIDGE, July 12—The recommendation that Yale should be asked to return to amateur coaching in the Harvard-Yale rowing races, failing to do which Harvard should discontinue the annual races on the Thames is contained in the leading editorial in the Harvard Bulletin, the organ of the Harvard graduates, the monthly edition of which has just appeared. The paper is edited by John D. Merrill, a prominent Harvard garduate who is also an authority on rowing matters.

The bulletin says: "The boat races at New London last week again showed the truth of the statement made in the bulletin a year ago, that if Harvard wants to beat Yale on the water the Cambridge crew must have a professional coach or neither college must have one.

"Harvard was coached this year by a man who was paid for his services in order that he might not suffer financial loss on a crew in Cambridge but Michalson is not a professional in the sense that Mr. Kennedy the Yale coach is one. The former does not make and never has made his living by rowing or by teaching rowing.

"The bulletin did not approve of the selection of Mr. Colson as coach of the Harvard crew, but the distinction between him and Mr. Kennedy is plain. Nevertheless Harvard is today a little worse off than she was a year ago, because she has, in the meantime taken a step toward the employment of a professional coach, a step which did not have the approval of a majority of the graduates and should never be sanctioned by the athletic committee."

The bulletin tries to be frank and in that spirt suggests that there is one way for Harvard to retain her graduate coaching and at the same time win her share of the boat races. That way is—that Yale shall go back to amateur coaching. The bulletin believes that it is time for Harvard to say to Yale "We will continue to row with you if you will have amateur coaching for your university crew; if you are to have a professional coach you must look elsewhere for an opponent."

AUTO BOAT RACE

Great Interest Shown in the Contests

BOSTON, July 12.—Success has crowned the efforts of the Eastern Yacht club in its initial attempt to create an interest in and promote the sport of autoboat and launch racing in Massachusetts bay, and the first races yesterday of its series, off Marblehead, in spite of accidents which temporarily prevented the boats from doing their best, proved decidedly interesting and will do much to create enthusiasm for this latest fad. The novelty of the contest had much to do with the large flotilla about the course of pleasure boats with spectators. Before giving a detailed story of the race, the winners are announced as follows: Autoboats, class C, Autowin; second class launches, Elizabeth on allowance; third class launches, 16, Sapho, a walkover. Both the Mercedes and Flat in the class B for autoboats, after a short but exciting contest, became disabled and were forced to withdraw from the racing.

There were 16 starters, a most creditable showing for the first series of importance for power boats held in local waters. The races went off without an accident so far as collisions are concerned, and the boats had a fine, clear course from start to finish, with no sharp turns. Torpedo boats destroyers patrolled the course and kept intruding boats outside the lines and added, at the same time, to the picturesqueness of the scene during the racing. The course was over a triangle 6¼ miles around, starting off Cat Island, to mark A (N. E. by E.), thence to mark B (W. N. W. ¼ N.), to finish line (S ¼ E.) The autoboats were sent four times around, or 25 miles, and the launches twice around, or 12½ miles. In the special race for the Guy cup the boats were also sent over the triangle four times, or 25 miles.

There were no starters in classes D or E for autoboats, so the entries in Class C, the Naughty Girl and the Autowin, were started in class B.

When the whistle sounded that sent the Autowin and the Naughty Girl away, the Flat came for the line with a dash, and was a full hundred yards in the lead before the Mercedes crossed the line. Then the Mercedes raced after her rival with the speed of a deer. Before a quarter of a mile of the race had been covered, it was easy to tell which of the boats was the faster. The Mercedes went by the Flat as though the latter were an ordinary launch instead of a very fast autoboat. As the boat disappeared in the haze, the Mercedes was having things her own way. Then she had trouble with her engine, and the Flat caught and passed her and came around the finish flag at the end of the first round with a long lead.

Away she went on her course, and it looked as if she would have an easy win over the Mercedes. Then the Bowden boat came along. At every bound she pulled down the lead of the Flat until she had again caught and passed her. Then it was some time before the boats came into view again and the first to be discerned was the Flat, disabled and being towed back. She had cracked a cylinder head and had to withdraw. Shortly afterward the same fate overtook the Mercedes and she was out of the contest.

The next class to be sent away was for cabin boats, the Haidee and the Elizabeth, and with them went the Sapho, a launch of amateur design and which, if she had more powerful engines, would give a good account of herself. As it was she had a walkover. The Haidee easily beat the Elizabeth, finishing 20 minutes and 18 seconds ahead of her on actual time, but she lost to the Elizabeth on allowance.

The race in the third class launches proved decidedly interesting, and the little Gloucester launch "It" proved a revelation. She had an easy win over the other boats in her class and this in spite of the fact that she is driven by a small tandem six-horse power Reppmor motor, that develops about eight-horse power. She was built by Oscar Perkins of Gloucester. The Firefly, George Lee's launch, was second in this class, and the Edith M. third. The Guy cup race, which is for the boat under 40 feet over all length that makes the smallest elapsed time for the series of three races, was started at 1.55 p.m. in a choppy sea.

The starters for the cup were the It, the Autowin, the Naughty Girl and the Sapho. They got away in this order, and Howard Haskell sent the little It across the line in the lead and with a fine move on. The Gloucester boat made little fuss and took the short seas easily and gracefully and kept in the lead, although pressed hard by the Naughty Girl, which was going well on the first round. There were but 33 seconds between them on the first round. The Autowin was third and the Sapho which had been dropped fast, decided to withdraw. On the second round of the course the Autowin began to pull up on the It, while the Naughty Girl true to her name, began to act badly and fell astern. The little It then got into trouble and her insulator burned out and the sparking plu got out of order and her engine began to miss.

At the end of the second round the Autowin had three seconds of a lead on the It. Then the doughty little Gloucester boat sailed in for battle and caught and passed the Autowin, and had a good lead on her when she was forced to stop her engine, and the Autowin closed up on her again. The It had 12 seconds of a lead at the end of the third round. Her engineer worked hard to keep his machinery going steady. The skipper of the It evidently was watching his machinist, for he steered wide of his course, and the Autowin passed him into first place. The Naughty Girl was out of it after the first round. The Autowin won by 1m. 27s. over the It.

The owner of the It lodged a protest against the other boats for making repairs and taking on gasoline prior to the start of the Guy cup race. The protest will be considered by the committee.

PRISONER INSANE

Protests His Innocence With Violence

BOSTON, July 12.—An unfortunate young Lithuanian, Tony Monkas, 24 years of age, who was sentenced to serve four months in the East Cambridge house of correction, has become insane from brooding over his confinement on a charge of which he still protests his innocence.

Tony was arrested on the charge of stealing a gold watch and $38 in money from a friend named John Klebert. They had been acquainted in the old country, and though Tony was of a roving disposition and seldom keep a job for any length of time, Klebert, who is older than Monkas, helped him on many occasions when the latter was out of work, and although the other Poles in the colony on Washington street, Cambridge, assured Klebert that he would never be repaid, yet whenever Monkas found work, the first thing he did was to pay up his debts. He did not owe Klebert anything on Nov. 4 last, the night on which Monkas called on his friend at 42 Washington street. Monkas came to Cambridge to get work, but was not successful at that time.

According to Klebert's story as told in court, Monkas was in his room on the night in question, while he stepped out to another room in the same house. He was gone about 10 minutes and it was said that in that time Monkas had the opportunity to take the money and watch which were in a trunk. This trunk he had opened to get some writing paper. Monkas went away, but called the next night. Klebert did not discover the loss until Thursday noon, though according to his story the watch and money were taken Tuesday night. He had no occasion to go to his trunk until Thursday, when he opened it for the purpose of taking out some money. It was then that he discovered his loss.

During the trial he protested his innocence violently and was very despondent when convicted.

PLEASANT LAWN PARTY AT PELHAM LAST NIGHT.

A lawn party that came about in a rather novel way was held on the premises of A. D. Greeley at Pelham, last evening. About nine weeks ago the young people of the Pelham Congregational church formed two divisions and it was agreed that the members of each division would endeavor by personal invitation, to draw into the meetings of the Christian Endeavor society as many new people as possible; and that the side having the least success would tender a party, or entertainment to the winning side. The divisions were led by the pastor, Rev. J. L. Hoyle, and Mrs. Greeley. On the eighth Sunday, Mrs. Greeley's side counted 274 new recruits, while Mr. Hoyle had 273. On the final Sunday, however, Mr. Hoyle brought in 53, while the other side counted but 45 additions. The Greeley forces were "stuck" for the lawn party and they tendered a brilliant one.

RISLEY, Eng., July 12—The council of the National rifle association met here this afternoon and decided that last year's contest for the Palma trophy should be considered abortive and that the trophy shall be retained by England, as custodian until another match is arranged.

GIRL'S LOVER

IS STILL HELD UNDER POLICE SURVEILLANCE.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 12—Coroner Kleindinst commenced an inquest today in the case of Cora B. Hart, whose dead body was found Sunday evening in the cellar of the J. W. Hallauer and Sons packing plant in Webster, 10 miles from this city. The only new development is the finding of the girl's glasses in the grass about 50 feet from the packing house and the police believe that it was in this spot that the girl was murdered. E. R. Smith, the girl's lover is still under police surveillance. District attorney Warren and Sheriff Bayley of Monroe county are conducting the investigation.

PHILIPPINE BONDS

MAY BE OFFERED FOR SALE AGAIN.

WASHINGTON, July 12—On September 1, next, $3,000,000 short term Philippine bonds will become due and it is the present intention of the war department to resell them although the Philippine government has not yet formally directed such a course.

The insular government could easily take up these bonds which if they fall due come out of funds in Philippine treasury, but it is deemed wise not to reduce the reserve fund to that extent. It is probable that the proposal for the resale of the bonds will be issued in the course of a week of two and bids will be opened about August 17 next.

MILLS CLOSED.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—The Nottingham Cotton Mills here owned by B. B. and R. Knight, are closed for a fortnight to repairs. The Knight mills at Hebronville and Dodgeville Mass. have shut down for a week.

OSTEOPATHIC ASSOCIATION.

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—The second session of the American osteopathic association convention was held today in the Missouri state pavilion at the World's Fair. An address was made by President Chas. Hazzard of New York and several papers were read and discussed. Clinics were conducted by Carl McConnell of Chicago and Guy C. Loudon of Burlington, Vt.

TWO MURDERED

Bodies of Men Found in Junk Shop

NEW YORK, July 12—The bodies of Geo. F. Abbatt and Wm. Van Holzer were found today in a Brooklyn junk shop which had apparently been set on fire after the men were killed. Both men had been shot and their skulls were fractured. Two men have been detained as possible witnesses, but there is said to be no clue to the murderer.

A TOTAL LOSS

STEAMER CHALMETTE STRUCK A SNAG.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 12.—Advices received today by the agents of the steamer Chalmette which struck a snag below Natchez last night say the boat and her cargo will prove a total loss. The steamer was bound to St. Louis with a cargo valued at $30,000 and with about forty New Orleans passengers enroute to the exposition. The Chalmette was valued at $50,000. No lives were lost.

CONFLICTING CLAIMS

STRIKERS AND EMPLOYERS DO NOT AGREE.

SYDNEY, C. B., July 12.—Conflicting claims are made by the interests concerned in the strike at the Dominion Iron and Steel company's works. The company's officials assert that the beginning of the end of the strike has arrived and that several hundred men went to work today. The company is making preparations to start the open furnaces. The union officials state that of the men who went into the plant only 40 are skilled workmen. They say that the coal miners are in perfect accord with the steel employes in their struggle and that the former will strike if the Dominion Coal company is called upon to supply fuel to the steel furnaces. The union men deny that the fight will be abandoned.

A party of soldiers arrived today from Quebec to relieve the militia on duty here. Order prevails throughout the city.

BARRACKS BURNED

SUPPLIES AND AMMUNITION WERE DESTROYED.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 12.—Fire today destroyed the Northwest mounted police barracks at Lothbridge. Large quantities of supplies and ammunition were also destroyed. The loss is not known.

MORE DEPORTED

ITALIANS AND AUSTRIANS SENT AWAY.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., July 12.—Deportation continues to be made by the military authorities. Eleven Italians and Austrians, arrested soon after their arrival at Victor, were sent away on the next train. State Boiler Inspector Taylor was arrested when coming into the district over the short lines railway but was released after he was brought to the mine owners' association and had explained his official business.

"ANDY" DONOHOE

SAYS THAT WILCOX HOODOOED HIS PRIZE TACKLE.

Three of the most disappointed fishermen in Lowell today are Webster Wilcox, George Taylor and Daniel Whittaker. A few days ago they journeyed to one of the ponds in a surrounding town and spent the entire day on the water and the result of their catch was 24 horn pouts. Before they started out they had boasted of a catch of perch that would surpass anything ever landed by amateur fishermen. It was known to them that Andy Donohoe possessed a magic fish line and tackle that no denizen of the deep could escape provided it was handled by one competent in his line. Wilcox borrowed the tackle but kept the fact secret from his companions. When the count was made and the total showed twenty four horn pouts, only one was credited to the handler of the magic tackle. It was the first time the Donohoe mascot failed to work and now "Andy" fears that Wilcox hoodooed the line and pole.

WAS A BRAKEMAN

How Ex-Senator Davis Rose to Wealth

IS RELATED TO ELKINS AND GORMAN

Was Inactive in Politics for Some Time

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Henry Gassaway Davis, whom the democrats have nominated as their candidate for vice-president, is no spring chicken. Thirty-three years ago he was a conspicuous United States senator and was then a man who had left his youth behind him.

Twenty-five years ago he was chairman of the senate committee on appropriations and was the discoverer of the historic fact that the republican party, after its long lease of uninterrupted power following the Civil war, had looted the treasury to the extent of two cents.

Mr. Davis was the chairman of a special committee to whom the books were turned over for the purpose of examining them under the spur of the campaign cry that republican jobbery had long run riot and after the most exhaustive investigation a report was made to the effect that the books showed the treasury to be just two cents short. Whether the people ever received those two cents back is not a matter of record.

Mr. Davis early in life was a brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and it is a tradition of the senate, of which he was for twelve years a member, that one day, under the soporific influence of a four-hour speech by a venerable republican senator, Mr. Davis fell into a profound slumber at his desk.

He had reached that point where he was emitting high nasal notes, when Senator Allen G. Thurman, "the old Roman," arising to reply to the republican orator, blew two blasts upon his famous red handanna.

Jumping to his feet, Davis grasped the top of his desk and attempted to twist it off. He thought he was on one of the sharp grades of the West Virginia mountains, and that the engineer was whistling for "down brakes."

Mr. Davis will be 81 years old just after the fall elections, having been born in Woodstock, Md., Nov. 16, 1823. Like Senator Allison of Iowa and other statesmen who have taken care of themselves during their long career in public life, Mr. Davis does not look his years. Like Mr. Allison, also, he is still in possession of his full mental and bodily faculties, and if he should preserve his health for the next four years would be quite capable of performing all the duties of a vice-president, or even of president if a turn of fate should put him into the place of Theodore Roosevelt.

The West Virginian is a man 6 feet tall, straight as an Indian, and rugged in face and figure. He must have been homely in his youth, for his features are heavy, with no softening lines, except that in late years his close-cropped beard and hair, as thick now as twenty-five years ago, have turned white and toned him down somewhat. Mr. Davis wears no mustache. In recent years he has been inclined to dress in fashionable attire and has all the air of a modern captain of industry.

Mr. Davis is a very rich man, owning a great deal of property of various kinds, chiefly in West Virginia. It has been highly productive in the way of coal, oil, timber, etc. Senator Gorman of Maryland, John R. McLean of Ohio and Stephen B. Elkins are all business associates of Mr. Davis, and Mr. Elkins, moreover, has the honor of being his son-in-law. Mr. Gorman is also a relative. Their mothers were sisters.

It is the popular belief that much of the wealth which Mr. Gorman is supposed to possess was made through his long years of business association with what is known as the "Davis-Elkins-McLean-Gorman syndicate," whatever that is.

These men have done a great deal of railroad building in one way or another, chiefly for the purpose of developing their properties in West Virginia, and they have an office in Washington. It it located in John R. McLean's building at the corner of Vermont avenue and H street, where Mr. Davis spends much of his time.

He and Mr. Elkins both divide their time largely between New York and Washington, going to West Virginia only occasionally, except in the summer, when they pass several months on the beautiful estates they have built up.

Politicians in Washington had almost forgotten Mr. Davis as a public man when recently he was selected to head the West Virginia delegation to St. Louis. At the convention where delegates were chosen he received a striking ovation which recalled him to the public mind, but none of the political wiseacres dreamed that the old gentleman was to be resurrected to such an extent as to put him on the presidential ticket.

At that West Virginia convention there was a Davis furore, and he was hailed as the "war horse." He made a hit in striking the keynote for the West Virginia democrats by denouncing the republican party as being a black man's party. He made a speech, described by the local historians as "rousing," in which he charged that the negro had dominated the republican party ever since he was freed by Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Davis also went back a quarter of a century and raised his voice again against those robbers who, he said, were looting the treasury. Again he demanded to look at the books, thinking, no doubt, that this time it would be found that more than two cents were missing.

He attacked the republicans for refusing to have an investigation of the postoffice department, and laid at the door of the republican party the blame for the gigantic land frauds, which had been going on in the west. He demanded that power should be given into the hands of the democratic party so that somebody could be assigned to hunt down the grafters of the Postoffice department and the Land Office, and predicted that he would not have to call in vain.

Mr. Davis was a farmer before he became a brakeman, and is a farmer still, as well as a railroad builder, banker, capitalist and statesman. His father died when he was a mere youth and he worked on a farm until he was 18, when he began twisting brakes on the railroad.

It has been said that Mr. Davis got his fine taste of politics from conversations with Henry Clay, whom he used to meet frequently on the long-drawn-out trips on Mr. Davis' train between Washington and Kentucky.

Mr. Davis was a Union man during the war, although he did not enter the service, and after peace was declared he became a candidate for the legislature on the republican ticket. He was defeated, and in 1866 was elected to the lower house of the West Virginia legislature as a Union Conservative.

Two years later he was chosen United States senator as a democrat. At the expiration of his second term in the United States senate, in 1883, he declined a re-election, as he did not feel justified in longer neglecting his vast private business.

Although it seems to be forgotten now, Mr. Davis was a candidate for vice-president in 1884, when Cleveland was first nominated. He did not want the place, and therefore threw his strength to Thomas A. Hendricks of Indiana. This West Virginia democrat has been a delegate to seven national conventions.

In addition to his prominence as chairman of the committee on appropriations, Mr. Davis' most important work in the senate was in behalf of the movement for bringing the republics of North and South America together, which finally resulted in the establishment of the Bureau of American Republics. He was a delegate to the second international conference at the City of Mexico two years ago.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

UNDER AUSPICES OF SPANISH WAR VETERANS.

A largely attended meeting of the General Adelbert Ames command of the Spanish War Veterans was held last evening in the Memorial hall. Commander M. H. Harrington presiding. The command voted to be represented at the next national convention of the "Vets" to be holden in September.

A committee was appointed to investigate any indigent cases that may be found among any persons who served in the Spanish-American war, and if needy cases are found a report must be made by the aforesaid committee to the command for prompt action.

Following the business meeting there was an ice cream social by the command to the members of the Edith Prescott Wolcott Ladies' Auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans.

After partaking of cake and ice cream a pleasant hour was enjoyed in listening to musical and literary program, in which participated the Highland male quartet, composed of James Greig, first tenor; George Sturtevant, second tenor; F. W. S. Daly, first basso; John Moir, second basso. The vocal selections were "The Owl and Pussy Cat," "The Artillerist's Oath," and "Nellie Gray". Others who took part were Walter Chase in his original topical song, "School Street Echoes," which made a decided hit with the ladies present. There were also vocal selections by Miss Annie Maguire, Miss Alice E. Goodwin, Miss Agnes Meehan and Mrs. Blanche Jelly. Mrs. Norah Dubuque's original song met with much favor, "Liquid Ice Cream Through the Ceiling Dropping." Miss Lillian Goodwin acted as accompanist.

During the evening Mr. Thomas Dolan, who was a first-class machinist on the flagship Olympia, commanded by Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila, gave a graphic description of the scenes and incidents of that memorable encounter. This meeting and social proved one of the most enjoyable and successful held by General Ames command since its inception as an organization.

SMUGGLING SCHEME

GREAT FRAUD IS CHARGED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Behind the arrest of the Marconi operator and a hospital steward of the Kaiser Wilhelm II, charged with smuggling Sumatra tobacco, the customs officials have unearthed a new and ingenious method of smuggling diamonds, silk, tobacco and other merchandise which should pay a high duty. Frauds on the government of enormous proportions have undoubtedly been perpetrated by a combination of express men, steamship men, and possibly government officials. Its beneficiaries and possibly its promoters are believed to be merchants of this city.

Smuggling in trunks, carried on as passengers' baggage, upon which labels, indicating that they had been properly examined and passed by the inspectors, were surreptitiously pasted, is the method. Four arrests have been made so far, and a large force of special agents was at work nearly all night in seeking other participants.

How far the ramifications and extent of this new smuggling scheme have gone is not yet determined. The crash came last Saturday. It was premature and was practically forced upon the customs men, who were already aware of what was going on, and were working and waiting for bigger game.

CUNEO DYING

HIS ASSAILANT NARROWLY ESCAPED LYNCHING.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 12—Shot down yesterday by one of his own countrymen who had crept up behind him Andrew Cuneo, member of the firm Cuneo Bros., fruit dealers, Dearborn and South Water streets, one of the best known fruit importers in the United States, and said to be the richest Italian in Chicago, is dying at Passavant Hospital.

His assailant, Anthony Crescio, narrowly escaped lynching by an angry mob that closed around him after the shooting. In less than a minute after the shooting a rope had been procured by some one in the crowd with which to hang Crescio, but the police, in response to a riot call that had been sent in, appeared on the scene just in time to save Crescio's life.

The shooting occurred in front of Cuneo's store. Crescio crept up behind Mr. Cuneo and, drawing a revolver from his pocket, shot the merchant twice before any of the dozen bystanders could interfere.

Crescio, who is believed to be mentally unbalanced, was employed by his brother, John Crescio, who has a wholesale fruit store a few doors from the house of Cuneo Bros. Another brother of Mr. Cuneo's assailant married a sister of Mr. Cuneo, and after living with her for a few years, is said to have deserted her.

LADY GORDON MARRIED.

LONDON, July 12—Lady Majorie Gordon, the only daughter of the Earl of Aberdeen, formerly governor general of Canada was married in London this afternoon to John Sinclair, member of parliament for Forfarshire and a former captain of the Royal Irish lancers. The archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Davidson officiated. The church was filled with distinguished people. Mr. Sinclair was secretary to Lord Aberdeen in 1896-98.

RECORDS BROKEN

By Autos at the White Mountains

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N. H., July 12.—Five times the record was smashed in the hill-climbing automobile contest yesterday.

The competition was one of a series that had been arranged by the White Mountain Good Roads Improvement association, and was over a measured course of eight miles, with a grade varying from five to twenty degrees. The record for the distance, 43.59 was made by Otto Westman, three weeks ago. This time was cut down repeatedly yesterday, but F. E. Stanley of Newton, Mass., with a six horse power gasolene machine made the best run of the day. His time was 31 minutes 46 seconds. His nearest competitor was James L. Reese of New York, who negotiated the eight miles of climbing in a forty horse power car in 34 minutes 9 3-5 seconds.

The other record breakers were:

A. E. Morrison, Boston, 24 horse power, gasolene, 36.44 1-5.

Percy Pierce, Cleveland, 24 horse power gasolene, 44.31 4-5.

H. Ernest Rogers, Brookline, Mass., 24 horse power, gasolene 48.07 2-5.

AT THE LAKE

DOINGS ON AND ABOUT LAKE MASCUPPIC.

Canoeing is becoming a very popular fad on Lake Mascuppic and every week finds several new boats on the lake. The stillness of the water and the various nooks and shady places along the water's edge attract a good many people to this sheet of water.

All of the canoe clubs on the water front have their racks filled with boats while a large number of the little craft are stored at different places around Lakeview and Willow Dale and at the cottages between Willow Dale and Mountain Rock.

A new club house, patterned after the pagoda houses of China, is being built between the Iroquois club house and the house formerly occupied by that club. The new house will be occupied by canoeists from the Highlands who formerly occupied the Mascuppic boat house across the lake. The new house, while smaller than either of the club houses in that vicinity, will be a cosy affair and promises to be a neat and attractive addition to the other pretty houses along the water.

If canoeing is getting popular at the lake, so is bowling, at least it has taken an awful jump this year and the people who wish to secure alleys have to get around early or they have to wait for night after night, and even during the afternoon, the alleys are packed with enthusiastic bowlers of both sexes. The ladies have taken hold of bowling this year and it is amusing to see some of them showing with pride the muscle in their right arm.

Manager Fox has made many changes at the alleys for the accommodation and convenience of the gentler sex and one of the popular changes was the doing away with the dusty blackboards which were used heretofore. Mr. Fox has tally sheets on all of the alleys and if the bowlers wish to take their scores home they can do so.

There is some talk of a six or eight-club tournament starting in the near future. The members of clubs which played on the city alleys in the winter spend a good portion of their time practicing at the Lakeview alleys.

The World's Fair Specialty Co. is at the theatre at Lakeview this week and the few performances which have been given this week have been largely attended.

The members of the Idle Hour camp are going to hold an invitation party next Friday evening at Willow Dale pavilion. The party is chiefly for the entertainment of the cottagers around Willow Dale, though a number of the friends of the members of the Idle Hour camp have been invited.

On Thursday afternoon of this week the Royal Arcanum picnic will be held at Willow Dale. This picnic is sure to draw a large crowd.

On the 23rd of this month the employes of the United Shoe Machinery Co. of Winchester will enjoy an outing at Mountain Rock grove. The company has chartered 15 special cars to carry the employes.

"Jack" Sullivan, the well known piano player at Canobie Lake park, is summering at one of the cottages in Willow Dale, and has to walk from the Collinsville school to the camp every night. A number of the cottagers are afraid that he will be kidnapped some night, though it is said that if he should disappear that there would be peace in the vicinity for a while.

George Teague is doing the cooking for the members of the Idle Hour cottage and since he started in he has lost 17 pounds. The members of the cottage claim that he would rather run the risk of starving than eat some of the dishes he prepares for the other boys, but the boys are getting stout on the rations served out to them, which is a sufficient testimonial to George's skill as a culinary artist.

John Golden, the expert swimmer, occupies a cottage on the lake and has quite a class of pupils whom he is teaching to swim. They are making rapid progress under his direction.

John Saunders, the lightweight camper, was very fond of scrambled eggs until recently some of the campers scrambled eggs all over his clothing. He said that he wouldn't have cared if the eggs had been fresh, but he is beginning to think that the eggs were laid in Noah's ark.

It is whispered among the campers that the young lady who captures Peter Perreault, who is camping at the lake, will get a find, for he is getting to be very handy about the house. He has a knack of washing dishes and housekeeping that makes many of the housekeepers at the Dale blush. A towel is not big enough for Peter to wipe the dishes with, he uses a table cloth.

Whenever you see Billy Crowley board a Lakeview car with seven or eight baskets, three or four boxes and his pockets bulged out with bundles, don't imagine that he is going to hold a picnic. It is only the lunch for one of the clubs at the Dale.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Benoit and Mr. J. G. Benoit have returned from a pleasant three weeks' trip to Montreal and other Canadian points.

BROWN-TAIL MOTH

ENGLISH SPARROWS EAT THEM AND GROW FAT.

Supt. Charles A. Whittet of Park commission wrote a letter to A. H. Kirkland of the Bowker Insecticide company, Boston, asking for a description of the insect known as the brown-tail moth, and received the following reply:

43 Chatham St., Boston, July 11, '04.

Mr. Chas. A. Whittet, 293 Central St., Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir:—Thanking you for yours of the 9th, would say that the insects you sent me are brown-tail moths. This is about the height of the flying season for these insects and as you have noticed they are strongly attracted to light. No doubt the electric lights of your city focus the attention of the moths which have developed in the outlying districts for many miles around. There is little that you can do at this time of the year economically to destroy these insects. The arc lamps will kill off a great many of them while toads and English sparrows will take care of many more. If your citizens are in the frame of mind where they want to "see something done," you might tack sheets of sticky fly-paper on the poles where the insects assemble in the greatest numbers. The most profitable use of your funds, however, against this insect can be made after the leaves have fallen, when the winter webs may be easily seen at the tips of twigs. Cutting off and burning these webs will protect your trees from harm another year.

I have asked our board of agriculture to send you a report fully describing this insect and remedies for combatting it. I am always glad to be of service to you.

Yours very truly,

BOWKER INSECTICIDE CO.

A. H. Kirkland.

DISASTROUS BLAZE

DID $125,000 DAMAGE AT COVINGTON, GA.

COVINGTON, Ga., July 12—Fire in Covington late Sunday night resulted in the destruction of property valued at $125,000 with $60,000 insurance. The fire started in the Star Building and the loss is divided among a number of firms.

The Covington Telephone exchange, the Covington Bottling works and the Western Union Telegraph office were also burned.

THROAT SLASHED

BODY OF UNKNOWN WOMAN FOUND IN ENTRY.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The dead body of an unknown woman, about 29 years old, was found in the entrance to a tenement house on East Twenty-ninth street early this morning. The jugular vein had been severed. The woman had evidently been choked before her throat was cut. A light gauze bandage, soaked with blood, covered the wound, which was still bleeding. Some of the skin had been torn off the cheek as if by finger nails.

NASHUA VICTORIOUS

The Stubborn Children Got Together and Played a Perfect Game Against the Lakelings—Players Promise to be Good Henceforth

For the first time in many days Dr. C. S. Collins of the Nashua team wore a large smile on his features as yesterday's game with Lowell at Lawndale park progressed. "Even if we lose this game," said the doctor, "there can be no fault found with the playing of the team today." The entire Nashua team was on its best behavior. Every man was out to win and all, even Wilson, played a cracker-jack game.

The Lowell team acted as if its members were willing that Nashua should have the game for at times they played like wooden men, yet they played finely at times and gave the fans an interesting game throughout.

Gokey on whom Lowell has had an easy thing this season pitched the game of his life. He struck out five men in the first five innings, gave no bases on balls and allowed only seven scattered hits and they gave him perfect support.

Little Soffel, the rosy-cheeked second baseman of the home team, was the star performer of the game. He got two of Nashua's five runs, two hits with a total of five and accepted seven chances without an error. Van Zant had five fine chances in center. Mike Birmingham, the new man, fielded finely but was weak at the stick. He got a single and fanned out three times.

McGovern's work was gilt-edged, and Manager Barrows of the Detroit team, who was present, was much impressed with Terry's playing.

Of the 500 fans present some 250 were ladies, and how they did root for the home team. The entire crowd went wild with delight at the conclusion of the game, and when the news got down town those who were sore on the team and had refused to go out to the game turned out to meet the players on their return.

It was a great night in Nashua on the strength of the victory and the fans heard more welcome news during the evening, but an account of that appears in another column.

GAME IN DETAIL.

Lowell went first to the bat. Billy Connors was first up and out, succumbing to three swings at Gokey's benders. Grant hit to Soffel and was plucked at first. Gokey was right out for a win and as he got two strikes on Bigbie the crowd yelled with delight. Bigbie then hit safely but was nailed with ease while trying to steal.

In Nashua's half Hickey made a great stop of Pastor's hot grounder and threw him out at first. Soffel hit to Day and was the second out. Van Zant, the erstwhile idol, received no hand from the crowd as he went to bat. Van hit the umpire in the foot with a hot grounder and he got first. Wilson drew a free pass but Cassidy closed the inning with a fly to Grant.

SECOND INNING.

Hickey opened this inning with a fly which Cassidy captured. Lake pushed the sphere to Soffel who winged him at first. McLaughlin, before striking out, which he did eventually, hit a high foul fly over to the third base bleachers and a youngster ran by just in time to catch it plumb on top of the head. Barney fanned out while they were rubbing the kid.

For Nashua, Birmingham, the new man, responded to the crowd's ovation by fanning out. Labelle flied to Grant. Duggan drew a base on balls. A little applause, painfully stingy, compared with what he used to get, greeted Gokey as he stepped up. Gokey went out on a foul fly which McGovern caught up against the wire.

THIRD INNING.

Dorgan went out on a fly to deep centre which Van Zant fixed. McGovern went out on a line drive to Pastor. Day fanned out.

In Lowell's half, Pastor hit along the third base foul line for a single. Day made a wild throw to first to catch Pastor napping and Tony was at third when the ball was recovered. Soffel flied out to Bigbie and Pastor got home on the put-out. Van Zant flied out to Bigbie. Wilson hit by Hickey for a single but was caught trying to steal second.

FOURTH INNING.

In the fourth Connors struck out Grant foul flied to Wilson and Bigbie flied to Soffel.

Nashua didn't do a thing in their half while Lowell gave a tough exhibition of fielding. Cassidy opened with a fly to Connors. Then Birmingham got a single to center and Labelle sent one to right, sending Birmingham to third. Then both tried a double steal and McLaughlin had Labelle out and Birmingham on third, but Lake dropped the throw and both men advanced, Birmingham scoring. A moment later after Duggan had made a single Day threw wild to Lake and Labelle took third, Gokey hit a fly to Dorgan who dropped it but Hickey picked it up and threw Duggan out at second, Labelle scoring. Then Pastor closed the comedy of errors with a fly to Bigbie.

Score—Nashua 3, Lowell 0.

FIFTH INNING.

Hickey opened the fifth with a single to left. Lake flied to Pastor. McGovern flied to Van Zant and Dorgan fanned out.

For Nashua, Soffel opened with a two-bagger to centre. Van Zant advanced him with a sacrifice. Wilson's single scored him. Cassidy flied to Dorgan and Birmingham struck out.

Score—Nashua 4, Lowell 0.

SIXTH INNING.

Lowell broke the ice in the sixth and got an earned run in this manner. McGovern hit to center for a single and Johnnie Day, who wasn't expected to do anything cracked the ball out beyond Van Zant for a couple of bases and McGovern went all the way round. Then Connors flied out to Cassidy. Grant foul flied to Birmingham and Mike made a great running catch, while the crowd cheered like mad and a chorus of voices cried out: "Carney never would have got that." Bigbie hit to Gokey and was killed at first.

The home team went out quick, Labelle hit to Hickey and was retired. Duggan flied out to Bigbie and Gokey popped to McGovern.

SEVENTH INNING.

Hickey opened with a pretty single, but what was the use, Lake hit to Pastor and Tony and Soffel made a double, Barney hit to Wilson who threw him out at first. For the home team Pastor cracked out a single and then tried to steal but was nailed with ease by the perfect throwing of Terry. Soffel hit to deep right center for three bases and scored on Van Zant's grounder to Hickey, Van dying at first. Wilson flied to Connors.

Score—Nashua 5, Lowell 1.

EIGHTH INNING.

Dorgan and Day flied out to Van Zant, McGovern hit to Gokey and was out at first. Cassidy hit to Hickey and was out at first. Birmingham struck out. Labelle got a free pass but Duggan hit to McLaughlin and was third out.

NINTH INNING.

"Come on, the game isn't half over yet," cried Lake, as Billy Connors went to bat. Billy responded with a two bagger to left. Grant flied to Van Zant. Bigbie got a single to center and Connors took third. Hickey flied to Cassidy and Connors scored. Lake hit to Pastor, forcing Bigbie at second.

DIAMOND NOTES.

Concord plays at Spalding Park today.

The papers are now kicking over Haverhill's salary limit. Kicking about the salary limit at this late day looks too much like "squealing" because Haverhill has outdistanced the bunch. The time for the kick was early in the season.

Fred Doe claims that New Bedford is the best baseball city of its size in the country. It is now up to Mayor Ashley to issue a proclamation declaring Doe to be the best baseball manager of his size in the country. One draft of hot air deserves another.

'Way down the South Atlantic league one Manager Ashenbuck has been fined $10 and suspended 10 days for "rioting." Where have we heard that name before?

And in the midst of all the trouble in Nashua, Ed. Secord has hiked for the Kings Co., highbush to think it over.

Fred Lake went into a place in Nashua yesterday and asked for a pint of Londonderry. And what do you think? They didn't keep it.

Bushey will twirl today.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE.

The World's Fair Specialty Co. opened up a week's engagement at the Lakeview theatre yesterday and good sized and appreciative audiences witnessed the initial performances.

The performance opened with Lew DeWitt, a juggler, who manipulates many different things, and receives much applause. James W. Blusbain, the expert ventriloquist, who is well known to the theatre going people of this city, has his walking and talking figures and he received much applause at both performances yesterday.

"Shorty" and Lillian DeWitt present an unusually funny comedy sketch. "Shorty" who stands less than four feet in his stocking feet does a number of clever stunts and Lillian sings and dances. Theodore and Camille LaJess are novelty acrobats of the first class and present 15 minutes of real enjoyment for those who appreciate this particular kind of work. The male member of the duo, is a contortionist and bends and twists himself up in all kinds of knots.

The closing number, perhaps the most appreciated feature, consists of illustrated songs by Howard and Anderson. Performances will be given afternoon and evening for the remainder of the week.

MERRITT ENGAGED

To Manage the Nashua Base Ball Team

Dr. Collins Acts Promptly on The Sun's Suggestion and Secures the Lowell Catcher—The Nashua Players and Fans Gave Merritt a Warm Welcome Last Night

All one could hear in Nashua last night was: "I hope they hire Merritt to run the team."

Ever since The Sun made the suggestion a week ago that Merritt was the one man in all the New England league to take hold of the Nashua team, the Nashua fans have been rooting red hot for the popular Lowell catcher.

The Sun's suggestion was republished by the Nashua and Manchester papers the day following and one of the first to see it and appreciate it was Dr. Collins himself.

With none was the suggestion more welcome than the Nashua players themselves and all agreed that they could do something with Merritt at their head.

Last night after the game nearly all the members of the team were assembled down town and were discussing the situation with a large party of fans when along came Merritt, having dropped off the train from Manchester on his way home. He was immediately surrounded by an admiring group who wanted to know the news.

"Well, I guess I'll be with you, boys," said Billy with a smile, whereupon there was a general handshake all around.

The following despatch to a Boston paper this morning explains the latest action of the Nashua baseball association as follows:

Billy Merritt, formerly catcher for the Lowell baseball team, and one of the best known players in the New England league, closed a deal tonight whereby he will assume the management of the Nashua baseball team. Dr. C. S. Collins has been after Merritt for some time, and has had several conferences with Manager Smith of the Manchester team, with which Merritt has been playing.

Merritt was not under contract with Manchester and therefore is in no way bound to Smith. Merritt has already accepted Nashua's terms and will probably appear in uniform Wednesday. Merritt has been playing first base for Manchester.

Hollis and Hickey received their release this evening, and a staff of five pitchers is left. Labelle is now playing in right field. Bender, the Philadelphia Athletics' Indian pitcher, has been secured by the Nashua association, and tonight arrangements for his joining the team were made.

Walter King, a catcher, who has been playing independent ball in Pennsylvania, will be tried out in Manchester tomorrow. Business Manager G. F. Atkin has been dropped, and W. H. Tolles has replaced him.

THE GOLD PLANK.

The gold men will criticize the democratic platform on account of the absence of the gold plank; but its absence indicates that the party considers the question settled. It is not usual to insert anything in the platform on which the party gives its acquiescence to republican policy. Judge Parker's firm stand for the gold standard will afford all the assurance the country needs on the money question.

THE CROP OF INFANT DEATHS.

After the sharp thunderstorm of two weeks ago Saturday, we noted the fact that it had changed the greater part of the milk throughout the city; as a result we predicted that the storm would be followed by a crop of deaths from cholera infantum within a couple of weeks or longer. In the list of deaths for last week, published Saturday, there are recorded nine deaths of infants from cholera infantum.

It is not any wonder that some of the children die. The wonder is that some of them live as long, considering the treatment they get. The parents in a great many cases are to blame. They do not wilfully kill the children but they exercise such criminal ignorance that many of them it seems might be held on a charge of murder.

The washing of a baby's bottle is a simple thing but there are hundreds of mothers in this city who have this to do and never did it right even by accident. There are some who put a small milk can out for their daily milk supply. This can is of the usual form with shoulders, neck soldered on, and stopper. It is impossible to tell when it is clean. The probability is that is has never been clean since first used. A quart or two-quart bottle would serve the purpose as well and could be easily kept clean.

Very few realize the possibilities for evil in a baby's stomach of a few germs from an unclean milk can, a nursing bottle or the nipple attached. In hot weather absolute cleanliness is essential and the food given young children must be absolutely fresh and pure in order to be safe. Even then it must be given in moderation and properly prepared. One mistake in hot weather, one dose of changed milk is sufficient to bring on cholera infantum which only the most prompt and skilful treatment can check.

JUDGE PARKER'S HONESTY AND COURAGE.

The telegram of Judge Parker to the democratic convention notifying the delegates of his attitude on the money question and asking that another candidate might be selected if his position was not acceptable to the convention, shows that he is a man who will not yield his personal convictions even for the honors of office. This fact has strengthened him as a candidate with the people. Before he announced his adherence to the gold standard, his attitude was a mystery.

Ex-Senator Hill said that all he knew about Judge Parker's views on public questions was that he would accept any platform the democratic convention saw fit to adopt. That very statement, if true, would prove him to be a man without convictions of his own upon public questions. The promptness with which he notified the convention of his stand on the money question proves the contrary; it proves that he has very decided convictions and that he is ready to make great sacrifices to maintain them. He is not willing to yield an iota of his convictions even to secure the nomination. That has been demonstrated by his telegram to the convention and it has given him a very high place in the estimation of the American people as there is nothing they admire more than a man's unbending devotion to what he believes to be right—especially when his views accord with those of the majority on the subjects under discussion.

In notifying the convention as he did Judge Parker proved his honesty and his courage—just what the American people want.

MR. BRYAN'S CONVENTION SPEECH.

It seems to be very generally agreed that William Jennings Bryan's speech in seconding the nomination of Senator Cockrell was the best made before the convention. Bryan mentioned Hearst of New York, Wall of Wisconsin, Gray of Pennsylvania, saying that if the convention wanted any of these men the Nebraska delegates would stand by him. He went even farther and said:

"If you prefer an eastern man and find some one who will give both elements of the party something to believe in, something to trust in, something to hope for, we are willing to join you with him."

In closing his speech he said:

"My friends, I believe that the great issue in this country today is plutocracy vs. democracy. You have said that I had just one idea, the silver idea. Well, a while back they said I had only one, but then it was the tariff idea. There is an issue greater than the silver issue, the tariff issue, the trust issue. It is the issue between plutocracy and democracy; whether this is to be a government of the people, administered by officers chosen by the people, administered in behalf of the people. It is either this, or it is to be a rule of the moneyed element of the country for their own interest alone. The issue has been growing.

"I want you, Democrats here assembled, to help us meet this question. You tell me the Republican candidate stands for militarism. Yes, but he also stands for plutocracy. You tell me he delights in war. But there is another objection to him, and that is that he does not enforce the law against a big criminal as he does against a little criminal.

"I close with an appeal that I make from my heart to the hearts of those who hear me. "Give us a pilot who will guide the Democratic ship from militarism, the Scylla of militarism, without wrecking her upon a Charybdis of commercialism."

In his conduct all through the convention Mr. Bryan turned enemies into friends and at the close the convention revered him almost as much as in 1896 and in 1900 when he was looked upon as a man possessed of phenomenal gifts as an orator, a man of incorruptible honesty, and child-like simplicity. In spite of all the slurs and sneers levelled at him by the republican press Bryan stands today one of the ablest men and foremost democrats of the country.

TO ABOLISH THE CLASSICAL COURSE.

A member of the Fitchburg school board makes an appeal for the dropping of the classical course in the high school of that city in order that more attention may be given to the three R's. If the school board member knows what he is talking about the Fitchburg High school must be in a very backward condition. It should not be necessary to drop the classical course to attain efficiency in the essentials mentioned. If the primary and grammar schools do their duty to the pupils, the High school should have no trouble with the so-called three R's which are reading, writing and arithmetic. All should be taught to perfection in the grammar grades so that the pupils could advance to something higher on entering the High school. To drop the classical course would be to raise a barrier to the higher education that would necessitate the pupils who are intended for college leaving the city for a preparatory course. It is true that the majority of the pupils never enter college. Even so, the minority has a right to the instruction so long as they demand it. To be sure it is not good policy for a boy who will not finish his High school course to spend much time at Latin and Greek as he will never so far enough to derive any benefit from the study. The classics assist in the study of English and nothing is of much more importance or benefit to any student than perfection in writing and speaking English and a good training in mathematics so valuable in developing the reasoning powers and leading to mathematical accuracy in whatever is undertaken.

SEEN AND HEARD

A size 6 glove today is larger than a size 6 glove five years ago, and this applies to all the sizes made. The explanation is that ladies' hands have grown larger than they used to be, through their practice of cycling, golfing, hockey, etc., but they do not like to admit it, so the glovemakers meet the new conditions and yet avoid hurting the vanity of their customers.

A feature of style said to have been introduced by the king is to have the creases in the trousers at the side and leg seam instead of back and front. Already a few West End dandies have adopted this plan, but as the effect of this innovation is to produce a thicker appearance to the leg, we do not anticipate any general adoption of this fashion.

A Frenchman who passed through New York recently on his way to St. Louis, was much impressed by one sight he witnessed here. He made a tour of the principal restaurants and hotels to satisfy himself of the gastronomic progress of New York.

"What seemed most curious to me," he said afterward, "was the apparent lack of confidence that New Yorkers have in their cooks. The friends with whom I went to the restaurants here, without waiting to taste the food that had been put on the table, seized the salt and pepper and began to shake it violently into whatever they happened to be eating.

"Now, the chefs who had prepared the dishes presumably received large salaries for cooking the dishes properly. But I never saw anybody wait to find out whether they were well seasoned. The salt and pepper were put in use before anybody had tested the skill of the chef. And the amount of salt and pepper that went into the dishes often was enough to conceal all trace of really good cooking."

Following are a few items from the genuine blue laws of the early colonial times:

The court, takeing into consideration the greate, superfluous and unnecessary expenses occasioned by reason of some newe and immodest fashions, as also the ordinary wearing of silver, golde and silke laces, girdles, hatbands etc., hath therefore ordered that noe person, either man or women, shall hereafter make or buy any apparell, either woolen, silke or lynnen, with any lace on it, silver, golde, silke or thread, under the penalty of the forfeiture of such cloathes.

DOUBLE WEDDING

PRETTY EVENT IN FRENCH SOCIAL CIRCLES YESTERDAY.

A double wedding took place yesterday morning when Misses Josephine and Angeline Crepeau were married to two young men, well known in French social circles. Miss Josephine became the wife of Mr. Thomas J. Goyette and Miss Angeline the wife of Mr. Eugene Labrie. The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 5.30 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church. It was the earliest hour that a ceremony has ever been solemnized at that church. The young brides are the daughters of Mrs. Emmanuel Crepeau, 532 Moody street. First to enter the church was Mr. Goyette with his witness, Mrs. Jean Ouellette, and then Mr. Labrie, with his brother, Mr. Ernest Labrie, as his witness.

The brides followed at some distance behind. Miss Josephine Crepeau being attended by her brother-in-law, Aime Rheault, and Miss Angeline Crepeau, by her brother, Mr. Leon Crepeau. The first bride-to-be wore a very elegant and becoming traveling gown of fawn cloth, with a hat of rough yellow straw. Miss Angeline wore a very pretty gown of ecru nun's veiling, and a white flower hat.

Rev. Fr. Campeau, O. M. I., director of St. Jean Baptiste's church, performed the double ceremony, and officiated at the mass which followed.

After the ceremony the wedding party and the immediate relatives went to the home of the brides' mother in Moody street, where refreshments were served awaiting the departure of both young couples on an early train. Here another surprise awaited their friends. The train on which they had said they were to leave was at 7.03 o'clock, and accordingly, all of the friends present at the church marched to the Middlesex street station for that hour, each carrying a generous supply of rice. When they got there, however, the birds had flown by the 6.45 train to Boston.

Both young couples, after having breakfast at the Touraine, Boston, left on an early train for an extended trip, to include New York, Albany, Washingtonville, N. Y., and a trip up the Hudson river. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Goyette will reside at 72 Bartlett street, and Mr. and Mrs. Labrie will reside at 41 Bowers street.

ELOPERS CHASED

Husband's Search Carried Him Across the Ocean

BOSTON, July 12—After chasing his erring wife, who had eloped with another man, through Germany from Berlin to Zurich, Switzerland, thence back again to Berlin and then starting out from Liverpool, where he first got on the right track of the missing couple, taking the ocean flyer Campania for New York, and then again from there, a five-hour train for Boston, Oscar Tuetzer, a well known suspender manufacturer and belt maker of Berlin, Ger., ran down his wife, Frieda, and her companion, Paul C. Blass, with whom she had decamped, and found them among the detained immigrants housed in Commissioner George E. Billings' detention station at Long wharf, this city.

Mrs. Tuetzer, accompanied by Blass, had taken passage as Oscar Tuetzer and wife, on the steamer Republic, which arrived here July 1. When Tuetzer arrived at Liverpool and learned that his wife and Blass had registered in a hotel as man and wife, under his own name, he immediately went to all the offices of the steamship lines to ascertain whether they had taken passage for this country. In looking through the long lists, he finally found that the eloping couple had taken passage on the Republic for Boston, as Oscar Tuetzer and wife, in the steerage.

Tuetzer lost no time in cabling to Commissioner Billings the facts of the elopement, and asked that they be detained until he arrived. He took passage on the Campania, arrived in New York Saturday morning and immediately boarded the first train for this city, arriving here late in the afternoon. He got to the detention station about 5 o'clock and introduced himself to the inspector in charge.

After being repeatedly told that his wish to speak to his wife would not be granted then, but that he would be given a hearing on the following morning, he left, a very disappointed and heart-broken man, shedding tears, and was very depressed. He was told to call at 10 o'clock Sunday and at that time a board was present and his case was heard.

Tuetzer does not speak a word of English, and was interrogated through an interpreter. The case was gone through most thoroughly, and he related in a graphic manner how, on the 17th of June, when he left his home early in the morning for his place of business, he was told by his wife and Blass that a business associate would call on him during the day, and that he should remain in the factory until he came.

During that time Blass and Mrs. Tuetzer were preparing for their quick departure, and, after removing all of the money, amounting to something like 800 marks from the strong box belonging to Tuetzer, the couple made off for other lands. But before leaving Berlin Mrs. Tuetzer called at the factory and asked her husband if he had any money, as she wanted to take a short trip into the country and take in the horse racing that was going on that day. This was the last that the husband saw of his wife until they met face to face in the board room Sunday morning.

Their meeting was an intensely dramatic scene. Mrs. Tuetzer had absolutely no idea that her husband was coming to this country, and she dreamt that she was free of him forever. But when she was brought into the board room, entirely ignorant of the reason, and saw her husband standing before her, she for a moment acted as if dazed. Then, grasping a chair, she stood erect, looking him straight in the face, and said: "What do you want here? Why did you follow me? I left you and want no more of you."

Her tone teemed with hatred and sarcasm, while he, with pleading tone and tears streaming down his cheeks, implored her to be reasonable and listen to him.

CHEATED HIM.

At first she treated him with utmost contempt; her answers were curt and cutting; she would not allow him to touch her, but drew away from him whenever he came near her. She declined to listen to any of his overtures and when he asked her to return to Berlin and start life all over again, saying that he was willing to forgive and forget her follies, she declined, and added that she had left him for good cause; that he had been abusive to her for many years, ever in fact, since they had been married, and that she left him to come to this country and would forget him and endeavor to earn her own living. She would not have any further dealings with him. She also declared that if he remained in this country she would go elsewhere but that to live with him was entirely out of the question.

During the hearing it transpired that the suspender business which had been reorganized recently, was controlled by a firm of four persons and that Oscar Tuetzer and his wife owned one-third interest which was in her name. Without his knowledge, a day previous to her departure, she transferred that one-third interest to the other two partners, thus depriving him of his share of the business. So Tuetzer not only lost his wife but also his business.

When he asked her for an explanation regarding her doings she was evasive in her answers and he could get no satisfaction from her. Although it was admitted by her, as well as by Blass, that their relations were intimate, not only since they left Berlin but even previous to that time, it was not their intention to get married here, even if she could secure a divorce.

Yesterday morning Tuetzer and Blass met for the first time since the elopement and the scene was a stormy one. The angered and injured husband accused Blass of all sorts of transgressions, and but for the presence of the inspectors at the interview Blass, who is a very youthful appearing man, rather undersized and with three fingers missing from his left hand, would have received severe treatment from the deserted and wronged Tuetzer.

WIFE CHANGES MIND.

Yesterday afternoon another hearing was given in the case, at which all three parties concerned were present. Mrs. Tuetzer was given another opportunity to declare herself as to the stand she was willing to take regarding her husband, and, when questioned, stated that she had changed her mind and was willing to return to him on condition that he would change his attitude toward her. If he would promise that in the future he would not ill treat her, that he was willing to give her all the comforts to which she was accustomed, for the sake of their 5-year-old daughter, who is a cripple, her family and their good name, she would cast her lot with him again—not in Germany, but here in America.

She appeared, nevertheless, so indifferent and answered the question of the board so haughtily that it appeared that her love and regard for her husband were lost; so the board decided that she should be debarred from landing, and she will be deported on the steamer Cymric, which sails Thursday.

Tuetzer was heart broken when he was informed of the board's decision, and implored Commissioner Billings to set it aside, and allow his erring wife to come to him. His pleadings were not considered, and the verdict remained unchanged. Mrs. Tuetzer will be sent back to Liverpool on the ground that she is likely to become a public charge and on account of her desertion.

The case of Blass was also considered, and the board rendered a verdict that he, too, should be deported as likely to become a public charge and because of his being deformed. It is quite likely that Tuetzer will accompany his wife back, as he has been regularly landed, and the couple can begin life over on the other side, while Blass will have to remain here until the next steamer sails, so that the two men shall not come together. If they should meet, serious trouble would occur, and this Commissioner Billings will prevent.

This is one of the most extraordinary cases that has come before the local inspectors of immigration, and is the first case in which a husband has followed his wife thousands of miles and has been willing to take her back and forgive, and then has been turned down by her.

SENATOR CLARK

WAS MARRIED IN PARIS THREE YEARS AGO.

NEW YORK, July 12—Clark—LaChapelle—On May 25, 1901, at Marseilles, France, W. A. Clark to Anna E. LaChapelle, both of Butte, Mont.

In this announcement the public is apprised of the marriage of United States Senator William A. Clark to Miss Anna E. LaChapelle, the culmination of a romance that began about nine years ago. Three years have elapsed since, in Marseilles, France, the ceremony was performed that made the handsome child of the western mining fields the bride of the many times millionaire and United States senator. And with the announcement of the marriage comes the tidings that it has been blessed by the birth of a girl, now quite two years old.

Senator Clark informed his daughters, Mrs. Clark Culver and Mrs. Lewis Rutherford Morris of his marriage shortly after his arrival from Europe in the steamship Teutonic on June 30. The daughters were much surprised particularly as they had never objected to their father remarrying.

Mrs. Clark is about 35 years younger than the senator. She is the daughter of Dr. LaChapelle, who died suddenly in Chicago, after which event Senator Clark extended financial assistance to the family. He recognized Anna was a girl endowed with unusual intelligence, and made the girl his ward. Mrs. Clark is at present in Paris.

Have they more cents or have they more sense? Harken!

HOT WATER is essential to running a kitchen. Many a good woman hesitates or objects to use a Gas Range because she believes she must keep up her coal fire on account of the boiler and hot water supply. She never made a greater mistake.

Following the development of the Gas Range has come the WATER HEATER. We have an attachment that we can put on your boiler in the kitchen from which the hot water supply to different parts of the house is drawn. It is the quickest and best water heater made. Five minutes after lighting the burner, hot water sufficient for dish-washing is obtained at an expense of less than half a cent, hot water for bath in 15 to 20 minutes for less than two cents. Three minutes after lighting the burner, nearly a gallon of hot water can be drawn per minute, at a temperature of 100 degrees, making practically an instantaneous heater by which hot water can be obtained any time of the day or night and is always a ready means of obtaining this household necessity.

The purpose of this advertisement is to let you know that such a convenience exists, is perfect in work and results and awaits your inspection at our store, 67 Merrimack street. With it you need not use a pound of coal in your kitchen the year round—aside from matter of warmth.

Let us call at your house and show you all about it, if you can't find time to come to us.

JUDGE PARKER

Did Not Send Telegram to Hill

BELIEVED HIS POSITION WAS UNDERSTOOD

Congratulations Pour in on the Candidate

ESOPUS, N. Y., July 12.—An explanatory statement of the long silence of Judge Parker was given by a close personal friend of the judge yesterday afternoon to the Associated Press. As a judge, said the authority, Judge Parker had kept silent on political questions, believing that it was not compatible with the dignity of a judge on the bench to discuss such questions. When he was prominently mentioned as a candidate for the presidency, Judge Parker thought that the people of the country knew his full views. He realized that the democratic party would be composed of two elements when the national convention assembled radicals and conservatives. He knew that he was regarded as the candidate of the conservatives and became convinced that it was not necessary for him to make any statement of his views. Judge Parker had voted for Mr. Bryan in 1896 and 1900 and he had done so not because of, but in spite of, the silver plank. He did not think that anyone had any doubt as to where he stood, and had hoped to maintain his silence throughout the campaign preliminary to the convention.

Judge Parker had no intimation of the subject matter of the platform until after he had been notified by the Associated Press of his nomination, said the authority. When he had gone for his horseback ride, he realized that if he allowed the convention to adjourn without knowing his financial views, the people would regard as true Mr. Bryan's statement that the judge was tricking the convention and the party. He was not willing to profit by the nomination and thus be regarded as being guilty of trickery. It was then, said the informant, that Judge Parker decided to send a telegram to the convention. He returned from his ride and without consulting anyone, wrote the telegram to Mr. Sheehan, which was filed at Esopus at 11.50 a. m. on Saturday.

William H. Sheehan arrived at Esopus from St. Louis yesterday afternoon. He was met at the station by Mrs. Sheehan and was driven to his summer home near Rosemont. On the way Mr. Sheehan met Judge Parker, who was driving. The two gentlemen alighted and greeted each other. Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Sheehan then drove to the Sheehan house in one carriage and Judge Parker and Mr. Sheehan in the other. Later Mr. Sheehan made this statement to the Associated Press:

"I am authorized to say that no telegram was sent by Judge Parker to Senator Hill on any subject while the latter was in St. Louis."

Judge Parker returned home from Mr. Sheehan's residence at 7 o'clock after which he dined.

In reply to his telegram of congratulation to former Senator Henry G. Davis, the nominee for vice president, Judge Parker received the following:

"Delayed in reaching home. Thanks for your telegram. Most cordial congratulations to you and the country on your nomination. I feel proud and highly honored to be associated with you on the ticket.

(Signed) H. G. DAVIS."

Other telegrams received were:

Headquarters Bryan National Democratic club, Charleston, S. C.

"President and members send their sincere congratulations.

From Gov. Edwin Warfield of Maryland, dated Baltimore:

"The democracy of Maryland is enthusiastic over your nomination. You can count on her electoral vote by a splendid majority. Marylanders like your backbone and manly independence."

Among letters of congratulation received were letters from Judge C. H. Van Brunt of the appellate division supreme court, New York city; John P. Masterson, Albany and William Barnes, Sr., Albany, N. Y.

TRIPLE MARRIAGE

THREE SISTERS WED AT SAME TIME.

MANCHESTER, July 12—A remarkable wedding ceremony took place at Goff's Falls Monday morning at 8 o'clock, when three sisters were married to two brothers and a long-time friend of both families. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. P. X. Lyons in St. Francis church and a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties witnessed it.

The names of the three sisters were Celinir, Erminie and Merricliss Roy, and they are the daughters of Honore and Josephine Roy of Goff's Falls. The two brothers were Joseph P., and Theophile Charlund, who have resided at 245 Pine street in this city and are employed as teamsters for a local concern. The third groom was John Gould of this city, a gardener.

The ceremony was a very impressive and interesting one. The brides were all dressed alike in handsome white gowns and all wore white hats. There were no attendants with the brides and grooms. The brides were given away by their father.

The couples were paired off and matrimonially joined as follows:

Joseph A. Charland and Celinir Roy, Theophile Charland and Erminie Roy, John Gould and Merricliss Roy. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the Charlands on Pine street after the wedding.

TAYLOR CONFESSED

ADMITTED THAT HE TOOK THE BANK'S MONE.

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—Robert B. Taylor, interest clerk of the Citizens' Central National bank of New York city, who was arrested while trying to dispose of bank notes, a part of $6720, which he had taken from the Central National bank before its merger with the Citizens' bank, and before the notes had been signed by the officers of the bank, made a confession yesterday to Secret Service Agent John E. Murphy and Henry Demse, cashier of the Citizens' National bank. Mr. Demse, in telling of the confession, said:

"Taylor has confessed the entire business. He states that when the money was delivered to him by the express messenger he took it. That was in October of last year before the merger of the two banks. He took the money to his home, where he dug a hole in the cellar under the front part of his house and buried it. It remained there unknown to anyone until a few weeks ago last Friday. One night while Mrs. Taylor was in the Adirondacks Taylor waited until his son had gone to bed and then secured the money from the cellar. He signed the notes and cut them apart. Before that they had been in sheets. He then took the train for St. Louis."

DIED ON SAME DAY

THE LATE BISHOP HUNTINGTON.

Bishop Hnntington and His Son Passed Away

HADLEY, July 12—Right Rev. Frederick Dan Huntington, Episcopal bishop of the Central diocese of New York, died at his summer home here yesterday afternoon. Death came at 4.30 o'clock and found the venerable clergyman in the room where he was born 85 years ago. The end was not unexpected as the bishop had been in failing health for several months as a result of a complication of diseases which old age denied him the strength to combat successfully. Two weeks ago there was a decided change for the worse and yesterday the patient was seized with congestive chills. His physicians then announced that death was imminent.

Following the wishes of the bishop, as expressed during his last illness, the funeral services will be characterized by simplicity. There will be a service at the old farm house at which only members of the immediate family and intimate friends will be present at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Right Rev. Charles Tyler Olmstead, of Utica, N. Y., bishop coadjutor and Bishop Huntington's successor will officiate. The interment will be made in the Huntington family burying ground at 5 o'clock.

The brief service at the grave will be public.

Bishop Huntington came to Hadley from his home in Syracuse, N. Y., on June 20, to spend, as was his custom, the warmer months at the farm where he was born and married. The day after his arrival, he attended the commencement exercises at Smith college, and offered prayer. This was his last public appearance, his rapid decline dating from a few days later.

Right Rev. Frederick Dan Huntington D. D. LL. D. Ph. D., was born in Hadley on the day of the birth of Queen Victoria (May 24, 1819.) His father was Rev. Dan Huntington, a Congregational minister. He was graduated from Amherst college in the class of 1838, of which he was valedictorian and was the last surviving member of that class. Soon after his graduation he entered the Unitarian ministry and for a number of years preached in the South Congregational church, the parish of which Rev. Edward Everett Hale is pastor emeritus. Dr. Huntington afterwards filled the Plummer chair of Theology at Harvard university.

While a professor at Harvard in 1851, Dr. Huntington accepted the doctrine of the Trinity and entered the Episcopal church. He was ordained priest in that year and became rector of Emmanuel church, Boston. He remained there until 1860 in which year he was elected bishop of the diocese of Albany. He declined this election but a little later was made bishop of Central N. Y., with headquarters at Syracuse. During his long episcopate the Episcopal church has rapidly grown in that diocese and he established numerous schools and hospitals. He was known as a conservative churchman and a sound theologian. He was known as a friend of laboring men and was the first president of the Church Association for the Advancement of Labor.

In 1843 Dr. Huntington married Miss Hannah Sargent of Boston.

Five children were born to them, all of whom survive. They are: Rev. Fr. J. O. S. Huntington, superior of the order of the Holy Cross, West Park, N. Y.; Rev. George P. Huntington, D. D. professor of Hebrew in Dartmouth college; Miss Arrie S. Huntington, for several years school commissioner of Syracuse; Miss Mary L. Huntington, also of Syracuse; Mrs. Archibald of Northampton.

The successor of Bishop Huntington will be Right Rev. Charles T. Olmstead, D. D., his bishop coadjutor.

PROF. HUNTINGTON DEAD.

HANOVER, N. H., July 12.—Dr. George P. Huntington, professor of Hebrew at Dartmouth college died last night of slow fever. Death occurred only a few hours after the receipt here of the intelligence of the death at Hadley, Mass. Yesterday afternoon of Dr. Huntington's father, the Right Rev. Frederick Dan Huntington, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Central New York.

For twelve years Dr. Huntington had been rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal church, although his connection with the chair of Hebrew of Dartmouth college was of more recent date.

As in the case of his father, Dr. Huntington's death was due to a complication of diseases. Six weeks ago he was attacked with a slow fever which later developed symptoms of typhoid.

Yesterday morning Dr. Huntington's physicians stated that the patient's condition was greatly improved. Last night the news was received here of the death yesterday afternoon in Hadley, Mass., of Dr. Huntington's father. Soon after Dr. Huntington was told of his father's death he was seized with a severe attack of asthma. His six weeks' illness had weakened him and he was unable to resist the attack and death soon followed. Dr. Huntington was 84 years of age. He leaves a widow, three sons and a daughter.

STEAMSHIP LOST

The San Jacinto Destroyed by Fire

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—The steamship San Jacinto of the Mallory line was damaged to the extent of $40,000 by fire today while lying at Roch's shipyard, Chester, Pa., where she was laid up for repairs. The flames were confined to the after part of the vessel between decks.

The boat was built by the Roch Ship Building company at a cost of over half a million dollars and was launched about a year ago. When completed the San Jacinto was placed on the line between New York and Galveston. She was brought to Chester on June 8 for repairs and would have been ready to take her regular run next week.

The fire originated in a room used for storing oil and varnish and had gained such headway before the arrival of the fire engines that the firemen divided their attention between the big vessel and the property of the ship building company adjacent to the dock.

HURLEY RAID

WAS DUE TO POLITICS SAYS EX-MAYOR.

SALEM, July 12.—Ex-Mayor Hurley says the raid on his store Sunday morning is the work of his political enemies. "I am in no way implicated in any illegal liquor traffic which may have been carried on in this city, and the complaint against me is the work of political enemies. Before the affair is ended, certain people will regret this thing," he said last night.

Mr. Hurley and Bernard Shutzkiver are named as the proprietors of a drug store which the police raided.

"We can prove that ex-Mayor Hurley is associated with Shutzkiver," declared Marshall Field last night, "and that the liquor discovered in the different parts of the building was owned by them."

"Ex-Mayor Hurley is the victim of scheming politicians," said ex-Alderman J. H. Cashman, a close friend of the accused.

"Political opponents fear that Mr. Hurley will enter the political field in the next campaign.

"Just wait until the real issue comes to light, and then I will enter the battle. I know many things at City hall of which the public has no inkling, and before this case is over, Salem will experience a sensation."

RECORD BROKEN

STANLEY CLIMBED MOUNT WASHINGTON IN 28 MINUTES.

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N. H., July 12.—A number of the automobilists who in yesterday's contest up Mount Washington broke the previous record of 48 minutes, 53 seconds, for the eight miles up the mountain, today continued the competition in an endeavor to lower yesterday's marks. F. E. Stanley in his six horse power steam machine, with which yesterday he came out ahead of all others, having ascended in 31 minutes, 15 seconds, succeeded today in clipping almost three minutes from his previous time. He made the ascent today in 28 minutes 19 2-5 seconds.

DANGEROUS FUN

Indulged in by Children on Canal Bridge

Georgette Bibeault, aged 2½ years, and Dewey Bibeault, aged 3½ years, children of Mr. Napoleon Bibeault of 88 Ford street, and Andre Bouthillette, aged 3½ years and son of Mr. Wilfred Bouthillette, had a narrow escape from being drowned in the canal which flows between Ford and Cheever streets yesterday.

The three little ones were playing in the vicinity of the Aiken street canal bridge and crawled through the railing and walked out on the short ends of the planking which extends a little beyond these guards. These ends are very short and there is scarcely room for a foothold. Under their feet rolled the swift current of the canal, into which a misstep might have sent one or all in an instant.

The builders of the bridge made a mistake in not closing up these apertures so that children could not crawl through. Now the superintendent of streets is requested to look after this source of danger to children and anxiety to parents.

Mr. Thomas Willetts of 202 Lawrence street sails for England today to act as agent and demonstrator of the Ford Patent Ring machine.

GREWSOME FIND

CASKET CONTAINED BODY OF A CHILD.

LAWRENCE, July 12—Curtis Dearborn, proprietor of the second hand dealer's store at the corner of Common and Amesbury streets, has in his possession a curious and interesting relic. An uncle of the professor, who owns a farm near Salem, N. H., while plowing recently struck some metallic substance and when it was dug up it proved to be a metal coffin about three feet long.

When opened the casket was found to contain the bones of a human being, and from their size and the length of the coffin it is presumed thatt he bones were those of a child. The casket was covered with a thick coating of rust.

On the casket is a metal plate on which is inscribed some words which have not yet been deciphered owing to the accumulations of rust. An endeavor will be made today to clean the tablet and thus find out whose body reposed in the casket.

FIREMEN'S MUSTER

THE BOSTON VETERANS WANT THE MUSTER.

Since the New England States Veteran Firemen's association cannot be held in Fall River, the veterans of Boston are trying to get the muster if possible. Worcester, Providence and Portsmouth are also looking for it. There it not much chance of Providence getting it however, for Providence withdrew in favor of Fall River as the former city could not secure sufficient funds to pull the muster off.

NON-UNION BREAD

SAID TO BE SENT FROM LOWELL TO NASHUA.

NASHUA, July 12.—At a meeting of the traders and labor assembly, last night, the question of preventing the sale of non-union bread was gone over at length. John Clifford, A. Acton and John Bradshaw were appointed to confer with the dealers and to prevent the distribution of this bread, which is said to come from Lowell, Mass. The semi-annual election was held, and after twenty-nine ballots J. F. Jefts was made president.

The other officers are; Vice president, J. Acton; corresponding and recording secretary, William Ahearn; financial secretary, George Hooper; assistant financial secretary, Fred Ladoux; treasurer, H. Bordleau; sergeant-at-arms, J. F. Jefts; organizing committee, George Crocker, William Ahearn, Michael O'Neil, A. H. Drumm, B. Paquette and P. Brouen. The officers were installed last night by Delegate A. E. Esterline.

FATALLY BURNED

LITTLE GIRL'S DRESS CAUGHT FIRE.

BLACKSTONE, July 12.—Esther, the 5-year-old daughter of John Bentley, was fatally burned while playing near her home yesterday morning. The girl was with a number of companions and one of them had a ball of waste.

One of the party lighted the waste and the fire caught on the Bentley girl's dress. She was entirely enveloped in a moment, and before the flames could be put out her chest, arms and head were frightfully burned. Dr. T. F. Roache was called and ordered her removal to the Woonsocket hospital, where it was reported last evening she had no chance for recovery.

FOR NEW SCHOOL

Education Committee Votes Loan of $70,000

FOR SCHOOL HOUSE IN CENTRALVILLE

Only One Member of Committee Opposed the Measure

The committee on education of the city council got together last evening at City hall and after another discussion finally voted to recommend that a loan of $70,000 for the building of a school in Ennell street be made. Councilman Mayberry was the only member in opposition.

Chairman Gallagher, who has been untiring in his efforts to bring the matter to a head, presided over the meeting and there were present Aldermen Miskella and Councilmen Cheney, Cosgrove and Mayberry.

The loan of $8000 for the Textile school was recommended without debate.

On motion of Councilman Cheney it was voted to view the Grand and Howard street schools with the idea toward alleviating the bad sanitation.

Alderman Miskella called up the Centralville school house matter and Councilman Cheney, a tonsorial artist by trade, expressed the belief that a 12-room school house could be built for $5000 a room or $10,000 less than Supt. Conlan had estimated. Councilman Cheney self-confidently stated that he did not believe that Supt. Conlan, who, by the way, is a practical brick work contractor and member of the Builders' Exchange, was competent to estimate such a large job.

Chairman Gallagher stated that the superintendent had made his estimate from the figures of several leading builders while Councilman Cosgrove, jokingly, remarked that he was surely as competent as the man who said that the High school annex could be built for $20,000.

Alderman Miskella stated that there has been enough play and dilly-dallying over the matter which has been before the city council for five years.

Councilman Mayberry wanted the loan divided among all of the sections, saying that he didn't believe a 12-room building was wanted in Centralville, when the Highland and Lincoln schools were so badly in need of extension. He thought a smaller building in Centralville would do well enough.

Councilman Cosgrove said $70,000, divided among the different districts, wouldn't do much in any one of them. He thought it would take $500,000 at least, to put every school house in the city in prime condition.

It was voted that the chairman be instructed to draw up a loan for $70,000, for the erection of a 12-room building in Ennell street. Councilman Mayberry alone opposed the loan.

Councilman Mayberry moved that a loan for $50,000, for a site, in the vicinity of Stevens and Midland streets, and for a building thereon be negotiated. It was not seconded.

On motion of Councilman Cosgrove the question of poor sanitation in the Edson, Butler and Lyon street schools be referred to the superintendent of lands and buildings for suggestions as to the best remedies for existing conditions.

Mr. Cheney moved that a site be looked up in the Highlands, for a new school building, Superintendent of Schools Whitcomb to accompany the committee.

BAND CONCERTS

COMMITTEE SELECTS THEIR DATES AND PLACES.

The committee on band concerts met last night and voted to have ten band concerts, adopting the following schedule:

July 14—Thursday, South common.
July 17—Sunday, Fort Hill.
July 21—Thursday, North common.
July 24—Sunday, South common.
July 28—Thursday, Centralville.
July 31—Sunday, North common.
Aug. 4—Thursday, Highlands.
Aug. 7—Sunday, South common.
Aug. 11—Thursday, Pawtucketville.
Aug. 14—Sunday, South common.

It was voted to pay $60 for each concert, for bands each of not less than 25 men.

It was voted that concert programs for the newspapers be furnished by band leaders, on day before the concerts.

It is more profitable to advertise honorably and fail in the attempt to get business, than to advertise dishonorably and succeed for a little while.

BABY ATTACKED

By Hungry Rat in Salem Street House

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Letendre of 30 Salem street is suffering from the effects of a rat bite. The seven-weeks old baby was bitten during the night, about a week ago on the face, left wrist and palm of left hand. She lost considerable blood.

The house in which the family resides is very old and is infested with hungry rats whose boldness at times has alarmed the family yet the rodents had never attacked anybody. It was the little one's cries of pain that awoke her mother and the rat did not cease to bite his little victim until driven away.

CANADIANS LEAD

IN INTERNATIONAL CRICKET MATCH.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12—The 58th annual international cricket match between Canada and the United States, the latter represented by players picked from the various Philadelphia cricket clubs was begun yesterday on the grounds of the Merion Cricket club at Haverford, a suburb of this city. The weather was cloudy. The Canadians made 182 runs in their first inning and when stumps were drawn for the night the Americans had accumulated 132 runs for the loss of three wickets. For the visitors L. C. S. Saunders and Captain Simonds played excellent cricket, they making 61 and 51 runs respectively. J. H. King, for the Americans had a fine inning of 40.

WEALTHY BROKER

PICKED UP BY THE WORCESTER POLICE.

WORCESTER, July 12—George A. Andreson, 44 years old, a wealthy broker of Larchmont, N. Y., was picked up on the street in a dazed condition yesterday by Patrolman Daniel F. Sullivan and taken to the city hospital last night for treatment.

When Patrolman Sullivan addressed him he could give no account of himself, and the officer took him to police headquarters, where several unsuccessful attempts were made during the day to get his story from him. He did not have a cent in his clothes and could give absolutely no information regarding himself or his home. His mind was a blank.

Last night he called for doorman George W. Baker and said, "I remember now." He then told the officer who he was and that he lived in Larchmont in the next house to Fred Proctor, the theatrical man.

He said he left his home in Larchmont Tuesday and arrived Wednesday morning in Boston, where he registered at the hotel Essex. Since Wednesday his mind has been a blank. He does not know when or how he left Boston or when he arrived in Worcester.

As soon as he told his story he was taken to the city hospital at 9.45, and Chief of Police William J. E. Stone telegraphed his wife to come to Worcester for him.

The Guardian Angel Sodality of St. Jean Baptiste church held its annual picnic at Canobie Lake park yesterday, about 300 people attending. Three special cars carried the merrymakers to the grove. The cars left in front of St. Jean Baptiste church at eight o'clock. The picnic was under the direction of Rev. Fr. Diss, O. M. I., director of the sodality. Other clergymen present were Rev. Frs. Campeau and Vland, O. M. I., and Desroches, O. M. I., of North Billerica. Several of the reverend Marist brothers also went.

A fine program of sports was carried out during the afternoon. The program opened with two baseball games, one between the small and another between the large boys. Capt. Boulais' team won the big boys' game and the other game was won by the team captained by Capt. Bisaillon.

Potato, sack, egg and spoon, hop step and jump races were then run, in which pocket knives were awarded. In a race between the big boys a nickel watch was won by Mr. Charles E. Barry. A camera was also won in a big boys' race, by a boy named Bibault.

The party was photographed before leaving the park.

EASTMAN TRIAL

Judge Foster Argued For the Defence

ALFRED, Me., July 12.—The jury in the trial of Dr. Charles A. Eastman of Boston and Old Orchard listened seven hours yesterday to arguments. County Attorney Emery will today conclude his argument, and it is anticipated that the case will go to the jury early in the afternoon.

Judge Enoch Foster of Portland made the closing argument for the defence, occupying four hours. He declared that the state had failed to prove the allegations that a murder was committed. On the contrary, the testimony showed that when Edith McIntire, at her home in Boothbay Harbor, took a dose of oxalic acid, either accidentally or with suicidal intent, it caused the death of her unborn child, and that before she arrived at Dr. Eastman's sanitorium the condition which he is charged with having caused already existed; that, owing to her weakened constitution, she was on the brink of the grave.

Judge Foster further argued that every word and act of Dr. Eastman after the death of Miss McIntire was consistent with his plea of innocence. His flight from his Boston office, and aimless traveling from place to place in the suburbs was explained as simply being the result of nervousness over the publication of newspaper dispatches that he was wanted at Old Orchard on a charge of murder.

County Attorney Emery at the outset said that the charge on which the respondent was being tried was that of murder, but the indictment was so worded that a verdict of manslaughter might be rendered if the jury thought him guilty of that crime, rather than of murder.

In discussing the medical expert testimony, the county attorney said that two of the doctors who testified for the state performed the autopsy and saw the actual conditions; the third examined specimens sent him after the autopsy.

The letters written to Dr. Eastman by his wife, containing the mention of names of other women, prospective patients, were cited as evidence of the kind of practice the respondent was following.

The county attorney sprang something of a sensation in his argument by declaring that the alleged "bedside record," a memorandum which the respondent testified was daily kept during Miss McIntire's illness, was made up in Alfred jail. He called the jury's attention to the entries from day to day, made in precisely the same kind of ink, the same character of shading, and that a partial blur, caused by an obstruction on the point of the pen, had run through three days of alleged hourly records of the patient's symptoms and treatment.

DEAD IN RUINS

Manager of Broker's Office Despondent

CONCORD, N. H., July 12.—An explosion in the second story of the Exchange block on North Main street at 11.20 last night wrecked the inside of the building and resulted in a fire which caused damage estimated at $5000. The explosion occurred in the brokerage rooms of Cunningham & Co. and Chester E. Hooper of Everett, Mass, the local manager, was taken out of the room dead. What was at first believed to be a bullet wound was noticed in his head, but it was later set down as one of the results of the explosion. An autopsy will be held today.

The first evidence of the affair came when, accompanied by a huge volume of smoke, the windows in the front of the building were blown out on to the sidewalk and the entrance to the building filled with black smoke that made it almost impossible at first to enter the building. Capt. Flanders was in the vicinity at the time, and a detail of policemen soon arrived. It was some moments before an alarm of fire was sounded, and by that time the police were able to enter the building. The two upper stories of the building are almost exclusively occupied as tenements, and women, dressed only in their night clothes, commenced to come down stairs.

The police as quickly as possible went through the building awakening those who were distant from the explosion, and breaking open the doors to be certain that no one was left in the building. All the women were removed, but after the police and firemen were driven from the building by the smoke and flames two men were taken out in an almost unconscious condition, and one of them, a man named Collins, was taken to the hospital injured. The explosion occurred in the closet of the brokerage office, and soon after the flames had commenced to spread the door to the main office was broken open by Capt. Flanders, and Hooper was seen lying on the floor covered by debris. He was taken to the street below before the ambulance arrived. Little is known of the man as he has been in the city but a short time.

The fire was under control in a half hour, and while the damage was considerable, little cost centred in the dead man and the causes of the fire. It is alleged that the concern has not been prospering lately in its Concord business, and friends of Hooper said last night that he had been despondent of late. The suicide theory was explained when it was found that there were no gas connections in the room. Pending the autopsy the police are at a loss to ascribe any cause for the explosion.

TWO LIVES SAVED

Two Other Persons Were Drowned

CAMDEN, Me., July 12.—A double drowning in the harbor last night was followed by a sensational rescue, in which two other lives were saved only through the courage of the party.

The drowned:

ROBERT YOUNG, 19 years of age, of Waldo.

MAMIE BARKER, aged 23 years, of Camden.

The rescued:

Ernest Picket, aged 25 years, of Camden.

Fannie Willis, 22 years, of Rockland.

The two young couples were sailing off Sherman's Point when their boat was capsized.

Young and Miss Barker sank quickly and were drowned.

Picket, who is an athlete, seized Miss Willis and started to swim for shore. At the point where he touched, however, a sheer precipice arises, and it was only after repeated efforts that Picket secured a footing. His companion had become exhausted, and he was obliged to hold her in his arms to save her from falling into the water.

Cottagers who heard his cries were unable to locate them because of the fog. A telephone message was sent to this place, and parties in boats finally discovered the two in their perilous position. Picket, who was nearly exhausted, had lost his footing and was clinging to a crevice in the ledge with one hand, while with the other he supported the unconscious form of his companion. Neither will suffer seriously from their experience.

MANY VICTIMS

GAMBLING ON A FAMILY EXCURSION STEAMER.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 12—The failure of the authorities to suppress gambling on the family excursion steamer Corwin H. Spencer was evidenced yesterday by the receipt of complaints at the four courts from a number of victims, including Mr. and Mrs. Kisling of Boston, Mass. Mr. Kisling explained that he and his wife had lost $60 after being induced to play by a "capper" who assured that that they couldn't lose.

SUIT FOR $10,000

Growing Out of Pelham Trolley Accident

The trolley accident at Pelham, several months ago, is recalled by the announcement that suit for $10,000 has been brought against the Hudson, Pelham and Salem electric company by the estate of Abbie N. Dillon of West Brookfield, to recover for her death which is alleged to have been caused by injuries received while she was a passenger on one of the company's cars.

Abbie Dillon was among those who were injured in the disaster in Pelham, September 6, 1903, when several people were killed and a score injured by the collision of two high-speed cars. The injured woman died at a hospital in Lowell on the following day and in the suit is alleged to have suffered much during the time intervening between the accident and her death.

Yesterday morning Deputy Sheriff J. H. Hunt went to Pelham and armed with a writ attached the property of the railroad company to the amount named in the suit. This case is one of the few that was left unsettled, payments having been made by the road in nearly all of the other cases.

"KID" PARKER

REPORTED TO BE AMONG THE MISSING.

FALL RIVER, July 12.—Local sports are much excited over the disappearance of "Kid" Parker, well known as a wrestler. Parker came here last February and had been running a wrestling school. The rooms were fitted with stylish furniture, secured on the instalment plan from a local dealer.

A week ago Parker, who had been living at a lodging house with his wife, moved to a house on Third street and applied for permission to move the furniture of the wrestling school to that place. This permission was granted, but it is alleged the furniture was disposed of to various second-hand dealers and that Parker disappeared.

The balance of indebtedness on the goods, about $87, remains unpaid, and the matter was put in the hands of the police yesterday morning.

There are others besides the furniture firm who have claims on Parker.

SKULL FRACTURED

FESSENDEN WAS KILLED BY A FALL.

BOSTON, July 12.—Frank H. Fessenden, 55, custodian of the Museum of fine arts, was killed by a fall yesterday morning in the museum. The accident happened at a time when no one was within hearing distance. He was found unconscious on the floor soon afterward, and was sent to the City hospital. The physicians found that his skull had been fractured in two places and that several of his ribs had been broken. He died early last evening.

It is presumed that he was at work near the ceiling when the ladder slipped and threw him to the floor, a distance of some 20 feet.

Fessenden's home was at 159 Mystic street, Arlington.

LABOR DELEGATES

Roosevelt Turns Down Delegates of 225,000 Workers

OYSTER BAY, July 12.—A committee consisting of M. Burke of Carbondale, Pa., and Henry Horskovitz of Plymouth, Pa., representing the central labor unions in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties, with a membership of 225,000 men, principally miners or allied workmen, came here today to present to President Roosevelt resolutions adopted by the several central labor bodies they represent, urging him to investigate the Colorado labor situation. The committeemen were received by Secretary Loeb whom they asked to arrange an interview with the president. Mr. Loeb offered to lay the resolutions himself before the president, but as the committee had been directed to present them personally to the president Mr. Loeb's position was not satisfactory. The members of the committee were informed by the secretary that a personal interview with the president could not be arranged. He suggested that they call on National Chairman Cortelyou in New York with the resolutions, but they declined to accept the suggestion. They left immediately for home to report to a convention which is now in session at Pliston, Pa.

THE BOUNTY BILL

Attorney General Thinks It Unconstitutional

BOSTON, July 12.—The constitutionality of the old soldiers' bounty bill, passed by the last legislature, is questioned by Attorney General Parker, in an opinion sent to State Treasurer Bradford today. The attorney general said that he had grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the passage of the measure over the governor's veto and advises them not to issue bonds to raise money with which to pay the bounty.

EASTMAN CASE

HAS BEEN SUBMITTED TO THE JURY.

The jury was expected to remain out several hours.

BESTOWS HIGH PRAISE ON DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 12.—The republican state convention met here today The chairman of the committee introduced Senator Stephen B. Elkins as temporary chairman of the convention. Mr. Elkins was received with great applause. When order was restored he said in part:

'The republican party of this state with a view of lessening the burdens of taxation, providing better methods of assessment and collection and a system of taxation fair and just to all interests, declared boldly for tax reform. At once there sprang up sharp differences and much discussion throughout the state and in the republican press as to the methods of taxation that should be adopted. This discussion has been wholesome and profitable and will help to solve the tax question intelligently.

"The republican party stands for the principle of protection, but individuals differ widely as to the schedules in all the great tariff bills. For instance, the Dingley bill now in force here, has the most perfect principle of machinery ever invented for providing revenue and at the same time protecting American labor and American industries as a whole commanded the support of every republican member of congress, but taken by sections and schedules, there is not a republican member of either house that would vote for each separately.

"The national democratic party in its desire to capture this state, has nominated for vice president one or our most distinguished citizens and the foremost democrat in this state; but in this, as in most everything else, the democrats made a mistake. Senator Davis, to whom I am so nearly related, and for whom I cherish feelings of highest regard, admiration and affection, is a man of affairs and an experienced statesman, having served his state creditably in the senate for 12 years.

STABBED HIMSELF

FEARFUL CULMINATION TO DOUBLE MURDER.

OMAHA, July 12.—William M. Zellar supplied a fearful culmination to the brutal double murder of his wife and his father-in-law Saturday by appearing unexpectedly in the midst of the mourners at the funeral yesterday afternoon and slashing himself twice across the body, disemboweling himself.

A posse of more than 100 policemen, deputy sheriffs and farmers were searching the adjacent woods and fields for miles around for the murderer at the moment he emerged from a thicket on the cemetery grounds.

Zellar was still armed with the knife with which he did the murders. The effects of two days' flight without food and rest were apparent in his colorless face. People at the graves were dazed at the sight of him and before they had time either to cry out or run he drew the knife twice across his abdomen and fell to the ground.

City Physician Ralph, who was near by, wrenched the knife from Zellar's hand and took precautions to prevent him, harming himself further, but he will die.

Zellar is a market gardener, who had borne a good reputation till Saturday morning, when he stabbed his wife to death and then killed his father-in-law, J. R. Burkamp, 69 years old.

POLLING PLACES

COMMITTEE STARTS TO SOLVE A KNOTTY PROBLEM.

The committee on polling places met at City Hall, last evening and heard City Clerk Dadman read the law in regard to joint primaries. The committee was much at sea as to just what to do in relation to the primaries and City Clerk Dadman informed them that action must be taken before long as the time for filing nomination papers opens in August. The primaries for state election will be held Sept. 27.

The meeting was to decide whether primaries should be held by wards or by precincts. Alderman Wilson favored splitting up the different sections of the city, having the primaries held by wards where there was not a great population, and by precincts where a big vote would be polled.

Relative to the time of day between which hours the primaries would be open nothing was done. They must be open in cities for nine consecutive hours. In Boston they have opened at 6 in the morning and closed at 3 in the afternoon.

It was finally voted to adjourn, subject to a call from the chair.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Osgood are at Bethlehem, N. H., for an indefinite period.

STRICTLY CASH business proposition open for man with $300 where with a little energy and no former experience he can become rich in a few years, the goods will be universally used, scarcely any competition, 74 per cent. profit, gradually developing into a large, permanent business and carried on at very small expense, full particulars only at interview. Address C. H. P., this office.

TODAY'S SCORE BY INNINGS

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Concord	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	1	--3

Concord defeated Lowell in a good game considering the weather conditions at Spalding park this afternoon. The attendance was rather small owing to the number of people who became sore on account of the last game that Concord played here, when a 9-year-old boy was sent in to take the place of one of the regular men.

Umpire Riva, who has excited so much talk around the circuit, officiated at the game and called time at 3.15 o'clock.

FIRST INNING.

Concord was first to bat and it was no fault of Barney McLaughlin's that the team from way up the river did not score, for he certainly gave the Concord players plenty of chance to start the scoring. Noblitt was the first man up and he received his base on balls. Bushey then squared himself by striking out Newton. Noblitt tried to steal second and McGovern threw him out. Pulsifer then drew his base on balls, the second base on balls given during the first three men up. Newenham sent a grounder to McLaughlin and Barney instead of trying to throw out Pulsifer threw wild to first allowing Newenham to reach that base in safety. Pulsifer went down to third, and during the mix up Newenham went to second. With a man on second and another on third Kane came to the bat and it looked as if Concord would score its first run, but Bushey, who had been giving bases on balls, closed the inning by striking out the visiting left fielder.

Lowell got Grant as far as third in the first inning, the local fielder stealing two bases, but the home team failed to score. Connors was the first man up and he hit to Newton who threw him out at first. Grant drew his base on balls and stole second. He started to steal third just as Bigbie hit to Hastings and the latter seeing that George was nearly up to the base allowed him to reach third and threw Bigbie out at first. Hickey closed the inning by sending a grounder to Newton.

Score—Lowell 0, Concord 0.

SECOND INNING.

In the second inning Lovell was first to bat and he was retired on on easy grounder to McLaughlin. Wn Clarke, the crank, who raised so much trouble when he was here several weeks ago, was the next man to step to the plate and some one in the audience shouted "Are you going to be good today?" he replied with a nice "Yes, sir." He hit an easy one to Bushey; was out at first. Diggins singled over second base and asked for a runner. Steventon, the weighty pitcher, was brought into service. Hastings singled over second base and Steventon tried to reach third and was thrown out by Grant.

Shortstop Newton did the most of the playing during the latter half of the second luning. Lake sent a grounder to Newton, and the latter threw about two miles over Pulsifer's head. Pulsifer ran away from the base and jumping high into the air brought the ball down and held Lake at first. McLaughlin hit to Newton, who ran to second base, putting out Lake. He threw to Pulsifer catching McLaughlin at first. Dorgan sent a pop fly to Newton who let the ball slip through his fingers, but when Dorgan tried to steal second he was thrown out by Diggins.

Score—Lowell 0, Concord 0.

THIRD INNING.

Concord broke the ice in the third inning and scored one run. Noblitt opened the inning with a two-bagger over Bigbie's head. Newton sent a fly to Connors which Billy took care of. Pulsifer struck out. Newenham then singled to left field and Noblitt came home, Bigbie's throw to the plate being a bad one. Newenham went down to second on the throw home. Kane closed the inning by foul flying to McGovern.

Lowell went out in one, two, three order in her half of the third. McGovern was the first man up and he filled out to Noblitt. Bushey then hit to Win Clarke and he was thrown out at first. Connors closed the inning by sending a line drive to Clarke.

Score—Concord 1, Lowell 0.

FOURTH INNING.

In the fourth inning George Grant by a spectacular play saved Concord from scoring two runs. Lovell was the first man up and Bushey was too much for him, the Concord man going out on three strikes. Clarke sent a fly to McLaughlin and Diggins then sent a phony hit to Barney, and the little fellow let the ball go by, and should be ashamed of himself for letting such a hit pass him. Hastings sent a grounder to McLaughlin, which went over his head. With Diggins on second base and Hastings on first, Noblitt came to the bat and sent a high fly out near the flag staff. Grant saw the ball coming and turning around ran at top speed for it. Fearing he might lose it he made a jump high into the air and just nabbed the ball.

Lowell went out in quick order in the fourth. Grant sent a fly which Pulsifer took care of and Bigbie hit to Newton, the latter making a pretty one-handed catch and throwing George out at first. Hickey sent a foul fly to Kane, but the latter let it go through his hands. He then hit to Lovell and wa ashrown out at first.

Score—Lowell 1, Lowell 0.

FIFTH INNING.

Concord succeeded in bringing another man across the plate in the fifth inning. Newton was the first man up and he struck out. Pulsifer received his base on balls. Newton sent a grounder to Hickey and was retired at first. Kane sent the ball to the left field fence for two bases and Pulsifer scored. Lovell hit to McLaughlin was thrown out at first.

Lowell scored her first hit during the game in the fifth inning when Lake broke the ice by hitting a single to the right field fence. McLaughlin fanned out. Dorgan hit the ball for what looked like a sure single, but Win Clarke by a brilliant one hand stop got the ball and sending it to second caught Lake. Newton, who ran to second threw the ball to Pulsifer and Dorgan was declared out, though Dorgan had the ball beaten to first.

Score—Concord 2, Lowell 0.

SIXTH INNING.

In the sixth inning Clarke hit to McLaughlin and was thrown out at first. Diggins made his third consecutive single in this inning. Hastings drew his base on balls and Noblitt struck out. Newton hit to McLaughlin and forced Hastings out at second.

In the sixth inning after the crowd in the grandstand and bleachers had gone to sleep McGovern awakened them by hitting to the left field fence for two bases. Bushey singled, scoring McGovern. Connors then sent Bushey to second on a pretty sacrifice. Grant drew his base on balls. Bigbie sent a foul fly to Lovell and Hickey followed with what looked to be a sure hit to the left field fence, but Kane by a phenomenal catch brought the ball down, closing the inning.

Score—Concord 2, Lowell 1.

SEVENTH INNING.

In the seventh Pulsifer hit to McLaughlin and was thrown out at first. Newenham struck out. Kane closed the inning by hitting to Bushey and being thrown out at first.

Lake hit to Newton and died at first. McLaughlin filed out to Kane. Dorgan hit to Newton and was cut at first.

Score—Concord 2, Lowell 1.

EIGHTH INNING.

Lovell hit by second for a single. Hickey made a pretty one hand jab at the ball and knocked it down, but could not get it over to first in time to catch the runner. Clarke belted to Bushey intending to sacrifice, but Bushey threw bad to first and Clarke was safe. Lovell went down to third on the throw. Diggins fanned out. Clarke tried to steal second and was thrown out by McGovern. Hastings hit to Bushey and was thrown out at first.

The crowd yelled at McGovern to start the fireworks and he did by hitting the ball to the left field fence for two bases. If it had gone several inches higher it would have gone over for a home run. Bushey hit to Hastings and was thrown out at first. Connors foul flied to Lovell. Grant flied to Clarke.

Score—Lowell 1, Concord 2.

NINTH INNING.

Noblitt made a single to centre field. Newton bunted towards first, and Bushey got the ball, but Lake also ran for it, and as no one was on first base to get the ball, Newton reached first. Pulsifer bunted along the first base line intending to sacrifice. Lake stood on the bag and let Bushey run for th eball and Pulsifer beat out the ball reaching first on another phony hit.

McGovern threw wild to catch Newton and Noblitt scored. Then Newton and Pulsifer tried a double steal. Newenham hit the ball to left field and Bigbie caught the ball and sent the ball to second making a double play on Newton. The ball was thrown to Lake and if he had not have muffed it it would have been a tripie play. Pulsifer stole second and aKne drew his base on balls. Lovell flied out to Connors.

Bigbie started the ball arolling with a single to left field. Hickey flied out to Kane.

Lake hit to centre field for a single. McLaughlin hit to left field filling the bases.

DIAMOND NOTES.

'Way down the South Atlantic league one Manager Ashenback has been fined $10 and suspended 10 days for "rioting." Where have we heard that name before?

And in the midst of all the trouble in Nashua, Ed. Secord has hiked for the Kings Co., highbush to think it over.

Fred Lake went into a place in Nashua yesterday and asked for a pint of Londonderry. And what do you think? They didn't keep it.

CLEAR THE DOORWAYS.

Supt. Moffatt has decided to make a drive against the men, young and old, who hang out in doorways and insult women as they pass. Several complaints have been received at the police station of late relative to such cases and certain doorways have been named. Supt. Moffatt has also handed the names of certain young men whom it is alleged are very insulting.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Serious Damage Was Done in North Billerica

The thunder and lightning storm, which just dodged this city shortly before one o'clock this afternoon, rained havoc in North Billerica, houses being struck, telephones and electric lights put out of commission and even people being shocked. The old residents of the town claim that it was one of the most severe lightning storms that has struck the town for a long time. The rain descended in torrents, the thunder roared and the lightning was blinding.

About half past twelve the sky began to darken and the wind blew so hard that people thought a hurricane was coming. Then the rain started to come, accompanied by thunder and lightning. The roar of the thunder was so loud and the lightning so bright that the people were terrified.

During the fury of the storm the houses occupied by T. J. McCarthy and Henry Mahoney, situated on Church street, near St. Andrew's church, were struck by the lightning and badly damaged. The lightning entered the attics of both houses and raised havoc with the plastering, furniture, shingles and chimneys. Fortunately the occupants of both houses were on the ground floor when the lightning struck or else they might have been killed.

The electric lights at the Talbot Dyewood and Chemical Co. were put out of commission as were those in other places in the town. Many of the telephones were also affected so that word had to be sent to this city for assistance in repairing the electric and telephone wires.

Assistant Station Agent Delmage, at the Boston & Maine station at North Billerica, received a shock which placed him in a semi-conscious condition for a while, but he later recovered.

Many trees were felled to the ground, while houses lost numerous shingles and bricks from the chimneys.

HIS BIRTHDAY

LOWELL MAN HONORED AT SALISBURY BEACH.

George Starr of the Bigelow Carpet company was honored at Salisbury beach, Saturday evening, when the guests at the Columbia Villa, including many from Lowell, made the occasion of Mr. Starr's birthday one to be remembered at the beach. Mr. Bernard Burns, proprietor of the Columbia Villa, in behalf of the guests, presented Mr. Starr a checker board containing fifty different kinds of wood as a birthday souvenir and also suggestive of his ability as a checker player. Mr. Starr has defeated all comers at the beach, at checkers, and he acknowledged his first defeat when Mr. Burns, at the conclusion of a very pretty little presentation speech tendered him the board. Mr. Starr was taken completely by surprise and although phased by the kind action of his friends he managed to express, in words appropriate, his delight with the checker board and his appreciation of the kindness of his many friends. Among those present on the happy occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Starr, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Quinn, Miss Elizabeth M. Donoghue, Frank J., William J., Annie G., and Mary E. Quinn, all of Lowell; Miss Pearl Ham of Haverhill, Edward Saunders, Edward Cahill and Alfred Emerson of Amesbury, Misses Edith Clayburn, Fannie Maynard and Mr. Arthur Walsh of Merrimac, Frank Murphy, William McDonald, Miss Lizzie Hyland, Mamie Nawn and Josie Murphy of Newburyport.

By a brilliant rally, however, he overcame the lead and finally took the set, 7-5.

The summary of the forenoon play: First round: J. F. McDonald beat A. B. Roth 6-3, 6-4.

Kenneth Horton beat P. Ostanwood 6-4, 6-1.

HORACE W. WALSH

Evicted Man May Have Ended His Life

Orrin S. Walsh, a paralytic, who was evicted from his house in A street Saturday for the non-payment of rent, is now at the St. James hotel, and is greatly worried over the absence of his brother, Horace W. Walsh, who disappeared Saturday morning. In yesterday's edition of The Sun there was an account of the eviction, because of delinquency in paying their rent. Horace Walsh is a civil war pensioner, and the two, each of whom is over 60 years of age, managed to live on the pension. The brothers were very much devoted to each other and Orrin said this morning that a cross word never passed between the two, that one was willing to cast his lot with the other no matter how hard the road was to travel. Being together the greater part of their life and as they thought a great deal of each other, the disappearance of Horace is keenly felt by his brother.

Last week because there was a delay in sending along the pension money the two were ordered out by a constable. Horace went out at 8 o'clock in the morning to look for a place to reside and also to get a man to move the furniture, and since then he has not been seen or heard from.

A representative of The Sun called at the St. James hotel this morning and during the conversation with Orrin S. Walsh, the latter had the following to say:

"My brother and I have lived happily for years and years and his troubles were my troubles and mine were his. No matter what we had we always divided and neither of us would see the other in want. Horace is one of the best natured men I ever knew. He never had a cross word to say and no one knows better than myself that his road was a hard one. I am suffering from a paralytic shock and am almost helpless, but Horace attended to my every want and we managed to get along on his pension. We bothered no one and lived quietly together.

"I do not care to talk about the eviction, for it separated two brothers who loved each other and I have a strange presentiment that I have seen the last of my brother. If he was alive or able to come to me he would, for the neighbors know where I am."

Continuing his story he said: "On Saturday morning at eight o'clock we knew that we had to leave the house before night and my brother went to look for a room where we could go and also to see a Mr. Claus on Lincoln street to remove our household goods to a storage place. He bid me good-bye and said he would return soon. I do not know where he went but think that he went to Mr. Claus, for that gentleman came to the house and removed the goods to a place of safety.

"I waited around the house all day. He did not come to dinner, neither did he come to supper, and then I became worried. Not knowing what to do and as I had no place to lay my head that night I waited until 9.30 o'clock when I had one of the neighbors hire a carriage and I directed the man to drive to the drug store where my son works in Branch street. When I reached the drug store I found that my son was away on his vacation and as I had to go some place to bed I told the man to drive me to the St. James hotel. I have been here since then and not a word or a message have I received from Horace. I know that something has happened him."

In the course of his conversation Mr. Walsh said that owing to his condition and the pecuniary circumstances that he and his brother had been in he thought his brother's mind had been turned and that his brother had spoken about going either to the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea or at Togus. He felt sure that Horace would have told him when he intended to start. Mr. Walsh said that he thought that some person killed him.

"Did your brother have any enemies, or is there anyone who would do him bodily harm?" asked the reporter.

"No, I do not know of a person who thought ill of him, for he would not do anything out of the way, but there is something that tells me that he is dead or hurt in some manner."

An inquiry brought out the fact that Horace Walsh was at times unbalanced in his mind. His brother informed the reporter that Horace was also quite despondent at times, and it is thought that owing to the trouble the men were in, and there being no signs of better times for them, together with the heat, that Horace may have ended his life, probably by jumping into a canal or one of the rivers.

FOR DRUNKENNESS

Soldier Arrested Here May be Court Martialed

Corporal Brylerger came to Lowell from Fort Banks this morning and returned with Patrick McNamara, the soldier who was convicted of drunkenness in the local police court a few days ago. Judge Hadley's sentence was waived and the soldier was taken into custody by the United States officer. "What will they do with him?" asked a police officer of Corporal Brylerger. "He will probably get three years," replied the corporal.

PELHAM FARMER

SEIZED WITH SUDDEN FIT OF INSANITY.

John Quigley, a farmer residing in Pelham, raised ructions on Hampshire street in Lawrence Saturday morning.

Quigley was riding on Hampshire street, near Lowell street, about 10 o'clock, when he suddenly jumped from his team. He pulled off his coat and vest and threw them into one of William Forbes & Sons' wagons. Quigley then ran to Maloney's store at the corner of Hampshire and Valley streets and picked up two pumpkins which he hurled at the crowd of spectators who were following him. The pumpkins went wide of their mark and were shattered to pieces by coming in contact with the pavement.

Quigley continued his wild run until he reached Holihan Brothers' store. Here he picked up two tonic bottles and was in the act of throwing them through a plate glass window when he was seized by Joseph Doyle and J. Pracetz, who held him until Policeman Reardon arrived and took Quigley to the station. Quigley was examined at the Lawrence police station and it was decided that he was temporarily insane. The Concord, N. H., authorities were communicated with and an officer was sent from that place Saturday night and Quigley was given into his charge. It was necessary to strap him in order to prevent his doing harm. The effects of the heat and a copious supply of drink no doubt caused his trouble, which is believed to be but temporary.

INSTANTLY KILLED

BALL PLAYER WAS STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

PITTSBURG, July 12.—Charles Jefferies, left fielder of the Johnstown baseball team, was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon and died almost instantly. The team had just finished practice and Jeffries was in the act of throwing the ball to second baseman Saphn, when there was a flash of lightning and he fell on the field.

Jefferies is the man the New York National league team was after. His parents reside at Lancaster, Pa.

HIS HAND INJURED.

Joseph Donahue, residing at 15 Merrill street, and employed in the bottling department of the Harvard brewery, while at work this morning, met with an accident, one of the bottles which he was holding exploded, inflicting a severe gash in his right hand. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to St. John's hospital, where his injury was dressed.

83 YEARS OLD

Charles H. Hanson Sr. Observes Anniversary

Mr. Charles H. Hanson, one of the oldest citizens of this city, yesterday celebrated the eight-third anniversary of his birth at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Daniel R. Frye, 219 Gibson street. The celebration was confined to the immediate relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson, their children and grandchildren.

Mr. Hanson was born in Barnston, Canada, 83 years ago and came to Lowell in May, 1840. Soon after his arrival in this city he went to work on the old Middlesex canal on a canal boat that plied between Middlesex Village and Boston. Afterwards he went into the employ of Horace Howard as a teamster, but later embarked in trade for himself on Rock street in the teaming and stable business in which he continued with marked success until 1887, when he retired and left it in the hands of his sons, the Hon. C. H. Hanson and Mr. J. S. Hanson, whose horse repository is known as one of the best of its kind to be found in this part of the country.

Mr. Hanson was always a staunch republican and at the time Fletcher M. Ayer was running for mayor, Mr. Hanson was his right-hand man.

The old gentleman is something of a gardener, having one of the finest gardens in the Highlands, the care of which falls entirely on him.

All of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson's family live in the immediate neighborhood where the aged couple reside, so their home is a sort of rendezvous for them.

STUBBORN BLAZE

FIRE CAUSED $25,000 LOSS IN WOONSOCKET.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 12.—A stubborn fire, the origin of which is unknown, did $25,000 damage in Edwards block next to the Worcester division railroad station last night. The damage to the three-story building will reach $5000 while over $20,000 damage was done to stock, furniture, etc., in various stores and offices. The heaviest losses are estimated as follows:

James Dyce & Co., dry goods, $10,000; Desroches brothers, $3000; Earle and Prew Express, $3000; Hector Desmarais, photographer, $2500.

The losses are covered by insurance, except in Desmarais's case, whose insurance is about half his loss. The rest of the tenants, namely physicians and dentists, all sustained losses. The blaze was the most serious one that has taken place in the city's business district since Edwards block and the Worcester division railroad station of the Consolidated road were gutted by fire 22 years ago.

PLOT EXPOSED

WOMAN TOLD HOW PRISONERS PLANNED TO ESCAPE.

LACONIA, N. H., July 12.—A well-arranged plot of escape by the prisoners in the Belknap county jail was discovered and thwarted yesterday through information given by a woman.

Mrs. Parsons, wife of Howard E. Parsons, who is held for the grand jury on a charge of abducting Addie Tate of this city, informed police officer Rowen that one Mrs. Zalonis, wife of a Russian who is in the jail, had confided that she had taken into the jail when visiting her husband some saws for cutting metal and a file.

Officer Rowen at once told Jailer Weymouth yesterday, and he and Sheriff Philbrook made a thorough search of the jail. A confession was obtained from one of the prisoners to the effect that the tools were in the cell of a prisoner named Legrand. When confronted Legrand admitted the plot, and from his cell were taken five saws and a new file. Later he also produced a saw frame which was hidden in the main room of the jail outside the cells on a niche near the ceiling.

As near as can be learned the tools have been in the possession of the prisoners about ten days. The prisoners now in the jail, including the Russian, who is held for the higher court on a charge of adultery, are Legrand, who is serving a sentence of one year for the conversion of a mileage book and whose time is nearly up; Parsons, James Danforth of Wolfboro, who is held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of assaulting a 14-year-old girl in Gilford; Edward Corey, held for larceny; Nole Larock, held on a charge of assaulting a female child; Peter Ogden, a half-breed Indian, held on a charge of attempted highway robbery, and Clarence Hurley, held for breaking and entering and larceny.

The authorities believe that Danforth was the ringleader. Sheriff Philbrook has given orders that the strictest watch be put upon all visitors admitted to the jail, and all the prisoners have been put into parti-colored prison suits.

Fountain was instantly killed and Parker fatally injured. The latter was alive last night but no hope is held of his recovery.

Fountain leaves a wife and 11 children, and Parker, who is a widower, has nine children.

PRIEST STABBED

Rev. John P. Barry May Not Live

HE WAS ATTACKED BY FORMER JANITOR

The Latter Was in the Insane Asylum

BOSTON, July 12.—Suffering intense agony from two severe knife wounds, the Rev. Fr. John P. Barry, formerly of Boston, and now pastor of St. Anne's Catholic Church, Youngstown, O., is lying between life and death in a hospital in that city.

Fr. Barry was struck down at 10.30 o'clock last Saturday morning by a former janitor at his church just as he had come from an errand of mercy to one of his parishioners, and after he had greeted his assailant, with a shake of the hand.

John Berry is under arrest, charged with the crime. He coolly expressed his sorrow at not having completed "the job." He was in an asylum for about a year. Last Christmas he was discharged as cured.

On Saturday morning he made many inquiries in the neighborhood of the parochial residence regarding the whereabouts of Fr. Barry, who had been out of town for a week, and evidently followed him to the house of Thomas Fleming on West Federal street, where the priest had gone, and in front of which the stabbing occurred.

Upon emerging from this house Fr. Barry saw his old sexton in the yard, and advanced toward him with outstretched hand. They conversed for a minute or two, and the next that was known was when Mr. Fleming saw the two men in each other's grasp, and heard the priest utter an exclamation of pain and a cry for help. Hurrying to his aid, Mr. Fleming found a cheap pocket knife firmly wedged in the priest's left eye, which had passed through the eyeball and both lids, destroying the sight. Another wound was made in the abdomen, low down, which opened it and caused severe internal wounds.

Fr. Barry was removed to the City hospital, where he underwent an operation. Late Saturday afternoon he was resting as well as could be expected.

The affair occurred on the 19th anniversary of Fr. Barry's ordination.

After his arrest the assassin refused to talk, except to say: "I am sorry I did not finish the job."

Fr. Barry was born in Boston, October 7, 1861, being one of a family of four children, all of whom are now living. He was the son of Thomas and Ann Barry, who came to Boston from Ireland.

Fr. Barry was educated in the public schools here and graduated from the English High school with honors. He began his classical studies at Boston college, remaining there two years, after which he went to Nicolet college, Quebec, from which he graduated in June, 1881.

He began his theological studies at the Grand Seminary in Montreal, Can., under the direction of the Sulpician Fathers. He has been pastor of St. Ann's church for 17 years.

The condition of Fr. Barry is still believed by the physicians in attendance to be dangerous. They were more hopeful last night, however, than at any time since the assault, and they think there is a good chance, if blood poisoning can be averted. They are not yet determined whether the knife thrust in the eye pierced the brain.

BEY OF TUNIS

PAID VISIT TO PRESIDENT LOUBET.

PARIS, July 12—The Bey of Tunis arrived here this morning. He was accorded military honors and received a notable popular reception. He visited President Loubet at the Elisco palace where a long and cordial exchange of friendly sentiment was had. This afternoon the Bey visited the senate and Chad. He will be the guest of honor at a garden party today. The picturesque costumes of the Bey and his party attracted widespread attention. The visit of the Bey to Paris is significant of the strengthening of the French protocol over Tunis and the development of the governmental policy of the French North American empire.

PARKER CLUB

MANY MESSAGES

CONGRATULATIONS POUR IN ON SENATOR DAVIS.

ELKINS, W. Va., July 12.—More than 300 congratulatory telegrams have been received by ex-Senator Davis upon his nomination for vice-president. Among these messages was one from Judge Parker. The expression of weariness which the convention left on Davis' features has disappeared. Throughout yesterday there was a steady stream of townsmen going to and from "Graceland," the beautiful Davis home on an eminence west of the town of Elkins. All were received by Mr. Davis himself, or by his private secretary. The vice-presidential candidate refuses to talk on the money question until Judge Parker has made a statement. He has made no change in his plans but has arranged to meet Senator Hill in two weeks for that purpose. He will go to Bedford Springs for two weeks in August.

FRENCH BISHOPS

Asked to Send in Their Resignations

PARIS, July 12.—The Matin today says that eight days after the recall of M. Nisard, former French ambassador at the vatican, a number of French bishops received an order from Cardinal Vannutelli, acting for the vatican to tender their resignations by return of mail. The bishops, it is added, consulted the minister of public worship and Premier Combes, who told them not to tender their resignations on the ground that the concordat required the assent of the state before removals were enforced.

Thereafter the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Merry del Val, threatened the bishops with the termination of their episcopal powers unless they came to Rome within 15 days. This was also submitted to M. Combes, who forbade the bishops leaving their posts. Bishop Laval of Dijon, two other bishops and three arch-bishops were the ones designated.

The Matin further asserts that the dismissal of the bishops without consulting the government's wishes will be considered as a formal renunciation of the relations between the church and state.

FEWER STRIKES

NOT SO MANY DURING THE PAST YEAR.

BOSTON, July 12—According to a bulletin just issued by the Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics of Labor, covering the year ending September 30, 1903, the number of strikes during that period was 217, or 50 less than the year before. Only ten of the controversies were lockouts. Full details concerning results were not obtained but it was learned that 133 of the strikes involved 28,709 workmen who lost an aggregate of 1,193,859 days. Twenty-five of the strikes lasted only one day each, but the longest was seventeen weeks.

The matron alleges that she was assaulted by the strangers and reported the affair to the city marshal, who refused to take any action.

Both sides today awaited developments from the conference between the Union leaders and the heads of the principal packing house at Chicago.

READY TO BATTLE

Opposing Armies are Anxious for the Fray

HEADQUARTERS OF GENERAL COUNT KELLER, Niutikay, 12 miles west of Llandiansan July 12. The opposing armies are grimly facing each other on the heights across the Liank river ready to engage in a death grapple.

The Liank crosses the main Liao Yang-Feng Wang Cheng road, 28 miles east of Liao Yang, flows north into the Taitsu river, which passes through Liao Yang and empties into the Liao river. The correspondent of the Associated Press who arrived here after a 35 mile ride from Siaolindji saw long lines of infantry and transport trains winding through the mountains.

At Llandiansan a lookout stationed in a tree top pointed out the way to General Keller's headquarters near Niutikay. There the Russian eastern army was found, hidden in the hills. In a plain tent the correspondent saw General Keller living like a simple soldier, his staff being quartered in a native hut nearby. The general looked cheerful and was bronzed by exposure. He talked enthusiastically of the engagement at Hoyan. Around the general's tent were many officers of the guards, the pride of St. Petersburg. To see them as weather-beaten as the Cossacks officers, one could scarcely believe them to be the dashing guardsmen of the Russian capital. They have become hardened fighters, for hardly a day passes without collisions between the advance posts of the eastern army and the Japanese. The whole army is anxious to fight General Kuroki whose headquarters are at Vandiapudze and whose men are entrenched on the banks of the river. The burning question is who will be the first to cross the dread valley of the Liank river.

LITTLE FIGHTING ALONG THE ROAD

TA TCHE KIAO, Saturday, July 9, via Liao Yang, July 11—A Russian correspondent of the Associated Press who has just arrived with the Russian rear guard after a running fight from Kia Chou half way here (Ta Tche Kiao) says:

"We evacuated Kai Chou today, Saturday) after a fight lasting throughout Friday. We made a short stand at Pintzan, seven miles north of Kia Chou. The Japanese kept on our heels and there were constant exchanges between the Russian and Japanese batteries. The Japanese advance stopped eight miles south of here. The fight along the road was lively, but our losses were small.

"There had been preliminary skirmishing and manoeuvring for position around Kia Chou since July 5th. On that day two companies were caught in the hills to the eastward and surrounded by six Japanese battalions. They cut their way out however, and returned to Kia Chou bringing many wounded.

"Early in the morning of July 8, the hills to the southward and eastward of Kia Chou were apparently deserted, but we were aware that the Japanese were ready to spring. We had destroyed the railway bridge south of the town and had a strong line of rifle pits along the bank of the river.

"It was a brilliant morning. The Japanese began to advance from the defiles where they were concealed and, taking cover behind the thick trees and in the gardens south of the river bank kept their batteries on the hill tops carefully masked.

"The entire day was marked by a long series of artillery duels.

"The whole of our artillery remaining in the rear and covering the infantry retreated to Pintzen, allowed the Japanese to come up and then shelled them. Again the fight developed with some warmth while the Japanese brought up fresh batteries with which they pounded the village.

"Gen. Stakelberg hung on until late in the afternoon. We could hear his guns growling behind us as the column moved north. Quiet then ensued and the march was continued uninterruptedly to Ta Tche Kiao.

GENERAL OKU OCCUPIES KAICHOU

TIEN TSIN, July 12.—Lloyd's agent at New Chwang, telegraphing under date of July 11, says:

"General Oku has occupied Kaichou without resistance. General Stakelburg retiring on Tatchekiao. I do not expect trouble either with the Russian or the Japanese troops."

JAPANESE BOATS NOT DAMAGED

TOKIO, July 12—Noon.—Admiral Togo reports that at midnight, July 11, torpedo boats approached the boom which blocks the entrance to Port Arthur harbor and attacked the guardship Diana with torpedoes. The result has not been ascertained. The Japanese boats returned undamaged.

NEW CHWANG MAY BE EVACUATED

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12—1 p. m.—Colonel Novitsky of the general staff, in an interview today, said:

"The result of the loss of Kaichou will probably be the evacuation of New Chwang.

General Kuropatkin's position is more difficult than that which confronted Lord Roberts in South Africa. It is as if Lord Roberts received his supplies by rail via Constantinople, and Central Africa. It will be a long time before Kuropatkin will have enough supplies and men to assume the offensive. In the meantime he will have to fight rear guard actions, perhaps giving up important positions like New Chwang which are of vastly more consequence than Kaichou.

RUSSIANS OBSERVE GREAT FESTIVAL

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12, 1.05 p. m.—This is the festival of St. Peter and St. Paul, one of the greatest holidays of the year. All business is suspended and the government departments are closed. The papers here are busily exploiting the prospects of an Anglo-Russian understanding, the Novosti declaring the idea is no longer Utopian but holds out advantages to both countries, which are recognized more and more every day, a remarkable feature being that the war which one would think would have driven them apart is really drawing them together.

JAPANESE LEGATION ISSUES A DENIAL

ROME, July 12—At the Japanese legation here it was learned today that there is no truth in the report, published in the United States, that Japan had protested to Italy against the transferring of Signor Melegari, the Italian minister at Tokio to St. Petersburg, owing to his pro-Japanese altitude. On the contrary the Italian government consulted o nthe subject with the government at Tokio, which replied that it had no objection to the transfer of Signor Melegari to the Russian capital. The Japanese legation officials here added that there was no truth in the further report that the Japanese minister at Rome would be withdrawn.

RUSSIANS ANXIOUS TO MEET JAPS

GENERAL COUNT KELLERS HEADQUARTERS, via Liao Yang, July 11—A serious fight is expected soon.

The opposing forces are now occupying the hills on opposite sides of the valley of the Liankhi river, where it crosses the Liao Yang road.

The Russians both officers and men are anxious to contest the Japanese advance.

CORPORATION TREATY WAS PROMULGATED

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12 The corporation treaty between the United States and Russia, negotiated by Ambassador McCormack, was formally promulgated today.

The corporation treaty provides that an American and Russian corporation may sue in the courts of both Russia and the United States. Previous to the promulgation of the treaty American concerns did sue in Russia, but could not bring suit there.

A STRANGE TALE

LASCAR SAILOR SWAM IN RED SEA FOR THREE DAYS.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Among a number of strange tales related by the crew of the steamship Shimosa, just arrived from Japan and China and which reported having run over a large whale a few miles outside Sandy Hook, is one to the effect that while the big freighter was speeding through the Red sea, a Lascar sailor was picked up. The swarthy heathen declared he had been swimming three days and nights, having fallen overboard from an Indian trader bound for Antwerp. Capt. Champlin is certain that the man was at least 36 hours in the water before the vessel picked him up.

"It was about 5 o'clock on June 15," he said. "We were steaming through the Red sea and 3 or 4 days from Suez when the lookout saw something in the water. The ship was stopped and a few minutes later the chap came swimming alongside. We got the sea ladder over and he climbed on board without help.

"We gave him a wash down with fresh water and a peg of rum to liven him up, and then after giving him something to eat sent him to bed. He seemed all right when he awoke the next morning, but we could get little out of him except the name of the vessel from which he had fallen overboard and his statement that he had been three days and nights swimming.

"Upon reaching Suez we found that the Timaun to which the Lascar belonged had touched there just 36 hours before we arrived. From this I judge that the man had been that length of time in the water. I sent him to the British consul."

AN INVESTIGATION

BOSTON & MAINE WANTS TO KNOW WHO THREW OPEN SWITCH.

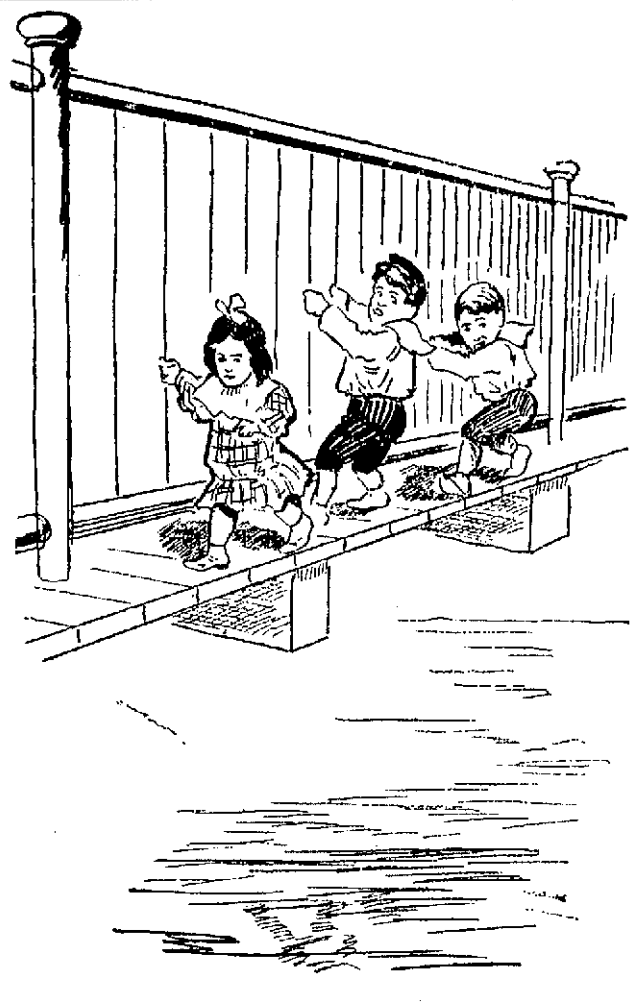

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 12.—The authorities of the Atlantic division of the Canadian Pacific railroad are holding an investigation to determine who opened a switch at Greenville Junction, Maine, and derailed the fast express running from Montreal to this city. The wreck occurred last Sunday morning. The locomotive struck an open switch, jumped the rails and was thrown over on its side. The mail and express cars were also derailed. Traffic was delayed four hours and a temporary track had to be built around the blockade. No one was injured. It is thought the switch may have been left open by some person not employed by the railroad.

THEY MAY AGREE

STEAMSHIP COMPANIES TRYING TO END RATE WAR.

LONDON, July 12—The Associated Press is authorized by one of the representatives of the steamship lines which participated in the conference with the president of the board of trade, Gerald Balfour, in regard to the Transatlantic rate war to deny the report circulated in the United States, that the negotiations have failed. "You can say," he added, "That the negotiations are progressing with every chance of an early agreement."

It is proposed to insert the old emigrant rate in an informal agreement. Until the agreement is signed the $18 rate will continue. Herr Ballin director general of the Hamburg American line left London this morning for Berlin but he will return shortly to London for a further and probably final conference.

Big Reduction in Fall River Mills

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 12.—All but two or three of the mill treasurers in the Cotton Manufacturers' association have signed the agreement for a reduction in wages. It is the general understanding that an agreement will go into effect. The proposed reduction will average about 12½ percent, and will become operative on Monday, July 25. The secretaries of labor unions have declined to discuss the proposed reduction until after the formal announcement is made.

AMATEUR COACHING

HARVARD WANTS YALE TO MAKE CHANGE.

CAMBRIDGE, July 12—The recommendation that Yale should be asked to return to amateur coaching in the Harvard-Yale rowing races, failing to do which Harvard should discontinue the annual races on the Thames is contained in the leading editorial in the Harvard Bulletin, the organ of the Harvard graduates, the monthly edition of which has just appeared. The paper is edited by John D. Merrill, a prominent Harvard graduate who is also an authority on rowing matters.

The bulletin says: "The boat races at New London last week again showed the truth of the statement made in the bulletin a year ago, that if Harvard wants to beat Yale on the water the Cambridge crew must have a professional coach or neither college must have one.

"Harvard was coached this year by a man who was paid for his services in order that he might not suffer financial loss on a crew in Cambridge but Michaison is not a professional in the sense that Mr. Kennedy the Yale coach is one. The former does not make and never has made his living by rowing or by teaching rowing.

"The bulletin did not approve of the selection of Mr. Colson as coach of the Harvard crew, but the distinction between him and Mr. Kennedy is plain. Nevertheless Harvard is today a little worse off than she was a year ago, because she has, in the meantime taken a step toward the employment of a professional coach, a step which did not have the approval of a majority of the graduates and should never be sanctioned by the athletic committee."

The bulletin tries to be frank and in that spirt suggests that there is one way for Harvard to retain her graduate coaching and at the same time win her share of the boat races. That way is—that Yale shall go back to amateur coaching. The bulletin believes that it is time for Harvard to say to Yale "We will continue to row with you if you will have amateur coaching for your university crew; if you are to have a professional coach you must look elsewhere for an opponent."

FUNERALS

BURKE—The funeral of the late Thomas Burke took place yesterday afternoon from his late home, 8 Garnet street. The funeral was largely attended and there were many floral offerings in evidence. McCARTHY—The funeral of the late Michael McCarthy, who died at the Lowell hospital yesterday afternoon at the age of 70 years, took place this afternoon from the funeral parlors of Funeral Director Saunders, and the remains were forwarded to Cambridge for interment.

AUTO BOAT RACE

Great Interest Shown in the Contests

BOSTON, July 12.—Success has crowned the efforts of the Eastern Yacht club in its initial attempt to create an interest in and promote the sport of autoboat and launch racing in Massachusetts bay, and the first races yesterday of its series, off Marblehead, in spite of accidents which temporarily prevented the boats from doing their best, proved decidedly interesting and will do much to create enthusiasm for this latest fad. The novelty of the contest had much to do with the large flotilla about the course of pleasure boats with spectators. Before giving a detailed story of the race, the winners are announced as follows: Autoboats, class C, Autowin; second class launches, Elizabeth on allowance; third class launches, It; Sapho, a walkover. Both the Mercedes and Flat in the class B for autoboats, after a short but exciting contest, became disabled and were forced to withdraw from the racing.

There were 16 starters, a most creditable showing for the first series of importance for power boats held in local waters. The races went off without an accident so far as collisions are concerned, and the boats had a fine, clear course from start to finish, with no sharp turns. Torpedo boats destroyers patrolled the course and kept intruding boats outside the lines but added, at the same time, to the picturesqueness of the scene during the racing. The course was over a triangle 8½ miles around, starting off Cat Island, to mark A (N. E. by E.), thence to mark B (W. N. W. ¼ N.), to finish line (S ¼ E.) The autoboats were sent four times around, or 26 miles, and the launches twice around, or 12½ miles. In the special race for the Gay cup the boats were also sent over the triangle four times, or 25 miles.

There were no starters in classes D or E for autoboats, so the entries in Class C, the Naughty Girl and the Autowin, were started in class B.

When the whistle sounded that sent the Autowin and the Naughty Girl away, the Flat came for the line with a dash, and was a full hundred yards in the lead before the Mercedes crossed the line. Then the Mercedes raced after her rival with the speed of a deer. Before a quarter of a mile of the race had been covered, it was easy to tell which of the boats was the faster. The Mercedes went by the Flat as though the latter were an ordinary launch instead of a very fast autoboat. As the boat disappeared in the haze, the Mercedes was having things her own way. Then she had trouble with her engine, and the Flat caught and passed her and came around the finish flag at the end of the first round with a long lead.

Away she went on her course, and it looked as if she would have an easy win over the Mercedes. Then the Bowden boat came along. At every bound she pulled down the lead of the Flat until she had again caught and passed her. Then it was some time before the boats came into view again and the first to be discerned was the Flat, disabled and being towed back. She had cracked a cylinder head and had to withdraw. Shortly afterward the same fate overtook the Mercedes and she was out of the contest.

The next class to be sent away was for cabin boats, the Haidee and the Elizabeth, and with them went the Sapho, a launch of amateur design and which, if she had more powerful engines, would give a good account of herself. As it was she had a walkover. The Haidee easily beat the Elizabeth, finishing 20 minutes and 18 seconds ahead of her on actual time, but she lost to the Elizabeth on allowance.

The race in the third class launches proved decidedly interesting, and the little Gloucester launch "It" proved a revelation. She had an easy win over the other boats in her class and this in spite of the fact that she is driven by a small tandem six-horse power Ranomur motor, that develops about eight-horse power. She was built by Oscar Perkins of Gloucester. The Firefly, George Lee's launch, was second in this class, and the Edith M. third. The Gay cup race, which is for the boat under 40 feet over all length that makes the smallest elapsed time for the series of three races, was started at 1.55 p.m. in a choppy sea.

The starters for the cup were the It, the Autowin, the Naughty Girl and the Sapho. They got away in this order, and Howard Haskell sent the little It across the line in the lead and with a fine move on. The Gloucester boat made little fuss and took the short seas easily and gracefully and kept in the lead, although pressed hard by the Naughty Girl, which was going well on the first round. There were but 33 seconds between them on the first round. The Autowin was third and the Sapho which had been dropped fast, decided to withdraw. On the second round of the course the Autowin began to pull up on the It, while the Naughty Girl true to her name, began to act badly and fell astern. The little It then got into trouble and her insulator burned out and the sparking pin got out of order and her engine began to miss.

At the end of the second round the Autowin had three seconds of a lead on the It. Then the doughty little Gloucester boat sailed in for battle and caught and passed the Autowin, and had a good lead on her when she was forced to stop her engine, and the Autowin closed up on her again. The It had 12 seconds of a lead at the end of the third round. Her engineer worked hard to keep his machinery going steady. The skipper of the It evidently was watching his machinist, for he steered wide of his course, and the Autowin passed him into first place. The Naughty Girl was out of it after the first round. The Autowin won by 1m. 27s. over the It.

The owner of the It lodged a protest against the other boats for making repairs and taking on gasoline prior to the start of the Gay cup race. The protest will be considered by the committee.

PRISONER INSANE

Protests His Innocence With Violence

BOSTON, July 12.—An unfortunate young Lithuanian, Tony Monkas, 21 years of age, who was sentenced to serve four months in the East Cambridge house of correction, has become insane from brooding over his confinement on a charge of which he still protests his innocence.

Tony was arrested on the charge of stealing a gold watch and $38 in money from a friend named John Klebert. They had been acquainted in the old country, and though Tony was of a roving disposition and seldom kept a job for any length of time, Klebert, who is older than Monkas, helped him on many occasions when the latter was out of work, and although the other Poles in the colony on Washington street, Cambridge, assured Klebert that he would never be repaid, yet whenever Monkas found work, the first thing he did was to pay up his debts. He did not owe Klebert anything on Nov. 4 last, the night on which Monkas called on his friend at 42 Washington street. Monkas came to Cambridge to get work, but was not successful at that time.

According to Klebert's story as told in court, Monkas was in his room on the night in question, while he stepped out to another room in the same house. He was gone about 10 minutes and it was said that in that time Monkas had the opportunity to take the money and watch which were in a trunk. This trunk he had opened to get some writing paper. Monkas went away, but called the next night. Klebert did not discover the loss until Thursday noon, though according to his story the watch and money were taken Tuesday night. He had no occasion to go to his trunk until Thursday, when he opened it for the purpose of taking out some money. It was then that he discovered his loss.

During the trial he protested his innocence violently and was very despondent when convicted.

PLEASANT LAWN PARTY AT PELHAM LAST NIGHT.

A lawn party that came about in a rather novel way was held on the premises of A. D. Greeley at Pelham, last evening. About nine weeks ago the young people of the Pelham Congregational church formed two divisions and it was agreed that the members of each division would endeavor by personal invitation, to draw into the meetings of the Christian Endeavor society as many new people as possible; and that the side having the least success would tender a party, or entertainment to the winning side. The divisions were led by the pastor, Rev. J. L. Hoyle, and Mrs. Greeley. On the eighth Sunday, Mrs. Greeley's side counted 274 new recruits, while Mr. Hoyle had 273. On the final Sunday, however, Mr. Hoyle brought in 53, while the other side counted but 46 additions. The Greeley forces were "stuck" for the lawn party and they tendered a brilliant one.

PALMA TROPHY

WILL BE RETAINED BY ENGLAND.

RISLEY, Eng., July 12—The council of the National rifle association met here this afternoon and decided that last year's contest for the Palma trophy should be considered abortive and that the trophy shall be retained by England, as custodian until another match is arranged.

GIRL'S LOVER

IS STILL HELD UNDER POLICE SURVEILLANCE.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 12—Coroner Kleindinst commenced an inquest today in the case of Cora B. Hart, whose dead body was found Sunday evening in the cellar of the J. W. Hallauer and Sons packing plant in Webster, 10 miles from this city. The only new development is the finding of the girl's glasses in the grass about 50 feet from the packing house and the police believe that it was in this spot that the girl was murdered. E. R. Smith, the girl's lover is still under police surveillance. District attorney Warren and Sheriff Bayley of Monroe county are conducting the investigation.

PHILIPPINE BONDS

MAY BE OFFERED FOR SALE AGAIN.

WASHINGTON, July 12—On September 1 next, $7,000,000 short term Philippine bonds will become due and it is the present intention of the war department to resell them although the Philippine government has not yet formally directed such a course.

The insular government could easily take up these bonds which if they fall due come out of funds in Philippine treasury, but it is deemed wise not to reduce the reserve fund to that extent. It is probable that the proposal for the resale of the bonds will be issued in the course of a week of two and bids will be opened about August 17 next.

MILLS CLOSED.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12—The Nottingham Cotton Mills here owned by R. H. and R. Knight, are closed for a fortnight for repairs. The Knight mills at Hobronville and Dodgeville Mass. have shut down for a week.

OSTEOPATHIC ASSOCIATION.

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—The second session of the American osteopathic association convention was held today in the Missouri state pavilion at the World's Fair. An address was made by President Chas. Hazzard of New York and several papers were read and discussed. Clinics were conducted by Carl McConnell of Chicago and Guy C. Loudon of Burlington, Vt.

TWO MURDERED

Bodies of Men Found in Junk Shop

NEW YORK, July 12—The bodies of Geo. F. Abbott and Wm. Van Holzer were found today in a Brooklyn junk shop which had apparently been set on fire after the men were killed. Both men had been shot and their skulls were fractured. Two men have been detained as possible witnesses, but there is said to be no clue to the murderer.

A TOTAL LOSS

STEAMER CHALMETTE STRUCK A SNAG.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 12.—Advices received today by the agents of the steamer Chalmette which struck a snag below Natchez last night say the boat and her cargo will prove a total loss. The steamer was bound to St. Louis with a cargo valued at $30,000 and with about forty New Orleans passengers enroute to the exposition. The Chalmette was valued at $50,000. No lives were lost.

CONFLICTING CLAIMS

STRIKERS AND EMPLOYERS DO NOT AGREE.

SYDNEY, C. B., July 12.—Conflicting claims are made by the interests concerned in the strike at the Dominion Iron and Steel company's works. The company's officials assert that the beginning of the end of the strike has arrived and that several hundred men went to work today. The company is making preparations to start the open furnaces. The union officials state that of the men who went into the plant only 40 are skilled workmen. They say that the coal miners are in perfect accord with the steel employes in their struggle and that the former will strike if the Dominion Coal company is called upon to supply fuel to the steel furnaces. The union men deny that the fight will be abandoned.

A party of soldiers arrived today from Quebec to relieve the militia on duty here. Order prevails throughout the city.

BARRACKS BURNED

SUPPLIES AND AMMUNITION WERE DESTROYED.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 12.—Fire today destroyed the Northwest mounted police barracks at Lethbridge. Large quantities of supplies and ammunition were also destroyed. The loss is not known.

MORE DEPORTED

ITALIANS AND AUSTRIANS SENT AWAY.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., July 12.—Deportation continues to be made by the military authorities. Eleven Italians and Austrians, arrested soon after their arrival at Victor, were sent away on the next train. State Boiler Inspector Taylor was arrested when coming into the district over the short lines railway but was released after he was brought to the mine owners' association and had explained his official business.

"ANDY" DONOHOE

SAYS THAT WILCOX HOODOOED HIS PRIZE TACKLE.

Three of the most disappointed fishermen in Lowell today are Webster Wilcox, George Taylor and Daniel Whittaker. A few days ago they journeyed to one of the ponds in a surrounding town and spent the entire day on the water and the result of their catch was 24 horn pouts. Before they started out they had boasted of a catch of perch that would surpass anything ever landed by amateur fishermen. It was known to them that Andy Donohoe possessed a magic fish line and tackle that no denizen of the deep could escape provided it was handled by one competent in his line. Wilcox borrowed the tackle but kept the fact secret from his companions. When the count was made and the total showed twenty four horn pouts, only one was credited to the handler of the magic tackle. It was the first time the Donohoe magnet failed to work and now "Andy" fears that Wilcox hoodooed the line and pole.

WAS A BRAKEMAN

How Ex-Senator Davis Rose to Wealth

IS RELATED TO ELKINS AND GORMAN

Was Inactive in Politics for Some Time

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Henry Gassaway Davis, whom the democrats have nominated as their candidate for vice-president, is no spring chicken. Thirty-three years ago he was a conspicuous United States senator and was then a man who had left his youth behind him.

Twenty-five years ago he was chairman of the senate committee on appropriations and was the discoverer of the historic fact that the republican party, after its long lease of uninterrupted power following the Civil war, had looted the treasury to the extent of two cents.

Mr. Davis was the chairman of a special committee to whom the books were turned over for the purpose of examining them under the spur of the campaign cry that republican jobbery had long run riot and after the most exhaustive investigation a report was made to the effect that the books showed the treasury to be just two cents short. Whether the people ever received those two cents back is not a matter of record.

Mr. Davis early in life was a brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and it is a tradition of the senate, of which he was for twelve years a member, that one day, under the soporific influence of a four-hour speech by a venerable republican senator, Mr. Davis fell into a profound slumber at his desk.

He had reached that point where he was emitting high nasal notes, when Senator Allen G. Thurman, "the old Roman," arising to reply to the republican orator, blew two blasts upon his famous red bandanna.

Jumping to his feet, Davis grasped the top of his desk and attempted to twist it off. He thought he was on one of the sharp grades of the West Virginia mountains, and that the engineer was whistling for "down brakes."

Mr. Davis will be 81 years old just after the fall elections, having been born in Woodstock, Md., Nov. 10, 1823. Like Senator Allison of Iowa and other statesmen who have taken care of themselves during their long career in public life, Mr. Davis does not look his years. Like Mr. Allison, also, he is still in possession of his full mental and bodily faculties, and if he should preserve his health for the next four years would be quite capable of performing all the duties of a vice-president, or even of president if a turn of fate should put him into the place of Theodore Roosevelt.

The West Virginian is a man 6 feet tall, straight as an Indian, and rugged in face and figure. He must have been homely in his youth, for his features are heavy, with no softening lines, except that in late years his close-cropped beard and hair, as thick now as twenty-five years ago, have turned white and toned him down somewhat. Mr. Davis wears no mustache. In recent years he has been inclined to dress in fashionable attire and has all the air of a modern captain of industry.

Mr. Davis is a very rich man, owning a great deal of property of various kinds, chiefly in West Virginia. It has been highly productive in the way of coal, oil, timber, etc. Senator Gorman of Maryland, John R. McLean of Ohio and Stephen B. Elkins are all business associates of Mr. Davis, and Mr. Elkins, moreover, has the honor of being his son-in-law. Mr. Gorman is also a relative. Their mothers were sisters.

It is the popular belief that much of the wealth which Mr. Gorman is supposed to possess was made through his long years of business association with what is known as the "Davis-Elkins-McLean-Gorman syndicate," whatever that is.

These men have done a great deal of railroad building in one way or another, chiefly for the purpose of developing their properties in West Virginia, and they have an office in Washington. It is located in John R. McLean's building at the corner of Vermont avenue and H street, where Mr. Davis spends much of his time.

He and Mr. Elkins both divide their time largely between New York and Washington, going to West Virginia only occasionally, except in the summer, when they pass several months on the beautiful estates they have built up.

Politicians in Washington had almost forgotten Mr. Davis as a public man when recently he was selected to head the West Virginia delegation to St. Louis. At the convention where delegates were chosen he received a striking ovation which recalled him to the public mind, but none of the political wiseacres dreamed that the old gentleman was to be resurrected to such an extent as to put him on the presidential ticket.

At that West Virginia convention there was a Davis furore, and he was hailed as the "war horse." He made a hit in striking the keynote for the West Virginia democrats by denouncing the republican party as being a black man's party. He made a speech, described by the local historians as "rousing," in which he charged that the negro had dominated the republican party ever since he was freed by Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Davis also went back a quarter of a century and raised his voice again against those robbers who, he said, were looting the treasury. Again he demanded to look at the books, thinking, no doubt, that this time it would be found that more than two cents were missing.

He attacked the republicans for refusing to have an investigation of the postoffice department, and laid at the door of the republican party the blame for the gigantic land frauds, which had been going on in the west. He demanded that power should be given into the hands of the democratic party so that somebody could be assigned to hunt down the grafters of the Postoffice department and the Land Office, and predicted that he would not have to call in vain.

Mr. Davis was a farmer before he became a brakeman, and is a farmer still, as well as a railroad builder, banker, capitalist and statesman. His father died when he was a mere youth and he worked on a farm until he was 18, when he began twisting brakes on the railroad.

It has been said that Mr. Davis got his fine taste of politics from conversations with Henry Clay, whom he used to meet frequently on the long-drawn-out trips on Mr. Davis' train between Washington and Kentucky.

Mr. Davis was a Union man during the war, although he did not enter the service, and after peace was declared he became a candidate for the legislature on the republican ticket. He was defeated, and in 1866 was elected to the lower house of the West Virginia legislature as a Union Conservative.

Two years later he was chosen United States senator as a democrat. At the expiration of his second term in the United States senate, in 1883, he declined a re-election, as he did not feel justified in longer neglecting his vast private business.

Although it seems to be forgotten now, Mr. Davis was a candidate for vice-president in 1884, when Cleveland was first nominated. He did not want the place, and therefore threw his strength to Thomas A. Hendricks of Indiana. This West Virginia democrat has been a delegate to seven national conventions.

In addition to his prominence as chairman of the committee on appropriations, Mr. Davis' most important work in the senate was in behalf of the movement for bringing the republics of North and South America together, which finally resulted in the establishment of the Bureau of American Republics. He was a delegate to the second international conference at the City of Mexico two years ago.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

UNDER AUSPICES OF SPANISH WAR VETERANS.

A largely attended meeting of the General Adelbert Ames command of the Spanish War Veterans was held last evening in the Memorial hall, Commander M. H. Harrington presiding. The command voted to be represented at the next national convention of the "Vets" to be holden in September.

A committee was appointed to investigate any indigent cases that may be found among any persons who served in the Spanish-American war, and if needy cases are found a report must be made by the aforesaid committee to the command for prompt action.

Following the business meeting there was an ice cream social by the command to the members of the Edith Prescott Wolcott Ladies' Auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans.

After partaking of cake and ice cream a pleasant hour was enjoyed in listening to musical and literary program, in which participated the Highland male quartet, composed of James Greig, first tenor; George Sturtevant, second tenor; F. W. S. Daly, first basso; John Muir, second basso. The vocal selections were "The Owl and Pussy Cat," "The Artillerist's Oath," and "Nellie Gray". Others who took part were Walter Chase in his original topical song, "School Street Echoes," which made a decided hit with the ladies present. There were also vocal selections by Miss Annie Maguire, Miss Alice E. Goodwin, Miss Agnes Meehan and Mrs. Blanche Jelly. Mrs. Norah Dubuque's original song met with much favor, "Liquid Ice Cream Through the Ceiling Dropping." Miss Lillian Goodwin acted as accompanist.

During the evening Mr. Thomas Dolan, who was a first-class machinist on the flagship Olympia, commanded by Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila, gave a graphic description of the scenes and incidents of that memorable encounter. This meeting and social proved one of the most enjoyable and successful held by General Ames command since its inception as an organization.

SMUGGLING SCHEME

GREAT FRAUD IS CHARGED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Behind the arrest of the Marconi operator and a hospital steward of the Kaiser Wilhelm II, charged with smuggling Sumatra tobacco, the customs officials have unearthed a new and ingenious method of smuggling diamonds, silk, tobacco and other merchandise which should pay a high duty. Frauds on the government of enormous proportions have undoubtedly been perpetrated by a combination of express men, steamship men, and possibly government officials. Its beneficiaries and possibly its promoters are believed to be merchants of this city.

Smuggling in trunks, carried on as passengers' baggage, upon which labels, indicating that they had been properly examined and passed by the inspectors, were surreptitiously pasted, is the method. Four arrests have been made so far, and a large force of special agents was at work nearly all night in seeking other participants.

How far the ramifications and extent of this new smuggling scheme have gone is not yet determined. The crash came last Saturday. It was premature and was practically forced upon the customs men, who were already aware of what was going on, and were working and waiting for bigger game.

CUNEO DYING

HIS ASSAILANT NARROWLY ESCAPED LYNCHING.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 12—Shot down yesterday by one of his own countrymen who had crept up behind him Andrew Cuneo, member of the firm Cuneo Bros., fruit dealers, Dearborn and South Water streets, one of the best known fruit importers in the United States, and said to be the richest Italian in Chicago, is dying at Passavant Hospital.

His assailant, Anthony Crescio, narrowly escaped lynching by an angry mob that closed around him after the shooting. In less than a minute after the shooting a rope had been procured by some one in the crowd with which to hang Crescio, but the police, in response to a riot call that had been sent in, appeared on the scene just in time to save Crescio's life.

The shooting occurred in front of Cuneo's store. Crescio crept up behind Mr. Cuneo and, drawing a revolver from his pocket, shot the merchant twice before any of the dozen bystanders could interfere.

Crescio, who is believed to be mentally unbalanced, was employed by his brother, John Crescio, who has a wholesale fruit store a few doors from the house of Cuneo Bros. Another brother of Mr. Cuneo's assailant married a sister of Mr. Cuneo, and after living with her for a few years, is said to have deserted her.

LADY GORDON MARRIED.

LONDON, July 12—Lady Magorie Gordon, the only daughter of the Earl of Aberdeen, formerly governor general of Canada was married in London this afternoon to John Sinclair, member of parliament for Forfarshire and a former captain of the Royal Irish lancers. The archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Davidson officiated. The church was filled with distinguished people. Mr. Sinclair was secretary to Lord Aberdeen in 1896-98.

RECORDS BROKEN

By Autos at the White Mountains

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N. H., July 12.—Five times the record was smashed in the hill-climbing automobile contest yesterday.

The competition was one of a series that had been arranged by the White Mountain Good Roads Improvement association, and was over a measured course of eight miles, with a grade varying from five to twenty degrees. The record for the distance, 48.59 was made by Otto Westman, three weeks ago. This time was cut down repeatedly yesterday, but F. E. Stanley of Newton, Mass., with a six horse power gasolene machine made the best run of the day. His time was 31 minutes 45 seconds. His nearest competitor was James L. Reese of New York, who negotiated the eight miles of climbing in a forty horse power car in 34 minutes 9 3-5 seconds.

The other record breakers were:

A. E. Morrison, Boston, 24 horse power, gasolene, 36.44 1-5.

Percy Pierce, Cleveland, 24 horse power gasolene, 44.31 4-5.

H. Ernest Rogers, Brookline, Mass., 24 horse power, gasolene 46.07 2-5.

AT THE LAKE

DOINGS ON AND ABOUT LAKE MASCUPPIC.

Canoeing is becoming a very popular fad on Lake Mascuppic and every week finds several new boats on the lake. The stillness of the water and the various nooks and shady places along the water's edge attract a good many people to this sheet of water.

All of the canoe clubs on the water front have their racks filled with boats while a large number of the little craft are stored at different places around Lakeview and Willow Dale and at the cottages between Willow Dale and Mountain Rock.

A new club house, patterned after the pagoda houses of China, is being built between the Iroquois club house and the house formerly occupied by that club. The new house will be occupied by canoeists from the Highlands who formerly occupied the Mascuppic boat house across the lake. The new house, while smaller than either of the club houses in that vicinity, will be a cosy affair and promises to be a neat and attractive addition to the other pretty houses along the water.

If canoeing is getting popular at the lake, so is bowling, at least it has taken an awful jump this year and the people who wish to secure alleys have to get around early or they have to wait, for night after night, and even during the afternoon, the alleys are packed with enthusiastic bowlers of both sexes. The ladies have taken hold of bowling this year and it is amusing to see some of them showing with pride the muscle in their right arm.

Manager Fox has made many changes at the alleys for the accommodation and convenience of the gentler sex and one of the popular changes was the doing away with the dusty blackboards which were used heretofore. Mr. Fox has tally sheets on all of the alleys and if the bowlers wish to take their scores home they can do so.

There is some talk of a six or eight-club tournament starting in the near future. The members of clubs which played on the city alleys in the winter spend a good portion of their time practicing at the Lakeview alleys.

The World's Fair Specialty Co. is at the theatre at Lakeview this week and the few performances which have been given this week have been largely attended.

The members of the Idle Hour camp are going to hold an invitation party next Friday evening at Willow Dale pavilion. The party is chiefly for the entertainment of the cottagers around Willow Dale, though a number of the friends of the members of the Idle Hour camp have been invited.

On Thursday afternoon of this week the Royal Arcanum picnic will be held at Willow Dale. This picnic is sure to draw a large crowd.

On the 23rd of this month the employes of the United Shoe Machinery Co. of Winchester will enjoy an outing at Mountain Rock grove. The company has chartered 15 special cars to carry the employes.

"Jack" Sullivan, the well known piano player at Canobie Lake park, is summering at one of the cottages in Willow Dale, and has to walk from the Collinsville school to the camp every night. A number of the cottagers are afraid that he will be kidnapped some night, though it is said that if he should disappear that there would be peace in the vicinity for a while.

George Teague is doing the cooking for the members of the Idle Hour cottage and since he started in he has lost 17 pounds. The members of the cottage claim that he would rather run the risk of starving than eat some of the dishes he prepares for the other boys ,but the boys are getting stout on the rations served out to them, which is a sufficient testimonial to George's skill as a culinary artist.

John Golden, the expert swimmer, occupies a cottage on the lake and has quite a class of pupils whom he is teaching to swim. They are making rapid progress under his direction.

John Saunders, the lightweight camper, was very fond of scrambled eggs until recently some of the campers scrambled eggs all over his clothing. He said that he wouldn't have cared if the eggs had been fresh, but he is beginning to think that the eggs were laid in Noah's ark.

It is whispered among the campers that the young lady who captures Peter Perreault, who is camping at the lake, will get a flad, for he is getting to be very handy about the house. He has a knack of washing dishes and housekeeping that makes many of the housekeepers at the Dale blush. A towel is not big enough for Peter to wipe the dishes with, he uses a table cloth.

Whenever you see Billy Crowley board a Lakeview car with seven or eight baskets, three or four boxes and his pockets bulged out with bundles, don't imagine that he is going to hold a picnic. It is only the lunch for one of the clubs at the Dale.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Benoit and Mr. J. G. Benoit have returned from a pleasant three weeks' trip to Montreal and other Canadian points.

BROWN-TAIL MOTH

ENGLISH SPARROWS EAT THEM AND GROW FAT.

Supt. Charles A. Whittet of Park commission wrote a letter to A. H. Kirkland of the Bowker Insecticide company, Boston, asking for a description of the insect known as the brown-tail moth, and received the following reply:

43 Chatham St., Boston, July 11, '04.

Mr. Chas. A. Whittet, 203 Central St., Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir:—Thanking you for yours of the 9th, would say that the insects you sent me are brown-tail moths. This is about the height of the flying season for these insects and as you have noticed they are strongly attracted to light. No doubt the electric lights of your city focus the attention of the moths which have developed in the outlying districts for many miles around. There is little that you can do at this time of the year economically to destroy these insects. The arc lamps will kill off a great many of them while toads and English sparrows will take care of many more. If your citizens are in the frame of mind where they want to "see something done," you might tack sheets of sticky fly-paper on the poles where the insects assemble in the greatest numbers. The most profitable use of your funds, however, against this insect can be made after the leaves have fallen, when the winter webs may be easily seen at the tips of twigs. Cutting off and burning those webs will protect your trees from harm another year.

I have asked our board of agriculture to send you a report fully describing this insect and remedies for combatting it. I am always glad to be of service to you.

Yours very truly,

BOWKER INSECTICIDE CO.

A. H. Kirkland.

DISASTROUS BLAZE

DID $125,000 DAMAGE AT COVINGTON, GA.

COVINGTON, Ga., July 12—Fire in Covington late Sunday night resulted in the destruction of property valued at $125,000 with $60,000 insurance. The fire started in the Star Building and the loss is divided among a number of firms.

The Covington Telephone exchange, the Covington Bottling works and the Western Union Telegraph office were also burned.

THROAT SLASHED

BODY OF UNKNOWN WOMAN FOUND IN ENTRY.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The dead body of an unknown woman, about 28 years old, was found in the entrance to a tenement house on East Twenty-ninth street early this morning. The jugular vein had been severed. The woman had evidently been choked before her throat was cut. A light gauze bandage, soaked with blood, covered the wound, which was still bleeding. Some of the skin had been torn off the cheek as if by finger nails.

PUT OUT FLAMES

Fr. McDermod's Coolness Averts Bad Accident

Owing to the presence of mind of Rev. Hugh M. McDermod, little Miss Molly Kane of Elm street narrowly escaped being severely burned at St. Peter's church, Sunday evening.

The accident occurred during a reception of children into the children of Mary sodality and the little girls wearing white veils and carrying lighted candles marched about the church and then proceeded to the altar. When near the altar a draught from the vestry door threw the flame on the candle carried by Miss Kane into her veil which hung about her shoulders and in an instant it was in flames, and it looked to those in the front of the church as though the entire line of girls would be enveloped in the flames.

Fr. McDermod who was at the further side of the church happened to glance over just in time to see the veil catch fire. He appreciated the situation in an instant and rushing up to the altar railing grasped the little girl in his arms and beat out the flames. It took only a minute to beat out the flame and the girl escaped without injury while Fr. McDermod sustained slight burns on his hands.

HELD IN $7,000

Ives Pleaded Guilty of Assault

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—Edward H. Ives, who was arrested after shooting Mrs. Julia F. C. Auty on the street yesterday, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon in the district court today and was held in $7000 bonds for sentence July 19, this action being taken to await the result of his victim's injuries. While Mrs. Auty's wound is considered very dangerous, her case is not entirely hopeless.

Ives' wound is of a superficial nature and he will probably be taken to the county jail to await sentence.

SHOT TRAMP DOG

Police Officer Despatched Him With One Shot

An innocent-looking little dog with sad eyes and an all-gone expression wandered into the police station this forenoon and this afternoon he was shot to death by a 32 calibre revolver in the hands of Officer James Holland. Mr. Holland didn't want the job, but it fell to his lot and his unerring aim closed the lid on all the troubles that the little dog ever knew.

Several of the officers refused to kill the dog. Officer Bumps gave as his excuse that he was too busy with commitment papers. Mr. Maguire, chief of the bureau of information, said that he couldn't hit a barn door. Officer Brown didn't have any revolver and besides he had just had dinner. Other officers made excuses, the majority of which were very weak, and finally Officer Holland was picked upon as the man to do the trick.

Lieut. Donaldson's sharpshooters were on the trail of thieves and housebreakers. If they had been at the station house the unenviable job of shooting the dog would have been done by a member of the sleuth department. All the members of the detective bureau are crack shots and they consider the shooting of dogs excellent practice.

Miss Vining had fed and watered the dog and was telling what a nice, kind little fellow he was when the sound of the pistol shot was heard and a few seconds later Mr. Holland marched into the operator's room, pale-faced and holding in his hand the smoking revolver.

"They'll call me cruel-hearted," he said to Mr. Maguire, "but I was selected to do the killing. I suppose they selected me because I am the best shot in the camp. The poor little fellow didn't murmur. Before shooting I asked him if he had anything to say and he shook his head."

Miss Vining allowed it was a cruel thing to do. "Why didn't they poison the poor little fellow?" she asked and no one answered. The board of health was notified and the little yellow and white dog was taken away.

They are unanimous in their refusal to accede to the demands of the men.

BROKE HIS HAND

MARTIN CANOLE HAS TOUGH LUCK.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—Martin Canole had the misfortune last night to break his hand in the second round of his bout with Willie Fitzgerald at the National A. C. The first round was exciting enough to please any one, but after the accident, which the spectators were not aware of until the bout was over, Canole acted entirely on the defensive.

The result was that the last rounds were tame. While Fitzgerald made no effort to take advantage of his opponent's condition he had the better of the settlo.

MR. BURKE RETURNS

Greatly Fatigued After the St. Louis' Convention

JOHN C. BURKE.

Was Not Favorably Impressed With the Manner in Which Convention Was Run — Mr. Bryan Was Strong in the Convention — The Spectators Were All With Parker

John C. Burke, delegate from this district to the democratic national convention, returned home last night from St. Louis probably more tired than he ever was before in his life and despite a good night's rest he still showed signs of fatigue when called upon by a reporter of The Sun at his office this morning. On the trip home the Massachusetts delegation was delayed by three railroad wrecks, necessitating slow traveling until after they had reached Buffalo, and hence they did not get back to Boston for several hours after schedule time.

Mr. Burke while loyally enthusiastic over the result of the convention's deliberations, though an Olney man throughout, could not enthuse over the manner in which the convention was conducted and will be one of the first to vote to exclude outsiders should he ever be sent on a similar errand. Speaking of his experiences, Mr. Burke said: "Notwithstanding the hardships through which I have passed during the week just closed, I feel honored at having been one of the delegation from Massachusetts for they of all others were a credit to their state, their party and themselves. While they were overwhelmingly outnumbered in the convention, they were still loyal, honorable and in every respect a most exemplary delegation.

The convention was a most remarkable one. There has never been another like it and perhaps it would be as well for the party were there no others like it in the future. There were 1000 delegates and an audience of between 15,000 and 18,000 people, and that great audience took a most active part in the entire proceedings. When the resolutions were read the scene resembled that of a howling mob in possession of the convention hall. It was an impossibility to hear a word that was being said and not more than 20 out of that great gathering, it would appear, heard the reading of the resolutions through. Yet immediately upon the conclusion of the reading of the resolutions, the previous question was moved and carried and the resolutions were voted on by many who did not know what they contained. The outsiders often interrupted a speaker so that few if any could hear what he was saying and he spoke amid a babel of voices. All one could see was the speaker gesticulating and moving his mouth while cheers and laughter drowned his speech. Two men had sufficient control of the convention to make themselves heard and they were Mr. Bryan and Mr. Littleton who nominated Parker. Mr. Littleton had the attention of the crowd because the crowd was all for Parker, but Mr. Bryan had them on his own personality, because he is certainly a wonderful man. Mr. Bryan was stronger in that convention than was ever dreamed of even by Mr. Bryan himself and even those who were bitterly opposed to him had to admire him for his indefatigable efforts in the interest of his cause. I don't believe he got six hours' sleep throughout the convention and he was fighting all the time. After going without sleep for 48 hours and without food for almost as long he stood up and made a most effective speech. If I may be permitted to criticize this wonderful man I can see that he has two weaknesses. In the first place he is prone to getting into trouble. He gets into debate at times when a little diplomacy will gain the desired end. Then he has a wonderful opinion of his own ideas though I must say that he thought no more of himself than that convention thought of him. Mr. Littleton's speech which I suppose you have read was a remarkable effort and anyone who has read it can imagine the stirring effect it had upon a friendly audience numbering several thousands.

The delaying of the balloting until everyone was near ready to drop with fatigue was a bad feature and perhaps was responsible in a measure for the fact that only one ballot was taken, a large number of the delegates taking advantage of the opportunity to change their votes and go over to Parker after the original roll call.

Mr. Parker's telegram of which undoubtedly you have read much in the past few days made him friends among those who were against him in the convention for all admired him for his courage and independence. Then the telegram was the cause of ironing out an omission that might have made some trouble later on, the omission to discuss the monetary situation in the platform. Judge Parker in his telegram announced himself as opposed to any change in the monetary conditons and the convention endorsed his views by a vote of over three to one. Thus there is no question as to how the party now stands on that matter and the delegates left St. Louis feeling that they had presented the strongest platform and had nominated the strongest candidate."

Mr. Burke was then asked his impressions of the St. Louis Exposition and he was not over enthusiastic over that, but as he explained the last evening that he visited the fair he went only for the ride and was really too exhausted to see anything. Compared with the expositons of Paris and Chicago he says the St. Louis Exposition is tame. "The whole place" said Mr. Burke "has an unfinished appearance. There are many beautiful buildings, the electrical display is magnificent and there is fun for all but it is not Chicago by any means." He also stated that the prices for board and rooms are extremely high, some of the delegates paying $10 for one room with a bed and two cots in it, while some of the visitors paid as high as $3 for breakfast.

Mr. Fairbanks will remain in New York until this evening, when he will return directly to Indianapolis. Mr. Cortelyou will stop in New York for several days to make the arrangements for the campaign.

Before the party left Sagamore Hill today, the president, Senator Fairbanks and Chairman Cortelyou were photographed. The conference at Sagamore Hill continued until an early hour this morning but no information concerning it was obtainable.

Judge William Hunt, who until July 1 was governor of Porto Rico, arrived here today. He came to pay his respects to the president and to discuss Porto Rican affairs with him.

GOING TOO FAST

Autoist Fined For Exceeding Billerica's Speed Limit

Henry B. Morse of Newtonville, in police court today, pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with exceeding the automobile speed limit in Billerica on Sunday last, and was fined $10. Morse said he did not know that he was exceeding the speed limit. He said it was rather difficult for the automobilist to tell how fast he is speeding and he pleaded guilty, he said, on the word of Officer Conway. No such qualification, however, was allowed by by the court and Mr. Morse pleaded guilty on his own responsibility, without any reference to the officer's claim.

Officer Conway found two victims Sunday afternoon. The second one was William J. Rooney of Boston and he will appear in police court Thursday morning, at least he has been summoned to appear. He was in charge of a motor car owned by H. S. Allen of Manchester, N. H. Rooney would have escaped the vigilance of Officer Conway and his assistants but for the fact that his machine broke down. He allowed it was pretty "bum" luck. Rooney made the eighth of a mile in seventeen seconds and Officer Conway said that before Rooney struck the speed test, the measured distance, his machine was making about fifty miles an hour, and people in Billerica allow "that's going some."

FOR ILLEGAL KEEPING.

Pierre Rougeois and Wilfred L. L'Esperance pleaded guilty to complaints charging them with illegally keeping and exposing for sale intoxicating liquors. They were fined $100 each for illegal keeping and the sale complaints were placed on file with affidavits.

The case of Sumner W. Williams and William Looby, charged with illegally keeping liquor, came up on a continuance and was continued again, this time to July 19.

Anthony Uzdan, charged with illegally keeping liquor, was ordered in $300 for his appearance before the court on Friday morning.

THE DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Judge Hadley has remarked several times on the increase of drunken offenders, especially women, during the last few weeks. His honor would favor a drive against the placers that cater to the women who go 'round to the little side door.

Bernard Jacobson, a one-armed man, was charged with drunkenness and denied the allegation. Bernard's wife said that her husband was very cross, while under the influence of liquor, but she was willing to excuse him this time. The court, however, after hearing what the arresting officer had to say, decided that a trip to the workhouse would do Bernard all the good in the world, and Bernard, pleading and penitent, was booked to join Dr. Doulan's force at the city farm. Bernard wanted to ride in Mr. Slattery's wagon but the court couldn't see it.

Winifred Rock will inhale the fresh air at the workhouse, barring accident, for the next three months.

Bridget Wilson will keep her company, and will have another month to spend after Winifred is given her release.

Catherine McDermott will be there to say "good night" and "good morning" for one month only.

John E. Corcoran will sojourn at the state farm until the second week in October. Robert Hendry was sentenced to the workhouse and was then placed on probation. Margaret Kelley and Thomas A. Armour were fined $6 each. Seven first offenders were fined $2 each and four were released.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Samuel and Sarah Miller of Billerica were charged with assault and battery and had their case continued one month.

Marble Workers Asked for More Pay

RUTLAND, Vt., July 12.—About 350 members of the Marble Workers' union in Rutland, West Rutland, Proctor and Fowler struck here today because of the refusal of the employers to grant their demands. Temple Brothers and the Columbian Marble Quarrying company's yards here were shut down as soon as the men struck, but the big works of the Vermont Marble company at Proctor and elsewhere are still in operation. The Vermont Marble company is controlled by the Proctor family, of which United States Senator Redfield Proctor of Vermont is the head. In all there are about 4500 hands on the pay rolls of the concerns named and at the Rutland Florence company works at Fowler, but many of them are not union men and did not strike.

The union asks for a nine-hour day, weekly payments, the abolition of piece work, and the adoption of the union scale as paid in New York state.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE.

The World's Fair Specialty Co. opened up a week's engagement at the Lakeview theatre yesterday and good sized and appreciative audiences witnessed the initial performances.

The performance opened with Lew DeWitt, a juggler, who manipulates many different things, and receives much applause. James W. Bingham, the expert ventriloquist, who is well known to the theatre going people of this city, has his walking and talking figures and he received much applause at both performances yesterday.

"Shorty" and Lillian DeWitt present an unusually funny comedy spetch. "Shorty" who stands less than four feet in his stocking feet does a number of clever stunts and Lillian sings and dances. Theodore and Camille LaJess are novelty acrialists of the first class and present 15 minutes of real enjoyment for those who appreciate this particular kind of work. The male member of the duo, is a contortionist and bends and twists himself up in all kinds of knots.

The closing number, perhaps the most appreciated feature, consists of illustrated songs by Howard and Anderson. Performances will be given afternoon and evening for the remainder of the week.

MERRITT ENGAGED

To Manage the Nashua Base Ball Team

Dr. Collins Acts Promptly on The Sun's Suggestion and Secures the Lowell Catcher—The Nashua Players and Fans Gave Merritt a Warm Welcome Last Night

All one could hear in Nashua last night was: "I hope they hire Merritt to run the team."

Ever since The Sun made the suggestion a week ago that Merritt was the one man in all the New England league to take hold of the Nashua team, the Nashua fans have been rooting red hot for the popular Lowell catcher.

The Sun's suggestion was republished by the Nashua and Manchester papers the day following and one of the first to see it and appreciate it was Dr. Collins himself.

With none was the suggestion more welcome than the Nashua players themselves and all agreed that they could do something with Merritt at their head.

Last night after the game nearly all the members of the team were assembled down town and were discussing the situation with a large party of fans when along came Merritt, having dropped off the train from Manchester on his way home. He was immediately surrounded by an admiring group who wanted to know the news.

"Well, I guess I'll be with you, boys," said Billy with a smile, whereupon there was a general handshake all around.

The following despatch to a Boston paper this morning explains the latest action of the Nashua baseball association as follows:

Billy Merritt, formerly catcher for the Lowell baseball team, and one of the best known players in the New England league, closed a deal tonight whereby he will assume the management of the Nashua baseball team. Dr. C. S. Collins has been after Merritt for some time, and has had several conferences with Manager Smith of the Manchester team, with which Merritt has been playing.

Merritt was not under contract with Manchester and therefore is in no way bound to Smith. Merritt has already accepted Nashua's terms and will probably appear in uniform Wednesday. Merritt has been playing first base for Manchester.

Hollis and Hickey received their release this evening, and a staff of five pitchers is left. Labelle is now playing in right field, Bender, the Philadelphia Athletics' Indian pitcher, has been secured by the Nashua association, and tonight arrangements for his joining the team were made.

Walter King, a catcher, who has been playing independent ball in Pennsylvania, will be tried out in Manchester tomorrow. Business Manager G. F. Atkin has been dropped, and W. H. Tolles has replaced him.

THE GOLD PLANK.

The gold men will criticize the democratic platform on account of the absence of the gold plank; but its absence indicates that the party considers the question settled. It is not usual to insert anything in the platform on which the party gives its acquiescence to republican policy. Judge Parker's firm stand for the gold standard will afford all the assurance the country needs on the money question.

THE CROP OF INFANT DEATHS.

After the sharp thunderstorm of two weeks ago Saturday, we noted the fact that it had changed the greater part of the milk throughout the city; as a result we predicted that the storm would be followed by a crop of deaths from cholera infantum within a couple of weeks or longer. In the list of deaths for last week, published Saturday, there are recorded nine deaths of infants from cholera infantum.

It is not any wonder that some of the children die. The wonder is that some of them live as long, considering the treatment they get. The parents in a great many cases are to blame. They do not wilfully kill the children but they exercise such criminal ignorance that many of them it seems might be held on a charge of murder.

The washing of a baby's bottle is a simple thing but there are hundreds of mothers in this city who have this to do and never did it right even by accident. There are some who put a small milk can out for their daily milk supply. This can is of the usual form with shoulders, neck soldered on, and stopper. It is impossible to tell when it is clean. The probability is that is has never been clean since first used. A quart or two-quart bottle would serve the purpose as well and could be easily kept clean.

Very few realize the possibilities for evil in a baby's stomach of a few germs from an unclean milk can, a nursing bottle or the nipple attached. In hot weather absolute cleanliness is essential and the food given young children must be absolutely fresh and pure in order to be safe. Even then it must be given in moderation and properly prepared. One mistake in hot weather, one dose of changed milk is sufficient to bring on cholera infantum which only the most prompt and skillful treatment can check.

JUDGE PARKER'S HONESTY AND COURAGE.

The telegram of Judge Parker to the democratic convention notifying the delegates of his attitude on the money question and asking that another candidate might be selected if his position was not acceptable to the convention, shows that he is a man who will not yield his personal convictions even for the honors of office. This fact has strengthened him as a candidate with the people. Before he announced his adherence to the gold standard, his attitude was a mystery.

Ex-Senator Hill said that all he knew about Judge Parker's views on public questions was that he would accept any platform the democratic convention saw fit to adopt. That very statement, if true, would prove him to be a man without convictions of his own upon public questions. The promptness with which he notified the convention of his stand on the money question proves the contrary; it proves that he has very decided convictions and that he is ready to make great sacrifices to maintain them. He is not willing to yield an iota of his convictions even to secure the nomination. That has been demonstrated by his telegram to the convention and it has given him a very high place in the estimation of the American people as there is nothing they admire more than a man's unbending devotion to what he believes to be right—especially when his views accord with those of the majority on the subjects under discussion.

In notifying the convention as he did Judge Parker proved his honesty and his courage—just what the American people want.

MR. BRYAN'S CONVENTION SPEECH.

It seems to be very generally agreed that William Jennings Bryan's speech in seconding the nomination of Senator Cockrell was the best made before the convention. Bryan mentioned Hearst of New York, Wall of Wisconsin, Gray of Pennsylvania, saying that if the convention wanted any of these men the Nebraska delegates would stand by him. He went even farther and said:

"If you prefer an eastern man and find some one who will give both elements of the party something to believe in, something to trust in, something to hope for, we are willing to join you with him."

In closing his speech he said:

"My friends, I believe that the great issue in this country today is plutocracy vs. democracy. You have said that I had just one idea, the silver idea. Well, a while back they said I had only one, but then it was the tariff idea. There is an issue greater than the silver issue, the tariff issue, the trust issue. It is the issue between plutocracy and democracy; whether this is to be a government of the people, administered by officers chosen by the people, administered in behalf of the people. It is either this, or it is to be a rule of the moneyed element of the country for their own interest alone. The issue has been growing.

"I want you, Democrats here assembled, to help us meet this question. You tell me the Republican candidate stands for militarism. Yes, but he also stands for plutocracy. You tell me he delights in war. But there is another objection to him, and that is that he does not enforce the law against a big criminal as he does against a little criminal.

"I close with an appeal that I make from my heart to the hearts of those who hear me. "Give us a pilot who will guide the Democratic ship from militarism, the Scylla of militarism, without wrecking her upon a Charybdis of commercialism."

In his conduct all through the convention Mr. Bryan turned enemies into friends and at the close the convention revered him almost as much as in 1896 and in 1900 when he was looked upon as a man possessed of phenomenal gifts as an orator, a man of incorruptible honesty, and child-like simplicity. In spite of all the slurs and sneers levelled at him by the republican press Bryan stands today one of the ablest men and foremost democrats of the country.

TO ABOLISH THE CLASSICAL COURSE.

A member of the Fitchburg school board makes an appeal for the dropping of the classical course in the high school of that city in order that more attention may be given to the three R's. If the school board member knows what he is talking about the Fitchburg High school must be in a very backward condition. It should not be necessary to drop the classical course to attain efficiency in the essentials mentioned. If the primary and grammar schools do their duty to the pupils, the High school should have no trouble with the so-called three R's which are reading, writing and arithmetic. All should be taught to perfection in the grammar grades so that the pupils could advance to something higher on entering the High school. To drop the classical course would be to raise a barrier to the higher education that would necessitate the pupils who are intended for college leaving the city for a preparatory course. It is true that the majority of the pupils never enter college. Even so, the minority has a right to the instruction so long as they demand it. To be sure it is not good policy for a boy who will not finish his High school course to spend much time at Latin and Greek as he will never go far enough to derive any benefit from the study. The classics assist in the study of English and nothing is of much more importance or benefit to any student than perfection in writing and speaking English and a good training in mathematics so valuable in developing the reasoning powers and inuring to mathematical accuracy in whatever is undertaken.

SEEN AND HEARD

A size 6 glove today is larger than a size 6 glove five years ago, and this applies to all the sizes made. The explanation is that ladies' hands have grown larger than they used to be, through their practice of cycling, golfing, hockey, etc., but they do not like to admit it, so the glovemakers meet the new conditions and yet avoid hurting the vanity of their customers.

A feature of style said to have been introduced by the king is to have the creases in the trousers at the side and leg seam instead of back and front. Already a few West End dandies have adopted this plan, but as the effect of this innovation is to produce a thicker appearance to the leg, we do not anticipate any general adoption of this fashion.

A Frenchman who passed through New York recently on his way to St. Louis, was much impressed by one sight he witnessed here. He made a tour of the principal restaurants and hotels to satisfy himself of the gastronomic progress of New York.

"What seemed most curious to me," he said afterward, "was the apparent lack of confidence that New Yorkers have in their cooks. The friends with whom I went to the restaurants here, without waiting to taste the food that had been put on the table, seized the salt and pepper and began to shake it violently into whatever they happened to be eating.

"Now, the chefs who had prepared the dishes presumably received large salaries for cooking the dishes properly. But I never saw anybody wait to find out whether they were well seasoned. The salt and pepper were put in use before anybody had tested the skill of the chef. And the amount of salt and pepper that went into the dishes often was enough to conceal all trace of really good cooking."

Following are a few items from the genuine blue laws of the early colonial times:

The court, takeing into consideration the greate, superfluous and unnecessary expenses occasioned by reason of some newe and immodest fashions, as also the ordinary wearing of silver, golde and silke laces, girdles, hatbands etc., hath therefore ordered that noe person, either man or women, shall hereafter make or buy any apparell, either woollen, silke or lynnen, with any lace on it, silver, golde, silke or thread, under the penalty of the forfeiture of such cloathes.

DOUBLE WEDDING

PRETTY EVENT IN FRENCH SOCIAL CIRCLES YESTERDAY.

A double wedding took place yesterday morning when Misses Josephine and Angeline Crepeau were married to two young men, well known in French social circles. Miss Josephine became the wife of Mr. Thomas J. Goyette and Miss Angeline the wife of Mr. Eugene Labrie. The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 5.30 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church. It was the earliest hour that a ceremony has ever been solemnized at that church. The young brides are the daughters of Mrs. Emmanuel Crepeau, 532 Moody street. First to enter the church was Mr. Goyette with his witness, Mrs. Jean Ouellette, and then Mr. Labrie, with his brother, Mr. Ernest Labrie, as his witness.

The brides followed at some distance behind, Miss Josephine Crepeau being attended by her brother-in-law, Aime Rheault, and Miss Angeline Crepeau, by her brother, Mr. Leon Crepeau. The first bride-to-be wore a very elegant and becoming traveling gown of fawn cloth, with a hat of rough yellow straw. Miss Angeline wore a very pretty gown of ecru nun's veiling, and a white flower hat.

Rev. Fr. Campeau, O. M. I., director of St. Jean Baptiste's church, performed the double ceremony, and officiated at the mass which followed.

After the ceremony the wedding party and the immediate relatives went to the home of the brides' mother in Moody street, where refreshments were served awaiting the departure of both young couples on an early train. Here another surprise awaited their friends. The train on which they had said they were to leave was at 7.01 o'clock, and accordingly, all of the friends present at the church marched to the Middlesex street station for that hour, each carrying a generous supply of rice. When they got there, however, the birds had flown by the 6.45 train to Boston.

Both young couples, after having breakfast at the Touraine, Boston, left on an early train for an extended trip, to include New York, Albany, Washingtonville, N. Y., and a trip up the Hudson river. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Goyette will reside at 72 Bartlett street, and Mr. and Mrs. Labrie will reside at 41 Bowers street.

ELOPERS CHASED

Husband's Search Carried Him Across the Ocean

BOSTON, July 12—After chasing his erring wife, who had eloped with another man, through Germany from Berlin to Zurich, Switzerland, thence back again to Berlin and then starting out from Liverpool, where he first got on the right track of the missing couple, taking the ocean flyer Campania for New York, and then again from there, a five-hour train for Boston, Oscar Tuetzer, a well known suspender manufacturer and belt maker of Berlin, Germ, ran down his wife, Frieda, and her companion, Paul C. Blass, with whom she had decamped, and found them among the detained immigrants housed in Commissioner George B. Billings' detention station at Long wharf, this city.

Mrs. Tuetzer, accompanied by Blass, had taken passage as Oscar Tuetzer and wife, on the steamer Republic, which arrived here July 4. When Tuetzer arrived at Liverpool and learned that his wife and Blass had registered in a hotel as man and wife, under his, own name, he immediately went to all the offices of the steamship lines to ascertain whether they had taken passage for this country. In looking through the long lists, he finally found that the eloping couple had taken passage on the Republic for Boston, as Oscar Tuetzer and wife, in the steerage.

Tuetzer lost no time in cabling to Commissioner Billings the facts of the elopement, and asked that they be detained until he arrived. He took passage on the Campania, arrived in New York Saturday morning and immediately boarded the first train for this city, arriving here late in the afternoon. He got to the detention station about 5 o'clock and introduced himself to the inspector in charge.

After being repeatedly told that his wish to speak to his wife would not be granted then, but that he would be given a hearing on the following morning, he left, a very disappointed and heart-broken man, shedding tears, and was very depressed. He was told to call at 10 o'clock Sunday and at that time a board was present and his case was heard.

Tuetzer does not speak a word of English, and was interrogated through an interpreter. The case was gone through most thoroughly, and he related in a graphic manner how, on the 17th of June, when he left his home early in the morning for his place of business, he was told by his wife and Blass that a business associate would call on him during the day, and that he should remain in the factory until he came.

During that time Blass and Mrs. Tuetzer were preparing for their quick departure, and, after removing all of the money, amounting to something like 800 marks from the strong box belonging to Tuetzer, the couple made off for other lands. But before leaving Berlin Mrs. Tuetzer called at the factory and asked her husband if he had any money, as she wanted to take a short trip into the country and take in the horse racing that was going on that day. This was the last that the husband saw of his wife until they met face to face in the board room Sunday morning.

Their meeting was an intensely dramatic scene. Mrs. Tuetzer had absolutely no idea that her husband was coming to this country, and she dreamt that she was free of him forever. But when she was brought into the board room, entirely ignorant of the reason, and saw her husband standing before her, she for a moment acted as if dazed. Then, grasping a chair, she stood erect, looking him straight in the face, and said: "What do you want here? Why did you follow me? I left you and want no more of you."

Her tone teemed with hatred and sarcasm, while he, with pleading tone and tears streaming down his cheeks, implored her to be reasonable and listen to him.

CHEATED HIM.

At first she treated him with utmost contempt; her answers were curt and cutting; she would not allow him to touch her, but drew away from him whenever he came near her. She declined to listen to any of his overtures and when he asked her to return to Berlin and start life all over again, saying that he was willing to forgive and forget her follies, she declined, and added that she had left him for good cause; that he had been abusive to her for many years, ever in fact, since they had been married, and that she left him to come to this country and would forget him and endeavor to earn her own living. She would not have any further dealings with him. She also declared that if he remained in this country she would go elsewhere but that to live with him was entirely out of the question.

During the hearing it transpired that the suspender business which had been reorganized recently, was controlled by a firm of four persons and that Oscar Tuetzer and his wife owned one-third interest which was in her name. Without his knowledge, a day previous to her departure, she transferred that one-third interest to the other two partners, thus depriving him of his share of the business. So Tuetzer not only lost his wife but also his business.

When he asked her for an explanation regarding her doings she was evasive in her answers and he could get no satisfaction from her. Although it was admitted by her, as well as by Blass, that their relations were intimate, not only since they left Berlin but even previous to that time, it was not their intention to get married here, even if she could secure a divorce.

Yesterday morning Tuetzer and Blass met for the first time since the elopement and the scene was a stormy one. The angered and injured husband accused Blass of all sorts of trangressions, and but for the presence of the inspectors at the interview Blass, who is a very youthful appearing man, rather undersized and with three fingers missing from his left hand, would have received severe treatment from the deserted and wronged Tuetzer.

WIFE CHANGES MIND.

Yesterday afternoon another hearing was given in the case, at which all three parties concerned were present. Mrs. Tuetzer was given another opportunity to declare herself as to the stand she was willing to take regarding her husband, and, when questioned, stated that she had changed her mind and was willing to return to him on condition that he would change his attitude toward her. If he would promise that in the future he would not ill treat her, that he was willing to give her all the comforts to which she was accustomed, for the sake of their 5-year-old daughter, who is a cripple, her family and their good name, she would cast her lot with him again—not in Germany, but here in America.

She appeared, nevertheless, as indifferent and answered the question of the board so haughtily that it appeared that her love and regard for her husband were lost; so the board decided that she should be debarred from landing, and she will be deported on the steamer Cymric, which sails Thursday.

Tuetzer was heart broken when he was informed of the board's decision, and implored Commissioner Billings to set it aside, and allow his erring wife to come to him. His pleadings were not considered, and the verdict remained unchanged. Mrs. Tuetzer will be sent back to Liverpool on the ground that she is likely to become a public charge and on account of her desertion.

The case of Blass was also considered, and the board rendered a verdict that he, too, should be deported as likely to become a public charge and because of his being deformed. It is quite likely that Tuetzer will accompany his wife back, as he has been regularly landed, and the couple can begin life over on the other side, while Blass will have to remain here until the next steamer sails, so that the two men shall not come together. If they should meet, serious trouble would occur, and this Commissioner Billings will prevent.

This is one of the most extraordinary cases that has come before the local inspectors of immigration, and is the first case in which a husband has followed his wife thousands of miles and has been willing to take her back and forgive, and then has been turned down by her.

SENATOR CLARK

WAS MARRIED IN PARIS THREE YEARS AGO.

NEW YORK, July 12—Clark—LaChapelle—On May 25, 1901, at Marseilles, France, W. A. Clark to Anna E. LaChapelle, both of Butte, Mont.

In this announcement the public is apprised of the marriage of United States Senator William A. Clark to Miss Anna E. LaChapelle, the culmination of a romance that began about nine years ago. Three years have elapsed since, in Marseilles, France, the ceremony was performed that made the handsome child of the western mining fields the bride of the many times millionaire and United States senator. And with the announcement of the marriage comes the tidings that it has been blessed by the birth of a girl, now quite two years old.

Senator Clark informed his daughters, Mrs. Clark Culver and Mrs. Lewis Rutherford Morris of his marriage shortly after his arrival from Europe in the steamship Teutonic on June 30. The daughters were much surprised particularly as they had never objected to their father remarrying.

Mrs. Clark is about 35 years younger than the senator. She is the daughter of Dr. LaChapelle, who died suddenly in Chicago, after which event Senator Clark extended financial assistance to the family. He recognized Anna was a girl endowed with unusual intelligence, and made the girl his ward. Mrs. Clark is at present in Paris.

JUDGE PARKER

Did Not Send Telegram to Hill

Congratulations Pour In on the Candidate

ESOPUS, N. Y., July 12.—An explanatory statement of the long silence of Judge Parker was given by a close personal friend of the judge yesterday afternoon to the Associated Press. As a judge, said the authority, Judge Parker had kept silent on political questions, believing that it was not compatible with the dignity of a judge on the bench to discuss such questions. When he was prominently mentioned as a candidate for the presidency, Judge Parker thought that the people of the country knew his full views. He realized that the democratic party would be composed of two elements when the national convention assembled—radicals and conservatives. He knew that he was regarded as the candidate of the conservatives and became convinced that it was not necessary for him to make any statement of his views. Judge Parker had voted for Mr. Bryan in 1896 and 1900 and he had done so not because of, but in spite of, the silver plank. He did not think that anyone had any doubt as to where he stood, and had hoped to maintain his silence throughout the campaign preliminary to the convention.

Judge Parker had no intimation of the subject matter of the platform until after he had been notified by the Associated Press of his nomination, said the authority. When he had gone for his horseback ride, he realized that if he allowed the convention to adjourn without knowing his financial views, the people would regard as true Mr. Bryan's statement that the judge was tricking the convention and the party. He was not willing to profit by the nomination and thus be regarded as being guilty of trickery. It was then, said the informant, that Judge Parker decided to send a telegram to the convention. He returned from his ride and without consulting anyone, wrote the telegram to Mr. Sheehan, which was filed at Esopus at 11.50 a. m. on Saturday.

William H. Sheehan arrived at Esopus from St. Louis yesterday afternoon. He was met at the station by Mrs. Sheehan and was driven to his summer home near Rosemont. On the way Mr. Sheehan met Judge Parker, who was driving. The two gentlemen alighted and greeted each other. Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Sheehan then drove to the Sheehan house in one carriage and Judge Parker and Mr. Sheehan in the other. Later Mr. Sheehan made this statement to the Associated Press:

"I am authorized to say that no telegram was sent by Judge Parker to Senator Hill on any subject while the latter was in St. Louis."

Judge Parker returned home from Mr. Sheehan's residence at 7 o'clock after which he dined.

In reply to his telegram of congratulation to former Senator Henry G. Davis, the nominee for vice president, Judge Parker received the following:

"Delayed in reaching home. Thanks for your telegram. Most cordial congratulations to you and the country on your nomination. I feel proud and highly honored to be associated with you on the ticket.

(Signed) H. G. DAVIS."

Other telegrams received were:

Headquarters Bryan National Democratic club, Charleston, S. C.

"President and members send their sincere congratulations.

From Gov. Edwin Warfield of Maryland, dated Baltimore:

"The democracy of Maryland is enthusiastic over your nomination. You can count on her electoral vote by a splendid majority. Marylanders like your backbone and manly independence."

Among letters of congratulation received were letters from Judge C. H. Van Brunt of the appellate division supreme court, New York city; John P. Masterson, Albany and William Barnes, Sr., Albany, N. Y.

TRIPLE MARRIAGE

THREE SISTERS WED AT SAME TIME.

MANCHESTER, July 12—A remarkable wedding ceremony took place at Goff's Falls Monday morning at 8 o'clock, when three sisters were married to two brothers and a long-time friend of both families. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. X. Lyons in St. Francis church and a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties witnessed it.

The names of the three sisters were Celinir, Erminie and Merricliss Roy, and they are the daughters of Honore and Josephine Roy of Goff's Falls. The two brothers were Joseph P., and Theophile Charland, who have resided at 245 Pine street in this city and are employed as teamsters for a local concern. The third groom was John Gould of this city, a gardener.

The ceremony was a very impressive and interesting one. The brides were all dressed alike in handsome white gowns and all wore white hats. There were no attendants with the brides and grooms. The brides were given away by their father.

The couples were paired off and matrimonially joined as follows:

Joseph A. Charland and Celinir Roy, Theophile Charland and Erminie Roy, John Gould and Merricliss Roy. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the Charlands on Pine street after the wedding.

TAYLOR CONFESSED

ADMITTED THAT HE TOOK THE BANK'S MONE.

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—Robert B. Taylor, interest clerk of the Citizens' Central National bank of New York city, who was arrested while trying to dispose of bank notes, a part of $6720, which he had taken from the Central National bank before its merger with the Citizens' bank, and before the notes had been signed by the officers of the bank, made a confession yesterday to Secret Service Agent John E. Murphy and Henry Demse, cashier of the Citizens' National bank. Mr. Demse, in telling of the confession, said:

"Taylor has confessed the entire business. He states that when the money was delivered to him by the express messenger he took it. That was in October of last year before the merger of the two banks. He took the money to his home, where he dug a hole in the cellar under the front part of his house and buried it. It remained there unknown to anyone until a few weeks ago last Friday. One night while Mrs. Taylor was in the Adirondacks Taylor waited until his son had gone to bed and then secured the money from the cellar. He signed the notes and cut them apart. Before that they had been in sheets. He then took the train for St. Louis."

DIED ON SAME DAY

THE LATE BISHOP HUNTINGTON.

Bishop Hnntington and His Son Passed Away

HADLEY, July 12—Right Rev. Frederick Dan Huntington, Episcopal bishop of the Central diocese of New York, died at his summer home here yesterday afternoon. Death came at 4.30 o'clock and found the venerable clergyman in the room where he was born 85 years ago. The end was not unexpected as the bishop had been in failing health for several months as a result of a complication of diseases which old age denied him the strength to combat successfully. Two weeks ago there was a decided change for the worse and yesterday the patient was seized with congestive chills. His physicians then announced that death was imminent.

Following the wishes of the bishop, as expressed during his last illness, the funeral services will be characterized by simplicity. There will be a service at the old farm house at which only members of the immediate family and intimate friends will be present at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Right Rev. Charles Tyler Olmstead, of Utica, N. Y., bishop coadjutor and Bishop Huntington's successor will officiate. The interment will be made in the Huntington family burying ground at 5 o'clock.

The brief service at the grave will be public.

Bishop Huntington came to Hadley from his home in Syracuse, N. Y., on June 24, to spend, as was his custom, the warmer months at the farm where he was born and married. The day after his arrival, he attended the commencement exercises at Smith college, and offered prayer. This was his last public appearance, his rapid decline dating from a few days later.

Right Rev. Frederick Dan Huntington D. D. LL. D. Ph. D., was born in Hadley on the day of the birth of Queen Victoria (May 24, 1819.) His father was Rev. Dan Huntington, a Congregational minister. He was graduated from Amherst college in the class of 1838, of which he was valedictorian and was the last surviving member of that class. Soon after his graduation he entered the Unitarian ministry and for a number of years preached in the South Congregational church, the parish of which Rev. Edward Everett Hale is pastor emeritus. Dr. Huntington afterwards filled the Plummer chair of Theology at Harvard university.

While a professor at Harvard in 1851, Dr. Huntington accepted the doctrine of the Trinity and entered the Episcopal church. He was ordained priest in that year and became rector of Emmanuel church, Boston. He remained there until 1869 in which year he was elected bishop of the diocese of Albany. He declined this election but a little later was made bishop of Central N. Y., with headquarters at Syracuse. During his long episcopate the Episcopal church has rapidly grown in that diocese and he established numerous schools and hospitals. He was known as a conservative churchman and a sound theologian. He was known as a friend of laboring men and was the first president of the Church Association for the Advancement of Labor.

In 1843 Dr. Huntington married Miss Hannah Sargent of Boston.

Five children were born to them, all of whom survive. They are: Rev. Fr. J. O. S. Huntington, superior of the order of the Holy Cross, West Park, N. Y.; Rev. George P. Huntington, D. D. professor of Hebrew in Dartmouth college; Miss Arrie S. Huntington, for several years school commissioner of Syracuse; Miss Mary L. Huntington, also of Syracuse; Mrs. Archibald of Northampton.

The successor of Bishop Huntington will be Right Rev. Charles T. Olmstead, D. D., his bishop coadjutor.

PROF. HUNTINGTON DEAD.

HANOVER, N. H., July 12.—Dr. George P. Huntington, professor of Hebrew at Dartmouth college died last night of slow fever. Death occurred only a few hours after the receipt here of the intelligence of the death at Hadley, Mass. Yesterday afternoon of Dr. Huntington's father, the Right Rev. Frederick Dan Huntington, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Central New York.

For twelve years Dr. Huntington had been rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal church, although his connection with the chair of Hebrew of Dartmouth college was of more recent date.

As in the case of his father, Dr. Huntington's death was due to a complication of diseases. Six weeks ago he was attacked with a slow fever which later developed symptoms of typhoid.

Yesterday morning Dr. Huntington's physicians stated that the patient's condition was greatly improved. Last night the news was received here of the death yesterday afternoon in Hadley, Mass., of Dr. Huntington's father. Soon after Dr. Huntington was told of his father's death he was seized with a severe attack of asthma. His six weeks' illness had weakened him and he was unable to resist the attack and death soon followed. Dr. Huntington was 84 years of age. He leaves a widow, three sons and a daughter.

STEAMSHIP LOST

The San Jacinto Destroyed by Fire

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—The steamship San Jacinto of the Mallory line was damaged to the extent of $40,000 by fire today while lying at Roch's shipyard, Chester, Pa., where she was laid up for repairs. The flames were confined to the after part of the vessel between decks.

The boat was built by the Roch Ship Building company at a cost of over half a million dollars and was launched about a year ago. When completed the San Jacinto was placed on the line between New York and Galveston. She was brought to Chester on June 8 for repairs and would have been ready to take her regular run next week.

The fire originated in a room used for storing oil and varnish and had gained such headway before the arrival of the fire engines that the firemen divided their attention between the big vessel and the property of the ship building company adjacent to the dock.

HURLEY RAID

WAS DUE TO POLITICS SAYS EX-MAYOR.

SALEM, July 12.—Ex-Mayor Hurley says the raid on his store Sunday morning is the work of his political enemies. "I am in no way implicated in any illegal liquor traffic which may have been carried on in this city, and the complaint against me is the work of political enemies. Before the affair is ended, certain people will regret this thing," he said last night.

Mr. Hurley and Bernard Shutzkiver are named as the proprietors of a drug store which the police raided.

"We can prove that ex-Mayor Hurley is associated with Shutzkiver," declared Marshall Field last night, "and that the liquor discovered in the different parts of the building was owned by them."

"Ex-Mayor Hurley is the victim of scheming politicians," said ex-Alderman J. H. Cashman, a close friend of the accused.

"Political opponents fear that Mr. Hurley will enter the political field in the next campaign.

"Just wait until the real issue comes to light, and then I will enter the battle. I know many things at City hall of which the public has no inkling, and before this case is over, Salem will experience a sensation."

RECORD BROKEN

STANLEY CLIMBED MOUNT WASHINGTON IN 28 MINUTES.

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N. H., July 12.—A number of the automobilists who in yesterday's contest up Mount Washington broke the previous record of 48 minutes, 50 seconds, for the eight miles up the mountain, today continued the competition in an endeavor to lower yesterday's marks. F. E. Stanley in his six horse power steam machine, with which yesterday he came out ahead of all others, having ascended in 31 minutes, 16 seconds, succeeded today in clipping almost three minutes from his previous time. He made the ascent today in 28 minutes 19 2-5 seconds.

DANGEROUS FUN

Indulged in by Children on Canal Bridge

Georgette Bibeault, aged 3½ years, and Dewey Bibeault, aged 3½ years, children of Mr. Napoleon Bibeault of 88 Ford street, and Andre Bouthillette, aged 3½ years and son of Mr. Wilbrod Bouthillette, had a narrow escape from being drowned in the canal which flows between Ford and Cheever streets yesterday.

The three little ones were playing in the vicinity of the Aiken street canal bridge and crawled through the railing and walked out on the short ends of the planking which extends a little beyond these guards. These ends are very short and there is scarcely room for a foothold. Under their feet rolled the swift current of the canal, into which a misstep might have sent one or all in an instant.

The builders of the bridge made a mistake in not closing up these apertures so that children could not crawl through. Now the superintendent of streets is requested to look after this source of danger to children and anxiety to parents.

Mr. Thomas Willetts of 202 Lawrence street sails for England today to act as agent and demonstrator of the Ford Patent Ring machine.

GREWSOME FIND

CASKET CONTAINED BODY OF A CHILD.

LAWRENCE, July 12—Curtis Dearborn, proprietor of the second hand dealer's store at the corner of Common and Amesbury streets, has in his possession a curious and interesting relic. An uncle of the professor, who owns a farm near Salem, N. H., while plowing recently struck some metallic substance and when it was dug up it proved to be a metal coffin about three feet long.

When opened the casket was found to contain the bones of a human being, and from their size and the length of the coffin it is presumed thatt he bones were those of a child. The casket was covered with a thick coating of rust.

On the casket is a metal plate on which is inscribed some words which have not yet been deciphered owing to the accumulations of rust. An endeavor will be made today to clean the tablet and thus find out whose body reposed in the casket.

FIREMEN'S MUSTER

THE BOSTON VETERANS WANT THE MUSTER.

Since the New England States Veteran Firemen's association cannot be held in Fall River, the veterans of Boston are trying to get the muster if possible. Worcester, Providence and Portsmouth are also looking for it. There it not much chance of Providence getting it however, for Providence withdrew in favor of Fall River as the former city could not secure sufficient funds to pull the muster off.

The semi-annual election was held, and after twenty-nine ballots J. F. Jefts was made president.

The other officers are: Vice president, J. Acton; corresponding and recording secretary, William Ahearn; financial secretary, George Hooper; assistant financial secretary, Fred Ladoux; treasurer, H. FATALLY BURNED

LITTLE GIRL'S DRESS CAUGHT FIRE.

BLACKSTONE, July 12.—Esther, the 6-year-old daughter of John Bentley, was fatally burned while playing near her home yesterday morning. The girl was with a number of companions and one of them had a ball of waste.

One of the party lighted the waste and the fire caught on the Bentley girl's dress. She was entirely enveloped in a moment, and before the flames could be put out her chest, arms and head were frightfully burned. Dr. T. F. Roache was called and ordered her removal to the Woonsocket hospital, where it was reported last evening she had no chance for recovery.

FOR NEW SCHOOL

Education Committee Votes Loan of $70,000

FOR SCHOOL HOUSE IN CENTRALVILLE

Only One Member of Committee Opposed the Measure

The committee on education of the city council got together last evening at City hall and after another discussion finally voted to recommend that a loan of $70,000 for the building of a school in Ennell street be made. Councilman Mayberry was the only member in opposition.

Chairman Gallagher, who has been untiring in his efforts to bring the matter to a head, presided over the meeting and there were present Aldermen Miskella and Councilmen Cheney, Cosgrove and Mayberry.

The loan of $8000 for the Textile school was recommended without debate.

On motion of Councilman Cheney it was voted to view the Grand and Howard street schools with the idea toward alleviating the bad sanitation.

Alderman Miskella called up the Centralville school house matter and Councilman Cheney, a tonsorial artist by trade, expressed the belief that a 12-room school house could be built for $5000 a room or $10,000 less than Supt. Conlan had estimated. Councilman Cheney self-confidently stated that he did not believe that Supt. Conlan, who, by the way, is a practical brick work contractor and member of the Builders' Exchange, was competent to estimate such a large job.

Chairman Gallagher stated that the superintendent had made his estimate from the figures of several leading builders while Councilman Cosgrove, jokingly, remarked that he was surely as competent as the man who said that the High school annex could be built for $29,000.

Alderman Miskella stated that there has been enough play and dilly-dallying over the matter which has been before the city council for five years.

Councilman Mayberry wanted the loan divided among all of the sections, saying that he didn't believe a 12-room building was wanted in Centralville, when the Highland and Lincoln schools were so badly in need of extension. He thought a smaller building in Centralville would do well enough.

Councilman Cosgrove said $70,000, divided among the different districts, wouldn't do much in any one of them. He thought it would take $500,000 at least, to put every school house in the city in prime condition.

It was voted that the chairman be instructed to draw up a loan for $70,000, for the erection of a 12-room building in Ennell street. Councilman Mayberry alone opposed the loan.

Councilman Mayberry moved that a loan for $50,000, for a site, in the vicinity of Stevens and Midland streets, and for a building thereon be negotiated. It was not seconded.

On motion of Councilman Cosgrove the question of poor sanitation in the Edson, Butler and Lyon street schools be referred to the superintendent of lands and buildings for suggestions as to the best remedies for existing conditions.

Mr. Cheney moved that a site be looked up in the Highlands, for a new school building. Superintendent of Schools Whitcomb to accompany the committee.

BABY ATTACKED

By Hungry Rat in Salem Street House

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Letendre of 30 Salem street is suffering from the effects of a rat bite. The seven-weeks old baby was bitten during the night, about a week ago on the face, left wrist and palm of left hand. She lost considerable blood.

The house in which the family resides is very old and is infested with hungry rats whose boldness at times has alarmed the family yet the rodents had never attacked anybody. It was the little one's cries of pain that awoke her mother and the rat did not cease to bite his little victim until driven away.

CANADIANS LEAD

IN INTERNATIONAL CRICKET MATCH.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12—The 26th annual international cricket match between Canada and the United States, the latter represented by players picked from the various Philadelphia cricket clubs was begun yesterday on the grounds of the Merion Cricket club at Haverford, a suburb of this city. The weather was cloudy. The Canadians made 182 runs in their first inning and when stumps were drawn for the night the Americans had accumulated 132 runs for the loss of three wickets. For the visitors L. C. S. Saunders and Captain Simonds played excellent cricket, they making 61 and 51 runs respectively. J. B. King, for the Americans had a fine inning of 49.

WEALTHY BROKER

PICKED UP BY THE WORCESTER POLICE.

WORCESTER, July 12—George A. Andrews, 44 years old, a wealthy broker of Larchmont, N. Y., was picked up on the street in a dazed condition yesterday by Patrolman Daniel F. Sullivan and taken to the city hospital last night for treatment.

When Patrolman Sullivan addressed him he could give no account of himself, and the officer took him to police headquarters, where several unsuccessful attempts were made during the day to get his story from him. He did not have a cent in his clothes and could give absolutely no information regarding himself or his home. His mind was a blank.

Last night he called for doorman George W. Baker and said, "I remember now." He then told the officer who he was and that he lived in Larchmont in the next house to Fred Proctor, the theatrical man.

He said he left his home in Larchmont Tuesday and arrived Wednesday morning in Boston, where he registered at the hotel Essex. Since Wednesday his mind has been a blank. He does not know when or how he left Boston or when he arrived in Worcester.

As soon as he told his story he was taken to the city hospital at 9.15, and Chief of Police William J. F. Stone telegraphed his wife to come to Worcester for him.

EASTMAN TRIAL

Judge Foster Argued For the Defence

ALFRED, Me., July 12.—The jury in the trial of Dr. Charles A. Eastman of Boston and Old Orchard listened seven hours yesterday to arguments. County Attorney Emery will today conclude his argument, and it is anticipated that the case will go to the jury early in the afternoon.

Judge Enoch Foster of Portland made the closing argument for the defence, occupying four hours. He declared that the state had failed to prove the allegations that a murder was committed. On the contrary, the testimony showed that when Edith McIntire, at her home in Goldbhay Harbor, took a dose of oxalic acid, either accidentally or with suicidal intent, it caused the death of her unborn child, and that before she arrived at Dr. Eastman's sanitorium the condition which he is charged with having caused already existed; that, owing to her weakened constitution, she was on the brink of the grave.

Judge Foster further argued that every word and act of Dr. Eastman after the death of Miss McIntire was consistent with his plea of innocence. His flight from his Boston office, and aimless travelling from place to place in the suburbs was explained as simply being the result of nervousness over the publication of newspaper dispatches that he was wanted at Old Orchard on a charge of murder.

County Attorney Emery at the outset said that the charge on which the respondent was being tried was that of murder, but the indictment was so worded that a verdict of manslaughter might be rendered if the jury thought him guilty of that crime, rather than of murder.

In discussing the medical expert testimony, the county attorney said that two of the doctors who testified for the state performed the autopsy and saw the actual conditions; the third examined specimens sent him after the autopsy.

The letters written to Dr. Eastman by his wife, containing the mention of names of other women, prosperity patients, were cited as evidence of the kind of practice the respondent was following.

The county attorney sprung something of a sensation in his argument by declaring that the alleged "bedside record," a memorandum which the respondent testified was daily kept during Miss McIntire's illness, was made up in Alfred jail. He called the jury's attention to the entries from day to day, made in precisely the same kind of ink, the same character of shading, and that a partial blur, caused by an obstruction on the point of the pen, had run through three days of alleged hourly records of the patient's symptoms and treatment.

THIRTY YEARS ON MERRIMACK ST., ACROSS FROM CITY HALL

Manager of Broker's Office Despondent

CONCORD, N. H., July 12.—An explosion in the second story of the Exchange block on North Main street at 11.20 last night wrecked the inside of the building and resulted in a fire which caused damage estimated at $5000. The explosion occurred in the brokerage rooms of Cunningham & Co. and Chester E. Hooper of Everett, Mass, the local manager, was taken out of the room dead. What was at first believed to be a bullet wound was noticed in his head, but it was later set down as one of the results of the explosion. An autopsy will be held today.

The first evidence of the affair came when, accompanied by a huge volume of smoke, the windows in the front of the building were blown out on to the sidewalk and the entrance to the building filled with black smoke that made it almost impossible at first to enter the building. Capt. Flanders was in the vicinity at the time, and a detail of policemen soon arrived. It was some moments before an alarm of fire was sounded, and by that time the police were able to enter the building. The two upper stories of the building are almost exclusively occupied as tenements, and women, dressed only in their night clothes, commenced to come down stairs.

The police as quickly as possible went through the building awakening those who were distant from the explosion, and breaking open the doors to be certain that no one was left in the building. All the women were removed, but after the police and firemen were driven from the building by the smoke and flames two men were taken out in an almost unconscious condition, and one of them, a man named Collins, was taken to the hospital injured. The explosion occurred in the closet of the brokerage office, and soon after the flames had commenced to spread the door to the main office was broken open by Capt. Flanders, and Hooper was seen lying on the floor covered by debris. He was taken to the street below before the ambulance arrived. Little is known of the man as he has been in the city but a short time.

The fire was under control in a half hour, and while the damage was considerable, lots of interest in the dead man and the causes of the fire. It is alleged that the concern has not been prospering lately in its Concord business, and friends of Hooper said last night that he had been despondent of late. The suicide theory was explained when it was found that there were no gas connections in the room. Pending the autopsy the police are at a loss to ascribe any cause for the explosion.

TWO LIVES SAVED

Two Other Persons Were Drowned

CAMDEN, Me., July 12.—A double drowning in the harbor last night was followed by a sensational rescue, in which two other lives were saved only through the courage of the party.

The drowned:

ROBERT YOUNG, 19 years of age, of Waldo.

MAMIE BARKER, aged 23 years, of Camden.

The rescued:

Ernest Picket, aged 25 years, of Camden.

Fannie Willis, 22 years, of Rockland.

The two young couples were sailing off Sherman's Point when their boat was capsized.

Young and Miss Barker sank quickly and were drowned.

Picket, who is an athlete, seized Miss Willis and started to swim for shore. At the point where he touched, however, a sheer precipice arises, and it was only after repeated efforts that Picket secured a footing. His companion had become exhausted, and he was obliged to hold her in his arms to save her from falling into the water.

Cottagers who heard his cries were unable to locate them because of the fog. A telephone message was sent to this place, and parties in boats finally discovered the two in their perilous position. Picket, who was nearly exhausted, had lost his footing and was clinging to a crevice in the ledge with one hand, while with the other he supported the unconscious form of his companion. Neither will suffer seriously from their experience.

MANY VICTIMS

GAMBLING ON A FAMILY EXCURSION STEAMER.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 12—The failure of the authorities to suppress gambling on the family excursion steamer Corwin H. Spencer was evidenced yesterday by the receipt of complaints at the four courts from a number of victims, including Mr. and Mrs. Kisling of Boston, Mass. Mr. Kisling explained that he and his wife had lost $60 after being induced to play by a "capper" who assured that that they couldn't lose.

SUIT FOR $10,000

Growing Out of Pelham Trolley Accident

The trolley accident at Pelham, several months ago, is recalled by the announcement that suit for $10,000 has been brought against the Hudson, Pelham and Salem electric company by the estate of Abbie N. Dillon of West Brookfield, to recover for her death which is alleged to have been caused by injuries received while she was a passenger on one of the company's cars.

Abbie Dillon was among those who were injured in the disaster in Pelham, September 6, 1903, when several people were killed and a score injured by the collision of two high-speed cars. The injured woman died at a hospital in Lowell on the following day and in the suit is alleged to have suffered much during the time intervening between the accident and her death.

Yesterday morning Deputy Sheriff J. H. Hunt went to Pelham and armed with a writ attached the property of the railroad company to the amount named in the suit. This case is one of the few that was left unsettled, payments having been made by the road in nearly all of the other cases.

"KID" PARKER

REPORTED TO BE AMONG THE MISSING.

FALL RIVER, July 12.—Local sports are much excited over the disappearance of "Kid" Parker, well known as a wrestler. Parker came here last February and had been running a wrestling school. The rooms were fitted with stylish furniture, secured on the instalment plan from a local dealer.

A week ago Parker, who had been living at a lodging house with his wife, moved to a house on Third street and applied for permission to move the furniture of the wrestling school to that place. This permission was granted, but it is alleged the furniture was disposed of to various second-hand dealers and that Parker disappeared.

The balance of indebtedness on the goods, about $87, remains unpaid, and the matter was put in the hands of the police yesterday morning.

There are others besides the furniture firm who have claims on Parker.

SKULL FRACTURED

FESSENDEN WAS KILLED BY A FALL.

BOSTON, July 12.—Frank H. Fessenden, 55, custodian of the Museum of fine arts, was killed by a fall yesterday morning in the museum. The accident happened at a time when no one was within hearing distance. He was found unconscious on the floor soon afterward, and was sent to the City hospital. The physicians found that his skull had been fractured in two places and that several of his ribs had been broken. He died early last evening.

It is presumed that he was at work near the ceiling when the ladder slipped and threw him to the floor, a distance of some 20 feet.

Fessenden's home was at 159 Mystic street, Arlington.
